CHAMBERLAIN TO RENEW PEACE DRIVE IN ITALY

British Premier Off for Rome Today.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, his bag packed with appeasement and fortified by President Roosevelt's thundering denunciation of dictators, will set out for Rome tomorrow morning. If possible he will try to find out Premier Mussolini's price for evacuating Italian troops from Spain and for leaving Reichsfuehrer Hitler in the lurch.

At the same time British opponents of Chamberlain will keep a close eye on the Rome conference to see that the "old fellow" does not give anything away as he did at Munich last September when Germany won Sudetenland from Czecho-Slovakia.

Cry "Chamberlain Must Go."

A crowd of 400 demonstrators swarmed down Whitehall tonight crying "Chamberlain must go!" Police reserves were called out to head them off from Downing street. Only a small delegation was allowed to approach No. 10—the prime minister's official residence—to present a petition.

Chamberlain will be accompanied to Italy by Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary; Sir Alexander Cadogan, undersecretary for foreign affairs; Maurice Ingram, head of the Italian department of the foreign office, and three secretaries. The delegation will remain in Rome from Wednesday through Saturday. The visit will include Roman festivities and one heart to heart talk between Chamberlain and Mussolini in the Palazzo Venezia with no interpreters present.

Plan Stop in Paris.

On their way to Rome, Chamberlain and Halifax will stop off in Paris to visit Premier Edouard Daladier, who has just returned from a barnstorming tour of Corsica, French Mediterranean island department, and France's North African empire. Daladier is expected to reaffirm his nation's desire that the British make no concessions in behalf of France while in Rome by way of mediation in the French-Italian row over Tunisia in North Africa and Djibouti, strategic port of French Somaliland on the Gulf of Aden in East Africa.

The French insist on dealing with Mussolini themselves, if any negotiations are to take place on Il Duce's demands for a greater empire at the expense of France.

Spain, no doubt, will loom large in the Chamberlain-Mussolini conversations. Il Duce, it seems, has the bull by the horns in Spain and cannot let go. Chamberlain may be able to help him by offering a big loan if he will withdraw Italian fighters who are helping Generalissimo Francisco Franco, rebel commander in chief.

To Remind Duce of Pledges.

Mussolini very likely will be sharply reminded of pledges under the British-Italian agreement of April 16 to respect the territorial integrity of Spain. Under that pact Il Duce agreed to remove Italian fighters from Spain at or before the end of the civil war.

Whatever the scope of the Rome talks, the eyes of the world will be directed on the Italian capital to see the effects of Chamberlain's visit on weakening the Rome-Berlin axis. Mussolini is reported to be sick of doing all the chores for Hitler and not getting anything substantial out of his cooperation.

Using Mr. Roosevelt's anti-dictator blast as a lever, Chamberlain, according to his opponents, is seeking to coin a new slogan, "economic appeasement." They maintain he plans to dangle British financial resources as an economic bribe before the totalitarian states in return for political concessions.

Duce to Tell What He Wants.

ROME, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Italians today indicated that Premier Mussolini would tell Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain in their talks beginning here Wednesday what Italy wants from France.

This would be done in the hope that Chamberlain would help Italy achieve her ambitions in eventual negotiations.

If Chamberlain learns Italian demands and intentions, he will be expected to "clear the way of obstacles," as the newspaper La Tribuna expressed it, by putting in a good word with France.

"And if such work is not mediation," Tribuna added, "another name will have to be found to describe it better."

MORAN FORGERY PLOT UPSET BY SPY, JURY TOLD

When Bugs Moran was arrested as a suspect in a $500,000 forgery plot against the American Express company last April, the underworld asked, "Who talked?"

The underworld, Moran, and a jury in Judge James Fardy's court learned the answer yesterday from Robert Wright, assistant state's attorney. He said in his opening statement at the jury trial of Moran and two co-defendants that the state would show Moran and his confederates took into their confidence as a member of the gang an attorney named Emil Van Beeber.

Actual Loss Is Small.

Van Beeber revealed the plot to the express company, the prosecutor said. It was smashed with only a small loss.

Moran, whose first name is George, was the leader of the prohibition era gang that was almost wiped out in the Valentine day massacre in 1929. The state charges he was one of the leaders of a plot to forge and cash half a million dollars' worth of the express company's travelers' checks.

And that scheme, the state contends, was to be only the beginning of a fantastic forgery plot that included railroad bonds and liquor stamps.

Ten Are Arrested.

Moran and nine others arrested with him were charged with forgery. But the mystery of how the plot was exposed remained a secret until Prosecutor Wright spoke yesterday at the trial of Moran, Frankie Parker, and Frank Hicketts. Parker was known as the airplane bootlegger during prohibition.

Wright said Carl Silver, a former Moran gangster who has never been captured, first broached the scheme to Berger Hanson, the engraver, who has confessed forging the plates on which the checks were produced. Hanson took the job for $600, as the prosecutor outlined the case. The first $20,000 worth of checks were unsatisfactory, Prosecutor Wright told the jury, Moran suggesting changes which Hanson made.

Parker meanwhile was visiting Van Beeber's office in the Reaper block occasionally, the prosecutor said, to have letters written by Van Beeber's stenographer. Parker told Van Beeber he had some fraudulent paper to get rid of and asked if Van Beeber would help, Wright declared.

Forged Checks Delivered.

Parker and Moran entertained Van Beeber at lunch. The state charges it was then that Parker delivered forged checks in amounts aggregating $1,050 to Van Beeber.

Van Beeber had secretly asked advice of Sergt. Walter Paradowski of the detective bureau and had been advised to tell his story to the express company. The company, the prosecutor intimated, urged Van Beeber to pretend to work with the gang. Van Beeber, therefore, gave Parker $150 for the forged checks, and also kept 150 of the forged checks, for Parker, Prosecutor Wright told the jury. Parker later called for these checks and departed, but Van Beeber already had let the company register their numbers.

Watch Plot Unfold.

The express company thus was enabled to watch the plot as it unfolded. A week after Parker delivered the checks to Van Beeber, Parker dined with him in a Van Buren street restaurant, and told him some one was betraying the gang, Wright related.

The prosecutor said the plan had been to cash the checks simultaneously in many parts of the country. One of them, for $50, was cashed in a loop shoe store. The three men who cashed it fled to Pittsburgh, where they were arrested. Moran and the other suspects were then seized.

Van Beeber will be one of the state's first witnesses today. The engraver, Hanson, will also testify. Hanson, Emil Ahrens, and Del F. Bruno have already confessed their part in the plot and pleaded guilty.

Heiress of 70 Loses Suit for Price of Love

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—An elderly heiress who obtained a husband nearly thirty years younger than herself by paying him $400,000 received her money's worth even though she lost him after a year, Vice Chancellor William Frank Sooy ruled today. The court held that the gift was in love and all was fair in both the joy and the hate that followed.

Norman Stewart.

The vice chancellor denied the suit of Mrs. Martha Jane McClatchey Stewart, 70 years old, heiress to a tomato catsup fortune, who sought to reclaim the $400,000 she had given to Norman Stewart, 43 years old.

Takes Over Company.

Stewart, who was described as a $40 a week insurance clerk before his marriage, soon took over control of the catsup company in which his wife owned stock. He deposed her from a job as vice president, for which she was paid $5,000 a year, the court was told. Within a short time after his marriage in 1938 when he was 39 and the heiress 67, Stewart was receiving $25,000 a year as an executive of the catsup firm.

"It would appear," Vice Chancellor Sooy said, in commenting at length on the winter and summer romance, "that the complainant wanted a young husband and was willing to pay for the anticipated pleasure of having him.

"This she had a right to do, and in so doing she bought for better or worse in so far as she was not deceived by him."

Rules She Paid His Price.

The judge said it was apparent that Stewart married the elderly woman for the sole purpose of getting a sizable portion of her income as quickly as possible.

Mrs. Stewart had charged that her ambitious husband had fraudulently induced her to give him stock in the catsup company, to which he subsequently added purchases of his own until he held control of the company.

"She was in love with him and the gift was on that basis," the vice chancellor said. "The separation was in hate and what transpired thereafter was on that basis."

Therefore, Vice Chancellor Sooy ruled, Mrs. Stewart must abide by the consequences of her act.

WHY SHOULD A JUROR BE EXPECTED TO KNOW ALL A JUDGE KNOWS?

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The prospective juror gazed around Judge E. G. Stooksbury's courtroom today when the judge asked if he knew the defendants.

"No," was the reply.

"Do you know the deceased?" the court asked.

Again the venireman's eyes searched the courtroom.

GIRL'S AT HOME IN JUNGLE BUT IN CITY SHE'S LOST

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Claudia Leighton, 16 years old, guided her explorer and zoölogist husband, Howard, through the jungles of Costa Rica before they were married, but when they came here on their honeymoon she got lost in the strange city.

"Everybody looked at me," she said, possibly because she wore shoes made from the skin of a jaguar her husband had shot. She could speak no English.

Some twelve hours later she met Mrs. Ralph Sonseda, who spoke Spanish, but Claudia had forgotten her address. That was last Saturday. The Sonsedas took care of her and today saw a picture of the missing bride in a newspaper. "I'm going to give her an address tag to wear when she goes walking again," said Leighton.

Crosses Sea to Marry Man She Hasn't Seen in 11 Years

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 9.—Sarah Tomilson arrived here from Wales today to marry a sweetheart she hasn't seen for eleven years. Joseph Jones, her fiancé, lives on a farm near Viking, Alta. Miss Tomilson said she intended to find out if she liked farm life before she became Mrs. Jones. "I don't want to be broken hearted later," she said. "I hope he hasn't grown a beard."

Governor Puts a Stop to Nonstop Elevator Rides

Boston, Mass., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Nonstop trips on state house elevators with the chief executive as the only passenger—an old custom—ended today when the lift whizzed by a group on the second floor as Gov. Leverett Saltonstall was on his way to lunch. The governor told the operator to pick up other passengers in the future. "I like to ride with people," he said.

Has 11 Suits, None Suitable for This Party

Guests dropped in unexpectedly yesterday while Lawrence Weber was away. They admired his eleven suits. They envied him his twenty-four pairs of shoes. They wished they had as many hats. They wondered how he ever made a choice from a gross or so of ties. Had they peeked into a half a dozen suitcases they would have wondered even more how he selected from his supply of gorgeous underwear.

Lawrence Weber, nevertheless, was dreadfully embarrassed when he arrived home and his guests invited him to go out with them. He hadn't a suitable thing to wear.

However, Lawrence never was one to spoil a party. He put on his top hat, his evening tails, a pair of tan brogues, and the most hopeless looking old brown four-in-hand tie that ever got within speaking distance of his gleaming white waistcoat.

Like Old Christmas Tree.

If he looked like a Christmas tree it was one of those Christmas trees you see in a back alley about this time of year. But he was dressed precisely as his guests wished—in clothes that really were his own.

The guests were Detectives John Lancaster, James Smith, Thomas Mackey, and James Sullivan of the Cragin police. They wanted to take him to the lockup for the fifty burglaries and holdups in which he'd got his clothes. When they told him he mustn't wear anything that was stolen he had to take off the clothes he'd been wearing.

Everything but the evening clothes, he explained, came from shops he'd visited with a gun or through a back window in the dark. You can shop for business and sports suits that way, he said, but you simply have to buy your evening clothes to be correct. Even the guns beneath the mattress in his room at 1842 Monroe street were stolen.

Comrades Tell About Him.

The police learned about Weber, who is 20 years old, from talking to two of his comrades, Sidney Barden, 21, of 1742 Madison street, and George Albert Smith, 19, of 329 South Wolcott avenue. Arrested when police wondered why they were using automobile license plates of cardboard, Barden and Smith told about the fifty crimes in which they said Weber led them.

They didn't want the police to think they were trying to be clubby with Weber, though. They spent their evenings in poolrooms. He spent his in night clubs. But he was friendly, they said—called them his hoi polloi.

Police Put on Alert by Story of Gun Threat

Three escaped criminal maniacs from Ohio, one of whom has vowed to kill his former wife and two policemen in Chicago, were reported seen on the south side last night. Police squads immediately were sent into south side districts with instructions to take no chances. Guards at the homes of the persons threatened were ordered to exercise greater vigilance.

The apparent appearance of the desperadoes in Chicago was reported by a colored chauffeur who was threatened with a sawed-off shotgun by one of three men in an automobile.

Escape New Year's Day.

The men being sought are Frank Haines, 36 years old, the leader, who formerly lived in Chicago; William Blatz, a native of Maine, and Marion Pierce, colored, of Indianapolis. The three escaped on New Year's day with two other men from the Lima state hospital for the criminal insane at Lima, O. The two others, Russell Nuckels and Willard Brucks, have been recaptured.

Haines is the man who has sworn to kill his ex-wife and the policemen. The latter are Lieut. Redmond Gibbons and Policeman Louis Olson. In 1931 they captured Haines and sent him to prison. That is his revenge motive.

Two of the fugitives were known to have participated in a sensational raid on a National Guard armory in Omaha, Neb., Saturday night in an effort to steal some guns. Brucks was recaptured at that time.

Renew Watch for Maniacs.

After the Omaha raid, police in all midwestern cities renewed their special watch for the desperadoes. It was not unexpected that Haines and Blatz might head for Chicago. The Negro, Pierce, was supposed to be in Fort Wayne. That he rejoined them in Chicago last night was the conclusion drawn by police from the story told by the colored chauffeur.

He is Albert Gage, 35 years old, 16 West Garfield boulevard, chauffeur for Herman Kramer, 5528 Everett avenue, an insurance broker. Gage stopped behind a stalled automobile in 56th street at Hyde Park boulevard last night. He noticed two white men and a colored man in the car.

One of the white men alighted and asked him to push their stalled car. Gage said he could not because it was against his employer's orders. The man returned to his automobile, then reappeared with a sawed-off shotgun. "Now will you give us a push" he demanded. He forced his way into the car and sat beside Gage.

Obeys at Point of Gun.

Gage obeyed. He pushed the stalled car carrying the white man and the Negro into Jackson park. On the way his armed companion asked him one question "Do you know a Policeman Gibbons?" he asked. Gage knows Lieut. Gibbons, but said he didn't.

Meantime the motor of the gunman's car ahead had started. As he left Gage's car to rejoin his companions he warned Gage: "Don't tell anybody about this."

Gage hurried to the Woodlawn station. His story of the gunman's remark about Policeman Gibbons led police to assume the man was Haines and his companions, Blatz and Pierce. Another significant detail was the fact the hoodlums' car bore an Iowa license. This indicated that after the Omaha armory raid the felons crossed the Iowa border and stole an Iowa car.

HOPKINS FACES SENATE QUIZ ON SPENDING IDEAS

Call Writers to Tell of Disputed 'Quote.'

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—The senate commerce committee agreed today to investigate the charge that Harry L. Hopkins, former WPA administrator and newly appointed secretary of commerce, expressed the whole philosophy of the Roosevelt administration in an aphorism.

"We will spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect," Mr. Hopkins is reputed to have told intimates at the Empire race track in Yonkers, N. Y., last fall.

Two Washington newspaper men, Frank Kent of the Baltimore Sun and later Arthur Krock of the New York Times, attributed this remark to Hopkins in their respective columns and he denied having made it. They insisted, however, that their informant was thoroughly reliable.

Writers Are Subpenaed.

The senate commerce committee, which has under consideration Hopkins' nomination, today subpenaed Kent and Krock to appear Wednesday before the full committee in open session. Hopkins was invited to appear at the same time or to send a representative if he could not be present. He announced that he would appear. Thus Mr. Hopkins and his accusers will be brought face to face.

Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N C.], new anti-New Deal chairman of the commerce committee, made no public announcement concerning the summoning of Kent and Krock, but it was learned from members of the committee that they had been called. Later it was learned that the newspaper men had received summonses.

Chairman Bailey also declared that Hopkins would be questioned about the use of relief appropriations for political purposes. The report of the senate campaign expenditures committee, condemning the political activity of the WPA, will be used as the basis for this phase of the examination, Senator Bailey said.

Scrutinize Other Appointments.

Meanwhile it became increasingly apparent that President Roosevelt's other important nominations will be carefully scrutinized before they are confirmed by the senate. Felix Frankfurter, Harvard law school professor and nominee for the United States Supreme court, has designated Dean Acheson, former undersecretary of the treasury, to represent him before a senate judiciary subcommittee at hearings beginning tomorrow. However, Senator William H. King [D., Utah], a member of the subcommittee, said that Frankfurter himself undoubtedly would be called later.

The invitation for Prof. Frankfurter to appear in person or have counsel present at the beginning of the hearings, Senator King said, was merely a courtesy to give the nominee an opportunity to reply to witnesses who might appear in opposition to confirmation. Prof. Frankfurter chose not to appear, but after the opposition witnesses are heard he will be called, Senator King said.

Decide Procedure on Murphy.

Senator Marvel M. Logan [D., Ky.], chairman of a judiciary subcommittee considering the appointment of Frank Murphy as attorney general of the United States, called an executive meeting for tomorrow to determine the procedure to be followed. Murphy, a zealous New Dealer who was defeated for reelection as governor of Michigan, is to be questioned about his attitude toward law enforcement as exemplified by his toleration of the violent C. I. O. sitdown strikes in the automobile industry.

Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.] complained in the senate today about the failure of the agriculture committee to begin consideration of the nomination of former Senator James P. Pope, a defeated Idaho yesman, to be a member of the board of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], the chairman of this committee, is a survivor of President Roosevelt's ill-fated purge adventure and apparently is in no hurry to confirm Mr. Pope.

Fears Effect on Lilienthal.

Norris, the so-called father of the TVA, protested that the failure of the senate to act might mean the death of David E. Lilienthal, a member of the TVA board. Lilienthal, he said, was afflicted with a strange fever and suffered a relapse as a result of the "great burden" he was called upon to carry.

When Senator H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.] again challenged the validity of the Pope appointment, on the ground that President Roosevelt removed former TVA Chairman Arthur E. Morgan illegally, Norris defended the appointment. He was forced to admit, however, that he wrote the provision of the act vesting in congress the power of removing TVA board members.

When Senator Bridges challenged Norris to point out any provision in the act giving the President the removal power, Norris said he was "not going to argue that question."

Senator Bridges explained that the question of President Roosevelt's removal power is pending in the courts in a suit brought by Dr. Morgan and contended that action by the senate confirming Mr. Pope would prejudice the issue in the courts. Norris argued that senate delay, pending final determination by the Supreme court, would "deal almost a death blow to the TVA."

THREE ON TRIAL FOR PLANE SALE IN BOLIVIA WAR

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—John S. Allard, president of the Curtiss-Wright Export corporation, and two other men went on trial in federal court today on four indictments charging delivery of airplanes to the Bolivian government during Bolivia's war with Paraguay over the Chaco boundary.

The other defendants are Ralph S. Damon, vice president of the American Airlines and former president of the Curtiss-Wright Airplane company, and Clarence W. Webster, South American sales manager for the export corporation. Also on trial are the Curtiss-Wright Export corporation, the Curtiss-Wright Aeroplane and Motor Co., Inc., and the Curtiss-Wright Airplane company.

The indictments charge the defendants conspired between Oct. 5, 1934, and some time later than May 15, 1935, to sell airplanes to the Bolivian government in the face of a federal restriction.

LEWIS SHOULD BE IN JAIL, MEMBER OF HOUSE INSISTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Representative John C. Schafer [R., Wis.], told the house today that John L. Lewis "ought to be in the jail house with Al Capone, No. 1 racketeer," because, he said, "Lewis has a gang of communists. He bought a mortgage on the Democratic party for $500,000, money that he shook out of the paychecks of the coal miners."

Charging illegal solicitation of campaign funds in Wisconsin, Schafer said:

"Not many months ago, in violation of the criminal law in my state, which provides penalties for shaking down corporations and accepting campaign contributions, you [Democrats] shook down thousands and thousands of dollars to get oats to feed this New Deal jackass."

GLASS OPPOSES JUDGE NOMINEE; BASIS PERSONAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Senator Glass [D., Va.] said today President Roosevelt's nomination of Floyd H. Roberts of Bristol, Va., to be a federal judge was "utterly and personally offensive" to the Virginia senators.

His statement was made to the judiciary committee in reply to a formal notification from the committee of Roberts' appointment to the western Virginia district and a request from the committee for a statement of his views.

Judge Roberts, former judge of the Bristol Corporation court, was given a recess appointment to the federal bench last summer. He has already taken the oath of office.

Symphony Soloist to Play Double Keyboard Piano

Winifred Christie, who appears as soloist tonight with the Woman's Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall, will play a new double keyboard piano, the invention of her husband, Emanuel Moor. One keyboard is tuned an octave higher than the other and they may be played separately or together by means of a pedal coupler. Instead of being more difficult than the standard piano the new keyboard is easier to play, particularly for children who have difficulty reaching widespread chords on a single keyboard, Miss Christie said.

N.Y. Could Balance Budget if More Were Like Albert

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Magistrate Thomas A. Aurelio today told Albert M. Pellegrini, 31 years old, that "if the city of New York had a few more customers like you we could balance the budget." The magistrate's remarks were prompted by Pellegrini's accumulation of twenty-three parking tickets since Oct. 17. Pellegrini was sentenced to forty-six days in jail in default of $115 in fines at the rate of $5, or two days in jail on each charge.

Congresswoman Sumner Picks Miss Nevin as Aid

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Representative Jessie Sumner [R., Ill.] engaged as her secretary today Miss Frances Nevins, who formerly served Senator Otis Glenn of Illinois in the same capacity. Miss Nevins, born at Litchfield, Ill., also has lived in Springfield, Chicago, and Carlinville.

CURB SPENDING OR CRASH, HOUSE MEMBER WARNS

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—On the floor of the house today Representative Robert Rich [R., Pa.] warned members that continued spending will bring upon the United States one of the worst financial wrecks in the history of the world.

Rep. Robert Rich.

Only a tepid defense was raised by administration leaders, while conservative Democrats and Republicans applauded. Representative Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] followed Rich with an invitation to Democratic "tweedle-dums," as President Roosevelt termed conservative Democrats in his Jackson day speech, to join the Republican party, where they will be appreciated.

Recalls Unredeemed Pledges.

Representative Rich read President Roosevelt's pledge in 1932 to reduce federal expenditures by 25 per cent and subsequent promises by the President in 1934 and 1935 to balance the budget.

"The President never has handled his own affairs or his own pay roll," Rich declared, "but nevertheless we had a right to expect him to be as good as his word. We now face another year which will place us nearly 4 billions deeper in the red. If this spending is continued you are going to see one of the worst financial wrecks in the history of the world.

Representative Knutson said the Republican party will welcome to its ranks the "tweedle-dum" Democrats whom the President invited to leave the party in his $100 a plate dinner speech last Saturday night.

Extends G. O. P. Welcome.

"He told you to get out of the party," Knutson addressed the Democratic side of the house. "He himself got out of the Democratic party long ago to head the New Deal party.

"He called you economic feudalists a year ago. Now you are 'tweedledums.' We will be glad to welcome you gentlemen into a party where you will be appreciated."

Noting that the President, in his annual message, had challenged congress to determine which governmental activities should be reduced, Representative Bruce Barton [R., N. Y.] introduced a joint resolution for abolition of the National Emergency council. He termed the council a front for a band of 290 press agents who have spent $3,850,000 in the dissemination of publicity and propaganda.

Prepare to Slash WPA Budget.

While this debate was exciting the chamber members of an appropriations subcommittee completed hearings on the President's request for 875 million dollars to finance the Works Progress administration from Feb. 1 to June 30.

Members of the subcommittee pledged themselves to silence, but it generally was reported that they plan to slash the appropriation at least 250 million dollars in their report to the full committee.

Estimates of the amount which probably will be recommended ranged from 500 to 700 millions, with one report placing the figure at 625 millions—a quarter of a billion dollars below Mr. Roosevelt's request.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Clifton A. Woodrum [D., Va.], today heard several witnesses urge the appropriation of even a larger sum than the President suggested.

La Guardia Leads Booster Parade.

Mayor F. H. La Guardia of New York City insisted that 915 millions be appropriated. He declared that 3,000,000 men ought to be kept on WPA rolls even though the expected spring pickup in private industry should absorb a large number of unemployed.

Ralph Hetzel, assistant to John L. Lewis, czar of the C. I. O., raised La Guardia's bid to one billion dollars. David Lasser, head of the Workers' Alliance, an organization of WPA employes dominated by the communist party, declared one billion 50 million dollars will be needed.

Representatives of music projects and domestic training projects of the WPA also pleaded with the committee not to appropriate a sum which would curtail their activities.

Harrington Wants Full Sum.

Col. F. C. Harrington, administrator of WPA, said at the close of the hearings that he hoped the full figure of 875 millions will be approved by the subcommittee. But according to reliable reports the successor to Harry L. Hopkins will be satisfied with a lower figure.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] ranking minority member of the subcommittee, declared against any direct appropriation for WPA.

"I don't mean I'm against relief," he said, "but we'll never solve this problem by continuing to supply funds for the WPA racket."

The subcommittee will decide tomorrow the amount to be appropriated and will report to the full appropriations committee on Wednesday. The bill may be reported to the house Thursday or Friday.

NAB ALLEGED JOB SELLER AS 'PAY CHECKS' BOUNCE

Chester Dudzinski, the Racine avenue police were told last night, sold promises of state jobs, then kept his victims temporarily happy by issuing fake pay checks. The victims were happy until the checks bounced.

Dudzinski, who sometimes uses the name of Chester Griezek, was arrested by policemen Joseph Ponicki and Edward Kennedy last night on a warant obtained by Casimir Krawczyk, 2516 North Wayne avenue. Krawczyk said he paid $300 to Dudzinski for a state oil inspector's job which did not materialize.

Three other complaints were made by Paul Schleifer, 2505 Kimball avenue; Walter Matusiak, 1631 North Wood street, and Larry Spencer, 1317 Wicker Park avenue. All said they had known Dudzinski for some time. Dudzinski lives at 1627 Bosworth avenue. In 1931 police investigated a man of the same name who was suspected of working a $1,200 swindle involving a deputy sheriff's job.

Tells Roosevelt Deal

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Back to Ohio to attend the inauguration of John W. Bricker as governor, United States Senator Robert A. Taft said today that persistent rumors in Washington indicated that President Roosevelt had made a deal with conservative Democrats whereby his appointments would be confirmed in return for allowing them to write the legislative program.

These appointments, Taft told a press conference, were Harry Hopkins as secretary of commerce, Frank Murphy as attorney general, and Felix Frankfurter as Supreme court justice.

"I don't know whether the rumors are true," Taft said. "If they are, the confirmations will be made and New Deal legislation will be out."

URGE CONGRESS TO HASTEN AIR DEFENSE PLANS

Advisers Explain Need for Strong Force.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Immediate adoption of a program for developing a stronger air defense and for expanding the aircraft industry was recommended in the report of the national advisory committee for aeronautics which President Roosevelt transmitted to congress today.

The report is the prelude to the special message on strengthening the defense of the United States which the President will transmit this week, possibly tomorrow. Mr. Roosevelt will recommend expansion of naval, land, and air defenses costing about 500 million dollars. He read the first draft of the message today to Vice President John N. Garner and senate and house Democratic leaders.

U. S. Leads Development.

The United States, said the committee, has led in the technical development of aircraft because of the support of organized scientific research in the Langley field laboratories, but now this leadership is threatened by the great expansion of research facilities in other nations.

With patent reference to Germany the report said: "The history of 1938 bears witness as to how a nation in the space of a few years, by concentrating much of its scientific research and industrial resources on the development of air power, could gain, for the time being, a dominating position."

The information the committee obtained regarding German aviation is known to have been supplied by one of its members, Charles A. Lindbergh.

World Attention Drawn.

"The crisis in Europe in the fall of 1938," says the report, "brought forcibly to world-wide attention the overshadowing influence of air power in international affairs. The realization that aircraft had been built in great numbers and developed to a point where planes are capable of operating at high speeds over long distances with large bombing loads thrust upon the world a new concept of national defense.

"The committee, therefore, in the interests of peace and security, recommends the development by the army and navy of adequate and effective air arms, and the early adoption of a sound program for expanding the productive capacity of the aircraft industry and for training the necessary active and reserve personnel.

"The major European powers at the present time are engaged on relatively large aircraft building programs which are being prosecuted under feverish pressure.

Great Speed Needed.

"The advances in aeronautical science are so rapid that assiduous attention to the subject cannot with safety be suspended for even a brief period. Where a few years ago we were pleased with speeds of around 200 miles an hour, we now seek to attain, with fully loaded service airplanes, speeds of 300 and 400 miles an hour.

"It is not only good policy from a financial consideration, but also vital from the standpoint of national defense, that American aircraft have a performance equal or superior to that of a potential enemy."

The President talked about defense today with Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, and Ambassadors William C. Bullitt and Joseph P. Kennedy who are home from Paris and London, respectively. To lay the foundation for armament recommendations which Mr. Roosevelt bases on the reputed danger of attack by foreign dictators, the ambassadors will appear before the senate and house military affairs committees tomorrow to describe conditions in Europe.

STATE PREPARES LAWRENCE TRIAL IN PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP)—District Attorney Carl B. Shelley and his staf secreted themselves today preparing for the trial of Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence and the renewal of the grand jury investigation of charges made against Gov. George H. Earle and other high Pennsylvania Democrats in the spring primary campaign.

The grand jury of eleven Republicans and eleven Democrats will reconvene tomorrow. Last Saturday it indicted the Democratic state chairman and secretary of the commonwealth on charges of blackmail, conspiracy to cheat and defraud, and violation of the election laws.

SUPREME COURT NOMINEE CLIMBS CHAIR FOR CLASS

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Felix Frankfurter, newest appointee to the nation's highest tribunal, perched himself comfortably on the back of a chair today to conduct his Harvard law class in "public utilities."

A burst of student applause greeted the stocky Frankfurter as he strode down the aile for his first class since his nomination to the Supreme court last week. As he reached the platform, he turned with a grin and remarked:

"Thank you—but it won't make the course any easier."

HITLER'S MIGHT IN AIR ALARMS BRITISH PUBLIC

Nation Wonders Why It Lost Supremacy.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—What has happened to the British air force, which once had the jump on all the rest of the world? This is a question of growing public concern in this country since American sources began disclosing figures on comparative production capacity.

Alarmed Britons are asking this question: Why, when the British air organization was at one time so far advanced as compared with other countries, did last September's war scare leading up to the peace of Munich reveal the axis powers, Germany and Italy, so overwhelmingly superior in the air?

Not only are statesmen such as Winston Churchill and his son-in-law, E. D. Sandys, and other public figures dismayed. The public, too, is jittery at what is alleged to be inefficiency not only in aircraft production and organization but also in the methods of defense against aircraft.

Nazi Production Increases.

These fears have been increased in England, which is the world's best target for bombing, by reports that German aircraft production has in no way abated, but on the contrary has increased since the Munich pact which dismembered Czecho-Slovakia. This seems to confirm reports that Reichsfuehrer Hitler has ordered his air force to be ready for any emergency by early spring.

The British deny the accuracy of statistics compiled by experts of the United States war department to the effect that Germany had 10,000 fighting planes last September and that the axis powers were six times stronger than France, Britain, and the United States. However, without mentioning figures the British admit the German first line strength is more than twice that of Britain.

They also admit that the Germans are employing 400,000 workers in two eight-hour shifts in aviation plants and in some cases three, while Britain has only 100,000 similarly employed. This would tend to confirm that German production is going on at a rate of four times that of the British.

Know Germany Is Superior.

Furthermore, some British critics are willing to concede that German production now is approximating the capacity attained by the British at the end of the world war when England was turning out 2,500 planes a month.

"What is the cause of all this?" asks a rising chorus of alarmed Britons. "Why can't Britain get back to the position it had at the end of the war?"

They know that Germany's air force is enormously superior. They know that opposition leaders in parliament have been attacking air ministry inefficiency for two years. But all that is known about the present state of British air power is Sir Kingsley Wood's statement in parliament last November.

He said that aircraft manufacturers were working at full production, that the announced program of 2,370 first line planes for the metropolitan area, 490 for overseas use, and 500 for the fleet air arm—a total of 3,360 by 1940—would be completed on time.

Wood, who is secretary of state for air, announced that British production was 50 per cent higher than last May and would be 150 per cent higher by May of 1939.

But these figures of slightly less than 3,500 planes for next year make the prospect even more appalling to the British populace when they read that Germany's first line strength last September, by the most conservative estimate, was more than 3,500 planes.

British Understate Strength

Two factors may enter here to lessen alarm. The first is that the British are greatly understating their production, which, moreover, is augmented by purchases in the United States and Canada. The second is that they are centering on perfecting the machinery of production so that it can be set in motion at any given emergency time, thus avoiding immediate overproduction of planes that soon might be outmoded. This is done in order to conserve money and materials.

Nevertheless, the specter of German superiority is not vanquished by these reassurances and critics continue to declare there is inefficiency in the government's aviation departments and that the expansion program can not go ahead without reorganization and substitution of the ministry of supply.

Call Ministry Incompetent.

Hints have been made that the air ministry personnel is incompetent, that too much attention is given to firms in the "ring," and too high profits have been made as compared with the German industry. But no British politician or newspaper, it is charged, dares to throw the full limelight on the situation.

One weekly magazine demanded that an account be rendered on how many hours were worked in the plane factories and what the wages were compared with Germany; what sums have been paid to aircraft companies; who are their managing directors and what profits they have made.

Difficulties in one way or other have been experienced since the air force expansion program was launched in May, 1935, with a goal of 1,750 planes, exclusive of the fleet air arm, by 1937. Obviously, this goal was not reached in time. Yet it did not seem due to niggardly appropriations for the air service or any difficulty in getting a break with the army and navy departments.

For even then the British were spending 250 million dollars on air power and by 1937 this had reached 400 million dollars.

Squabble Over Production.

One reason for inefficiency undoubtedly was the squabble over the method of production. Early in 1936 the government decided to proceed by the shadow factory scheme. In other words, no plane would be built in any one factory, but seven factories, set up by government expense, would be built by as many different firms. Each would make a given number of parts and all would then be assembled.

Lord Nuffield, motor manufacturer, locked horns with the air ministry. He said the scheme was impossible and dangerous. If one plant were put out of action production would stop, he argued.

The dispute raged until criticism of the air ministry grew to white heat in the house of commons last March when the air ministry budget for spending over 500 million dollars in the ensuing year was discussed. The row finally forced the resignation of Viscount Swinton as air minister two months later. Wood succeeded him.

In debates last spring government critics maintained without contradiction that British production was only 200 to 300 planes a month. Charges were made that no member of the British air council would fly a plane or fire a gun.

If these production figures are taken as a basis, Wood's prediction in November that the output of planes would be 150 per cent greater by May, 1939, means that the monthly production five months from now will be but a little over 600 planes a month as compared with Germany's reported 1,000.

Confusion in Civil Aviation.

Not only in military but in civilian aviation has there been confusion and ineffectiveness, records disclose. Two years ago Baron Cadman, chairman of the civil aviation inquiry committee, investigated the affairs of Imperial Airways and other British civil lines. He made sweeping recommendations which resulted in completed overhauling of civil airways. The inquiry substantiated charges of inefficiency. Sir John Reith, director general of the British Broadcasting corporation, was taken from that job and given the task of reorganizing civil aviation.

If the British air force has been slipping or still is slipping it is not for lack of expenditure. The British this year will spend 600 million dollars on air equipment and plans to spend 1 billion dollars next year.

The conclusion appears to be that the collapse of productive power as compared with Germany is due mostly to the inertia, muddle, lack of general coöperation and inexpertness of the air department.

ASSEMBLY ACTS TO EXTEND 3 CENT STATE SALES TAX

Stelle Reads Message in Absence of Horner.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Action was begun in the state senate late today for continuance of the present 3 cent Illinois sales tax following its recommendation in the governor's message read to the legislature earlier in the day by Lieut. Gov. John Stelle.

The senate advanced, for probable passage tomorrow, the Ward bill extending the third cent of the levy for relief purposes. Levied to provide most of the state's $3,900,000 monthly contribution to the relief load, the third cent would lapse and the tax would become 2 per cent Feb. 15 if the general assembly did not vote to continue it.

Before sending the Ward bill to third reading the Democratic senate majority beat off Republican attempts to cut the monthly share to an eventual total of $3,000,000 monthly.

Horner Reported Improving.

Extension of the 3 cent sales tax was the principal recommendation in the governor's message, which was read by Stelle as acting governor in the absence of Henry Horner, who is ill at Miami Beach, Fla. Contrary to alarming reports during the day that Gov. Horner had taken a sudden turn for the worse, dispatches from Florida tonight said he lunched out of doors today and was making good progress.

Stelle in the message steered clear of two recommendations which might have been made had Gov. Horner delivered the message in person. No recommendation was given for a state school board, nor was the legislature asked to regulate production in the new southern Illinois oil fields.

The acting governor praised the "sound business principles" of the present state government. He said that relief should be administered to the needy without waste, and asked the legislature to study how it could most efficiently be given.

Avoids Age Pension Issue.

Stelle—in accord with Gov. Horner's wishes—asked that a constitutional convention be authorized. Although bills to increase Illinois' old age pension, which now averages $17.50 monthly, probably will bring a major battle later in the session, the message steered away from any recommendation on this point.

However, the following sentence was included: "As experience teaches us, we should seek to improve our laws on this subject [pensions], all the time conforming to the requirements of the national social security act."

On the subject of slum clearance and low rental housing, Stelle told the legislature it should consider the federal housing grants and also bills designed to encourage private capital.

Expects Housing Measures.

"It is probable," he said, "that several measures will be presented to you designed to encourage private capital and to stimulate private initiative to engage in this field of housing our citizens and correcting faulty physical conditions in our communities. We suggest that both aspects of this subject receive your consideration."

An increase in the state highway police force was recommended, but without specific figures. The force now is composed of 350 officers and men. Civil service also was urged for the department to increase efficiency.

The acting governor declared that since the construction of main traveled highways had moved forward rapidly, the secondary system—farm to market roads—should now be the state's next thought.

Aided by Three Advisers.

Sitting in with Stelle when the message was written were three of Gov. Horner's close advisers—James M. Slattery, chairman of the commerce commission; Charles K. Schwartz, member of the tax commission, and S. L. Nudelman, director of finance. Slattery left today to visit the governor in Florida and Schwartz plans to leave for the same purpose tomorrow.

Prior to the reading of the message Justice Norman L. Jones of the Supreme court administered the oath of office to two new state officers—Treasurer Louie E. Lewis and John A. Wieland, who enters a second term as superintendent of public instruction.

Among bills introduced in the house following the ceremonies was the parole reform measure sponsored by Representative Elmer J. Schanckenberg [R., Chicago] and Senator Harold G. Ward [D., Chicago]. This bill would curb the power of the parole board to release convicts by permitting trial judges to fix minimum and maximum sentences within the limits of the indeterminate sentence act.

Ward presented the bill to the senate last week. The form in which Schnackenberg presented it differs slightly by providing that the minimum sentence imposed could not be more than three-fourths of the maximum possible for the particular crime. When the maximum is life imprisonment the minimum could not be more than twenty years, the measure stipulated.

GRAND DUCHESS MARIE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Communist threats against the life of the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, cousin of the late Czar Nicholas, caused Los Angeles city officials to surround her with an armed guard when she arrived here today on a lecture tour.

Writing to the committee in charge of her talk, which is sponsored by the Braille Institute of America, the exiled Russian noblewoman said she had received many menacing letters. The grand duchess was met at the train by the lecture committee.

21 MILK HAULERS IN TERRE HAUTE ARE ON STRIKE

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Raw milk haulers for Terre Haute's four biggest dairies went on strike tonight and threatened to cut off the bulk of the milk supply for this city's 63,000 citizens.

The twenty-one haulers, who bring in milk from the country in trucks, voted for the strike at a meeting of Local 144, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers [A. F. L.].

Dan Evans, business agent, and Jack Harkness, secretary-treasurer, said the Terre Haute Pure Milk and Ice Cream company, Model Milk company, Hedges Dairy, and Johnson Butter company refused to renew a two year contract which expired Dec. 31.

Under contract, the drivers were paid 35 cents for each 100 pounds they hauled in December, January, February, and March and 30 cents the rest of the year. Union officials said the dairies wanted to make the scale 30 cents the year around.

MORTON SCHOOL BOARD CHAIRMAN TO QUIT IN MARCH

Jerome J. Cerny, chairman of the board that governs the frequently stormy affairs of J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero, notified the four board members last night that he was resigning, effective March 28. The resignation was contained in a letter to Adolph Vlk, secretary, which was read at the board meeting. It offered no explanation. Cerny, who lives at 2341 Austin boulevard in Cicero, has been a member of the board for five years and chairman for three. Vlk said no action would be taken until the board could call on Cerny and discuss the situation with him.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Jan. 9.—An attempt by members of the Iron Guard [Fascist] to assassinate King Carol with a bomb has just been discovered in Bucharest, according to the Daily Telegraph. Premature explosion of the bomb, which had been placed in the royal palace, led to the arrest of the ringleaders, it is reported. According to the Telegraph there were accomplices within the palace and most diligent efforts are being made to track down all those responsible. No other details are known here.

MAYPOLE GIVES TOP COMMITTEE TO DOWNSTATER

Senate Assignments Are Made Public.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Senator R. Wallace Karraker of Jonesboro became chairman of the most important senate committee today when committee appointments were announced by George M. Maypole of Chicago, president pro tempore and Democratic leader of the chamber. Thirty-two chairmanships were distributed all to Democratic senators.

Karraker will head the executive committee, to which is referred all resolutions and where majority party strategy often is determined. Maypole held the chairmanship last session, but he stepped down and surrendered it to the downstater. The senator from Jonesboro is considered an independent Democrat by his colleagues, not affiliated with either the state house nor the Chicago faction of the party.

Maypole Holds Rules Job.

Maypole, who will be presiding officer of the senate while Lieut. Gov. John Stelle fills in for Gov. Horner, retained his chairmanship of the rules committee. Harold G. Ward of Chicago, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, was renamed to head the important judiciary committee.

Approriations—another major chairmanship—went to W. E. C. Clifford of Champaign. Some support had been given to Nicholas L. Hubbard of Mount Pulaski, but Hubbard was given the committee on fees and salaries.

A new committee on oil and gas regulation will be headed by William J. Connors of Chicago, chairman of liquor regulation during the 1937 session. This year the latter committee will be chairmaned by Joseph E. Heckenkamp of Quincy. Other chairmanships follow:

Agriculture—H. S. Burgess, Fairfield.
Railroads—John Broderick, Chicago.
Building and Loan—Richard J. Daley, Chicago.
Utilities—John W. Fribley, Pana.
Civil Service—John B. Geary, Chicago.
Charitable Institutions—W. H. Hickman, Paris.

House chairmanships are being selected by Speaker Hugh Cross, who will make his announcement late this week or early next week.

Washing machines went begging at $5 in the 70s, officials said yesterday at the opening of the First National Washer and Ironer show in the Stevens hotel. But the washing machine business is booming now. There are more machines sold in Illinois than there are in all of Europe.

Mrs. Hazel Cornwall, who told police she had stolen to support husband when she was sentenced to prison for embezzling $4,300. Her husband returned from Oklahoma yesterday and denied her accusations, declaring that he had tried to straighten out her trouble when he learned of a shortage in her accounts.

SEEK INDICTMENT ON NEW CHARGES OF JOBS FRAUD

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley yesterday announced that he would seek to indict James Galvin for accepting money by falsely promising police applicants to get them jobs. Galvin is a brother of the late Michael Galvin, slain teamsters' union czar. Police have been unable to locate Galvin, Crowley said.

Crowley charged Galvin had taken $2,000 from three unsuccessful police candidates after assuring them he had fixed their appointment with the civil service commission. The money, Crowley said, was delivered by Jerry Flanagan, 606 East 89th street, a tavern owner, as an intermediary.

Crowley said the three complainants were James J. Walsh, 1407 North Leclaire avenue; John McAuliffe, 3302 Flournoy street, and David Levine, 4743 North St. Louis avenue.

1,700 BUSINESS LEADERS WILL HEAR REP. DIES

Reservations indicated yesterday that more than 1,700 business leaders of Chicago and the central west will hear Congressman Martin Dies Thursday evening at the annual dinner meeting of the Employers' Association of Chicago in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Dies will tell of his work as chairman of the house committee to investigate un-American activities.

Joseph C. Belden, chairman of the invitation committee, said yesterday the attendance would set a record for the association's annual dinners, of which this will be the thirty-seventh.

"If this response is any indication of public opinion, the middle west is solidly behind Representative Dies in his work on behalf of Americanism," Mr. Belden said.

ROBBER PAROLED IN $19,000 HOLDUP FACES BAR AGAIN

Joseph Peach, alias Peich, a paroled robber, will appear in Stockyards court today on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arrested early yesterday on complaint of Joseph Cunnane, conductor of a 63d street car, for causing a disturbance on the car while intoxicated. Peach, according to police records, was paroled Aug. 15, 1936, after serving six years for the $19,000 pay roll robbery of the Michael Reese hospital in 1927. His police record dates to 1911 when he was sentenced to two months in the county jail for attempted burglary. At the time of his arrest yesterday Peach gave his age as 43 and said he lives at 8542 Lowe avenue.

HUSBAND DENIES PROFITING FROM WIFE'S THEFTS

She Didn't Support Him, He Insists.

Mrs. Hazel Cornwall painted an unpleasant picture of her husband after she was sentenced to the penitentiary for embezzling $4,300 from the Western Springs State bank.

He stayed at home while she worked as a teller to support him, she said. He scorned the style in which she supported him on her salary of $90 a month until she began stealing to buy him a car and give him the other things he wanted. When he learned that she had been discovered he deserted her.

He Tells Another Story.

He was working all the time for Swift & Co., he said. Last May the company sent him to Oklahoma as its representative. His wife said she would come later. When he insisted that she come, after he was established in Oklahoma, he told Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office, she wrote him that she would have to wait because there was a small shortage in her accounts.

Cornwall said he came to Chicago to help her. She told him the shortage was $700. He went to the bank to see if he could straighten the trouble out. The bankers told him the shortage was $4,000.

He returned to Oklahoma, as he told the story, to try to raise the money. He appealed to his relatives for money. Then came word that the shortage was nearer $6,000.

He appealed to his wife to tell him what she had done with the money. She refused to tell him.

Used Joint Checking Account.

On Dec. 1 last year Judge Michael L. McKinley sentenced Mrs. Cornwall to one to ten years in prison on the charge of embezzling $4,300. Although she said Cornwall probably knew she was taking the money, she refused to say flatly that he did. Asked to help the state get an indictment against him, she declined. Later she reconsidered and accused him. She was then released on bond pending further investigation. Learning that he had been indicted, Cornwall, who is 35 years old, returned and surrendered.

He denied that he had knowingly benefited by the embezzlement. He put his pay checks in a joint checking account, he explained, and his wife paid the bills with checks.

Cornwall told Capt. Gilbert that he means to face the charge against him and then ask a divorce.

FastWorking Firemen Save U. S. Embassy in Moscow

MOSCOW, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Fast work by the Moscow fire department today saved the United States embassy from destruction by a fire of undetermined origin. The blaze was discovered on the ground floor behind the closed doors of a temporarily unoccupied room. Quickly extinguished, its damage was limited to several hundred dollars.

U. S. FLEET BASE FORCE BEGINS PANAMA CANAL TRANSIT TO WAR GAMES

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The base force of the United States fleet which sailed from San Diego, Cal., on Dec. 27 arrived here today, en route to war games in the Atlantic. The base force is made up of thirty vessels, a floating supply train for the fleet, and is commanded by Rear Admiral William C. Watts.

Naval authorities as well as Panama Canal officials withheld news of the arrival from Panama newspapers until the ships anchored off the Pacific entrance to the canal. The ships began the transit of the canal today, and the operation will be completed by Thursday.

The base force was the forerunner of more than 100 naval vessels due to arrive here by Friday. During transit of fighting elements of the United States fleet the canal will be closed to commercial trafic. Immediately following transit of the fleet from the Pacific to the Atlantic, engineering forces will start an important overhauling of Gatun locks.

WAGE INCREASE AVERTS TAXICAB DRIVERS' STRIKE

A threatened strike of Yellow and Checker taxi drivers was averted last night when the drivers accepted company terms granting them an increase of 1½ per cent in their share of gross receipts. The meeting was held at 1219 Blue Island avenue. About 1,500 attended.

The drivers, members of the Taxicab Drivers' union, Local 777, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, an A. F. of L. affiliate, had been receiving 37½ per cent of gross receipts clocked on the meters. They demanded 42 per cent. The companies agreed to 39 per cent, and this rate was accepted. The new rate is retroactive to Jan. 1 and runs to Dec. 31.

The negotiations were carried on by Witt Hanley and Dominic Abata, who is president of the drivers' union; Benjamin Samuels and Thomas J. Hogan, of the Yellow Cab company, and Michael Sokol and George McDonald of the Checker company.

Actor Wins Uncontested Divorce; Wife in France

Bearn David Boyd Irwin, 28 years old, known on the stage as David Byrne, was granted an uncontested divorce yesterday by Judge Robert C. O'Connell from Mrs. Florence Hentley Hinot Irwin on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Irwin, who is 26 years old, lives in Paris, Emmet F. Byrne, attorney for Irwin, said. They were married Feb. 22, 1937, in Chattanooga, Tenn., and she left him on March 17, 1937, he charged.

JAPS SLAY 700 IN 2 DAY BATTLE; LINK NEW FRONT

Close Gap in Buffer Zone North of Hankow.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Japanese forces were reported today to have pushed into Lolotien, 135 miles north of Hankow, linking Japanese lines beyond the fallen provisional capital into a single extensive front.

Chinese stragglers fled from Lolotien, Japanese advices said, leaving 700 dead after two days of heavy fighting. Japanese asserted the success of the Lolotien operation enabled forces operating north and northwest of Hankow, which fell on Oct. 26, to bridge the gap that had separated them.

The boundary of the buffer zone the Japanese are establishing to protect their major Yangtze base at Hankow now runs from Sinyang, 20 miles east of Lolotien, through Lolotien, thence southwest through Tsaoshih, crossing the Yangtze at Yochow, 135 miles south of Hankow.

Set Up Guerrilla Bureau.

From Yochow, Japanese forces are strung southeast along a sprawling line some 200 miles long which cuts the Nanchang railway and ends at Wucheng, on the northwest shore of Lake Poyang.

Kuomin, Chinese news agency, reported from Chunking the establishment of a central guerrilla bureau, under Gen. Li Chi-shen, designed to coördinate the activities of Chinese guerrillas in all war zones.

Japanese announced their troops based at Soochow, north of Shanghai, had engaged in 309 skirmishes with guerrillas in four months of mopping-up activities and had killed 4,550 of them. In the Hangchow bay area, 100 miles southwest of Shanghai, sporadic fighting was reported continuing. Chinese started an offensive against Hangchow on Saturday.

Bombs Wreck Power Plant.

HONGKONG, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Japanese planes bombed Shekki, south of Canton, today and destroyed an electric light plant. Twelve workmen were killed. Weichow island, 35 miles south of Pakhoi in the gulf of Tongking, was reported occupied by Japanese marines after three cruisers and an aircraft carrier concentrated near the island. Chinese sources said Tsengshing, northeast of Canton, was recaptured by Chinese after heavy fighting.

U. S. Envoy Reaches Paris.

PARIS, Jan. 9. — (AP) — Nelson T. Johnson, United States ambassador to China, today came to the last lap of his 12,000 mile land, sea, and air trip to report to President Roosevelt on the war in China.

Johnson told the story of his 2,100 mile automobile trip through inner China from Chungking, the Chinese temporary capital, to Burma. "I felt more like an explorer than a diplomat," he said.

The ambassador and an aid, driving a light automobile, were the first civilians to enter Burma on the new road carved out of the rugged foothills of the Malaya mountains in Sinkiang province to provide China with a new "back door" for war supplies.

The road was finished just before Johnson left Chungkiang on Dec. 12. Thousands of coolies were mobilized for months in labor battalions to do it. "The new road leaves the old Tibetan trade route at Talifu, in Yunnan province, and skirts the vast Burmese plateau until it literally drops you into Mandalay," Johnson said.

Those first 2,100 miles were the toughest, Johnson said, and by comparison, the next 7,000 from Rangoon to France by airplane seemed like a ride on a magic carpet. He will go from Paris to London and sail on Jan. 11 for New York.

ITALIANS ADMIT 85 PLANES LOST IN SPANISH WAR

ROME, Jan. 9. — (AP) — The Italian government announced today that eighty-five Italian war planes have crashed, been shot down, or have been captured by government forces in the Spanish civil war. The official communique said 837 Spanish government planes had been destroyed by the Italians.

Bomb Four Spanish Cities.

BARCELONA, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Rebel bombers attacked four cities and towns in Catalonia today, killing seven persons and wounding sixteen. Barcelona, Reus, Tarragona, and Borjas Del Campo were the points bombed.

BARBER FOUND SHOT TO DEATH.

Eugene Smith, 60 years old, was found shot to death yesterday, seated in a chair of his barber shop at 2030 Montrose avenue. On the shelf in front of the chair lay a revolver and a note indicating Smith took his own life. He was in poor health.

Close Gap in Line

(Story in adjoining column.)

Arrow indicates where Japanese battled Chinese for two days, then captured Lolotien. This enabled the Japanese to close a gap in their line in the Hankow sector. Heavy black line indicates the extent of Japanese penetration in central China.

AUSTRIA ORDERS CHURCH TO LIST ART TREASURES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9—Dr. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of Austria, today ordered registration of art treasures of churches and monasteries in Austria by the end of January.

Catholic circles in Vienna said they feared eventual confiscation of the treasures of the Catholic church. Nazi officials said: "The purpose of this order is to obtain exact knowledge of the art possessions of the church in order to prevent their sale to foreign countries."

German church communities no longer will be supplied with electricity at favorable rates granted to a "wholesale consumer." Instead they must pay the normal rates. It was pointed out that this means a large increase in church expenses—in the case of a small church as much as $60 a month or more.

MUSSOLINI FLIES OWN BOMBER ON INSPECTION TOUR

ROME, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini made a three-hour aerial inspection of the Rome environs today, piloting his own trimotored bomber over the Pontine marshes and paying an unannounced visit to an airfield near the coast.

He left Littoria airport at 12:30 p. m., and after flying low over Littoria in the reclaimed agricultural area of the Pontine marshes, alighted at the recently completed air field and inspected quarters being prepared for a blind landing school.

On the coast he studied experiments in development of new types of armament and bombs.

STOLEN PIGEONS, FREED BY POLICE, RACE BACK HOME

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 9.—(AP)—After making an arrest police returned to owners ten chickens and seven pigeons which had been stolen, but were at a loss to find the owner of eight racing pigeons. Capt. Robert Agee had an inspiration. He released three of the pigeons with notes tied to their legs. Half an hour later Edward Parrish called the police station to claim his other five pigeons. Those set free had flown straight home.

U. S. BARS PLANE SALES TO JAPAN DUE TO BOMBINGS

Congress Hears How Hull 'Sanctions' Choke Trade.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Congress learned today that "moral sanctions" invoked by the state department against countries bombing civilians virtually have shut off Japan's purchases of military aircraft in the United States.

This information was conveyed in the annual report of the national munitions control board, which said the system of munitions export licenses now in effect gave the government complete and current information "on the exact quantities of arms, ammunition and implements of war which leave this country, the country of destination of each shipment and identity of the exporters."

The report made public a circular letter the state department sent last July 1 to all aircraft makers and exporters asking their coöperation in keeping American planes out of the hands of nations whose armed forces bombed civilians.

Text of Edict to Makers.

"The department would with great regret issue any licenses authorizing exportation, direct or indirect, of any aircraft or aircraft accessories, aerial bombs or torpedoes to countries the armed forces of which are making use of airplanes for attack upon civilian populations," this letter said.

The munitions board told congress today that all companies, "with only one outstanding exception," had conformed to the policy and that application for licenses to ship to such countries "had virtually ceased to be presented to the secretary of state." The exception was not named.

The name of Japan did not appear in the board report in this connection, but it was learned that the department meant the order to apply only to Japan and Spain. Spain was not affected, however, because all munitions shipments there are banned by the 1937 embargo.

$9,000,000 Gets Under Wire.

Despite the ban Japan purchased about $9,000,000 worth of military aircraft and accessories here in 1938. Most of the shipments were licensed, however, before that country was informally blacklisted for its civilian bombings in China.

The munitions control board's chairman is Secretary of State Cordell Hull. The secretaries of war, navy, commerce, and treasury also serve on the board, which functions under the neutrality act.

The board reported that, despite rigid control through export licenses, forty airplanes which were manufactured almost wholly from American parts reached Spain last year. The circumstances are being investigated by the department of justice, it said.

Spanish Loyalists Release Political Prisoners Over 60

VALENCIA, Spain, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Political prisoners of 60 years of age and over were freed today by order of Civil Governor Manuel Molina. The government had announced that prisoners of 60 years and over would be granted amnesty regardless of their offenses.

Loyalists Mass Army for New Blow at Rebels in Catalonia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [At the Spanish Frontier.]—Jan. 9.—Spanish government forces tonight prepared to launch a second great counter offensive against the rebels in an effort to offset and perhaps nullify Gen. Francisco Franco's successes in his Catalonian drive.

The loyalists were massing troops near Seo de Urgel, which is twenty miles south of the French border. The town is at the northern end of the Catalonian battlefront.

Franco has gained all along the Catalonian line except in the northern sector from Tremp to Seo de Urgel. A blow there now might flank his whole offensive.

Steady Flow of Troops.

Reports from Puigcerda, in Spain near the French border, said that all day there was a continuous flow of loyalist troops, tanks, and artillery moving westward to Seo de Urgel.

The rebels reported new gains in the Lerida sector—the center of the Catalonian line, about fifty miles south of Seo de Urgel. After crossing the Segre river yesterday, the rebels joined two columns at Bellvis, then drove down the road to Mollerusa. Mollerusa is fifteen miles east of Lerida and thirty miles west of Cervera on the main road to Barcelona, the rebels' objective.

Mollerusa also is at the midpoint of the Balaguer-Borjas Blancas defense line which the loyalists set up as the first western defense of Barcelona. The line is about seventy-five miles west of Barcelona and the rebels now hold Borjas Blancas, Mollerusa, and Balaguer.

Make Stand in Mountains.

Southeast of Lerida, in the direction of coastal Tarragona, the loyalists still were falling back under heavy rebel pressure, but they felt confident that their secondary defenses in the Montsant mountains would halt the rebel drive. The mountains are about twenty-five miles northwest of Tarragona and that port is about sixty miles down the coast from Barcelona. In that sector, the rebels captured Vimbodi, on the main Lerida-Tarragona road.

That the loyalists' Estremadura offensive—in southwestern Spain—is a serious threat to the rebels was evident today when Gen. Franco began a hurried movement of reinforcements to the sector. Gibraltar dispatches said Franco was drawing new men from the garrisons at La Linea [north of Gibraltar], at Tarifa and Algeciras [west of Gibraltar], and Ceuta, Spanish Morocco. Even civil guards were being included in the troop movement.

Aim to Split Rebels.

The loyalists continued their vigorous offensive along the Badajoz and Cordoba fronts, inflicting thousands of casualties on the rebels and capturing several important positions.

The aim of this offensive is to deprive Franco of troops he needs to keep his Catalonian offensive going and if possible to split northern and southern rebel Spain in two parts as Franco did with Catalonia and the rest of loyalist Spain last spring.

The government forces now are about sixty-five miles east of the Portuguese border, but only about twenty miles from Llerena, a station on the vital Seville-Salamanca railroad which links the two rebel sections. The loyalists captured Granja de Torrehermosa, east of Llerena. Four columns are driving westward in the direction of the railroad and the government is sending heavy artillery into the sector.

U. S. OFFICIAL LEAVES TO STUDY CONFLICT ALONG CZECH BORDER

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Jan. 9.—(AP)—George Kennan, secretary of the United States legation in Prague, left today for Chust, capital of Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia], to obtain a first hand impression of conditions in the eastern autonomous province of Czecho-Slovakia. The United States legation is the only foreign diplomatic mission taking such a step.

Tangled cross-currents in Carpatho-Ukraine recently have included charges by Hungarians of German influence there, border battles with Hungarians at Munkacs and Ungvar, and Polish protests against Ukrainian anti-Polish propaganda.

Czecho-Slovaks have charged that Hungarian reports of disorders in the region were exaggerated to give the impression Carpatho-Ukraine wants to quit Czecho-Slovakia and join Hungary.

WOMAN'S DEATH HELD SUICIDE.

A Lake county coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide following an inquest into the death of Mrs. Thelma Lockwood, 40 years old, 4892 North Clark street. She was found dead early yesterday in an automobile parked in a wood three miles west of Deerfield. A hose carried exhaust gases into the interior of the car.

Hitler's Favorite Actress Enjoys California Climate

Palm Springs, Cal., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Fräulein Leni Riefenstahl, German actress and reputed to be one of Adolf Hitler's few women friends, has been absorbing as much California sun as possible during her stay here. She played tennis on the courts at El Mirador during a weekend visit to this desert resort. The Nazi film celebrity, who has been holidaying in southern California for several weeks, leaves soon to return to Berlin.

SOVIET STIRS UP A NEW FISHING ROW WITH JAPS

TOKIO, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Soviet Russia has informed Japan she intends to auction during February fishery lots in the Sea of Okhotsk, hitherto operated by the Japanese, though negotiations still are in progress for a new soviet-Japanese fisheries agreement.

The Japanese ambassador in Moscow, Shigenori Togo, has informed soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov that such a step would aggravate Russian-Japanese relations. Officials indicated today the Japanese intended to continue fishing in soviet waters whether or not a new treaty were concluded.

[Russia annually auctions fishing lots, with both Japanese and Russians bidding. Under past procedure, a certain number of lots went to Japan without auction. Today's dispatch apparently refers to this second group of lots.]

THAT'S PROBABLY DUE TO CONSTIPATION. TRY ENO—FIRST A LAXATIVE DOSE. THEN A LITTLE IN WATER A FEW TIMES A DAY AS AN ALKALIZER

QUICK RELIEF FROM TROUBLES LIKE THESE

Eno brings real benefits from the dull headaches, sluggishness, listlessness or other troubles due to temporary constipation.

ENO IS DIFFERENT in three respects—ENO is pleasant-tasting; it is a mild saline; it contains no harsh sulphates.

First, take a laxative dose; gently to help eliminate intestinal wastes. Then, as an alkalizer to help combat acidity, every morning as you need it. Eno contains an important ingredient derived from grapes. Eno is effective—and tastes so refreshing.

Constipated? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get it over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble!

Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B_1.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

HUNGARIAN ARMY STRINGS BARBED WIRE AT BORDER

Czech and Magyar Troops Mass; Fighting Feared.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Soldiers strung barbed wire across snow-covered fields along the Hungarian side of the Carpatho-Ukrainian [Ruthenian] border today. Brisk military movements were reported on both sides of the troubled boundary.

No shooting was reported in the Munkacs and Ungvar districts but Hungarians reported a large Czech and Ukrainian force had moved up to the demarcation line at Derczen.

New Incident Forestalled.

The Hungarians said a concentration of Hungarian troops near Derczen forestalled another incident such as that of last Friday when Munkacs was shelled by Czecho-Slovak artillery and the bombardment yesterday of a village near Ungvar. Unlike the Munkacs incident, no loss of life was reported from the village of Nagygejoce where it was said incendiary shells were used.

[Both Munkacs and Ungvar were principal cities of Carpatho-Ukraine before the post-Munich settlement of Nov. 2 at Vienna in which 4,875 square miles of Czecho-Slovakia, including a chunk from the eastern or Carpatho-Ukrainian end, were awarded to Hungary.]

Snow fell intermittently in the zone of friction. Visibility was poor but observers reported Czecho-Slovak forces were bringing up materials for building of pontoons near the village of Gat in a swampy borderland region.

Hungary delayed returning its minister to Prague, capital of Czecho-Slovakia. The government strongly hinted that the border clashes had endangered relations between the Czecho-Slovak and Hungarian governments. The minister, Johann Wettstein von Westerhain, was in Budapest. He explained he would remain here until relations were "clarified."

The foreign office issued a statement that another incident would have far-reaching consequences. Each country was reported expelling citizens of the other. The Hungarian Revisionist league charged that "German influences" played a part in the trouble.

Declare Temporary Truce.

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Jan. 9.—(AP)—A temporary truce was declared tonight in the sporadic warfare over Czecho-Slovak and Hungarian borderlands.

An official dispatch said both the Carpatho-Ukrainian and Hungarian forces agreed to withdraw two kilometers [1.24 mile] from the demarcation line in the Munkacs sector where fighting occurred Friday.

The agreement was reached at Chust, capital of Czecho-Slovakia's eastern province of Carpatho-Ukraine. It was further agreed that only customs officers would remain in the disturbed zone and that an exchange of prisoners would be made immediately.

NAZIS SCOLD U. S. PRESS ON 'LITTLE HITLER' KILLING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—The Boersenzeitung, mouth piece of Germany's armed forces, tonight scolded the American press for failing to give enough prominence to the killing of Corneliu Zelea Codreanu, Rumania's "Little Hitler," and thirteen of his subleaders in the outlawed Iron Guard.

The Fascist Iron Guards were slain Nov. 30 when, Rumanian authorities said, they attempted to escape from prison guards.

"We now have waited forty days," the Boersenzeitung said. "The American press finds no fault with the Codreanu affair in accordance with the principle 'the murdered man is guilty.' Like the English papers they were too busy defending the rights of Jewish millionaires in Germany."

REPORT TO LABOR OFFICES, GERMAN CHILDREN TOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—In a new attempt to relieve Germany's labor shortage, the labor ministry today ordered boys and girls leaving school this Easter to report to labor exchanges within two weeks. The youths must fill out forms indicating what professions they have chosen. Labor service camps for girls were instructed to see to it that discharged girls "do not return to their parental homes without taking a job." Labor authorities were told to watch that the new labor conscription law for girls under 25 years of age is not being dodged by girls "pretending to be ill."

COURSE OF PEACE CHARTED AT LIMA MEET, SAYS HULL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull returned to Washington late today from the Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru. He probably will confer with President Roosevelt tomorrow, he said.

When his ship reached New York earlier in the day he praised the accomplishments of the conference and called on the world to embrace the principles adopted there.

"I return from the conference with the conviction that its results will be of real and permanent value," said a statement issued by the secretary when he landed in New York.

"Those principles offer a charter for international conduct, based upon equality, justice, and freedom—the indispensable foundation of peaceful and friendly relations among the nations of the world."

FRANCE STIRRED BY RUMOR NAZIS SEND ITALY AID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The suspicion that Reichsfuehrer Hitler is making ready to throw the might of the Nazi reich behind the campaign of his axis partner, Premier Mussolini, in the latter's drive for a slice of the French empire aroused fears here tonight.

The alarm was based on rumors, as yet unconfirmed, that troop movements already are under way on the German side of the Brenner Pass—the historic military gateway from Austria to Italy.

For several days there has been a diminution of railway trafic from Germany to Italy. This is supposed to be due to trafic difficulties occasioned by heavy snowdrifts, but some quarters here believe it is really due to the use of the railway lines in transporting troops.

LINER WITH FIRE IN HOLD STEAMS TOWARD U. S. SHIP

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Lloyd's reported today that the liner Rimutaka, with 286 passengers on board and a fire raging in number three hold, changed her course in the southern Pacific and steamed toward the United States steamer Yomachichi, 300 miles away as a precautionary measure.

The Rimutaka left Panama Dec. 24 for Auchland, New Zealand, and was sailing for the first time under charter to the New Zealand Shipping company.

A message from the captain gave the Rimutaka's speed as 14 knots. Firemen were reported to have the fire under control.

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Italians ridiculed their countrymen's claims to Tunisia, Corsica, and Djibouti when members of the Italian agricultural colony in southeastern France, which numbers nearly 1,000,000 persons, staged a protest meeting at Auch today. A resolution appealing for brotherhood between the French and Italian peoples and protesting against Fascist intervention in Spain was adopted enthusiastically.

FRENCH FOREIGN MINISTER UNDER FIRE; MAY RESIGN

Bonnet Blamed for Weak Policy Toward Italy.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—(AP)—French-Italian tension—marked today by Italy's protest against an anti-Fascist demonstration in Tunisia—provided new ammunition for an attack on the policy of Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet.

Government opponents charged this policy made possible Italian demands for a share in France's Mediterranean and African empire.

Some reports in political circles were that if the attacks on Bonnet should become too pressing in parliament, opening tomorrow, Premier Edouard Daladier might sacrifice the foreign minister to preserve the cabinet. Daladier himself undoubtedly is strong.

As a whole, the cabinet has the confidence of the country, but Bonnet, who has become a symbol of the so-called "Munich foreign policy of concessions," is regarded by some as a weak link.

Italian Flag Burned.

The foreign ministry announced today that Italy protested formally to France that during an anti-Fascist demonstration during Premier Daladier's trip last week to Tunisia an Italian flag was torn down and burned.

The foreign ministry said a preliminary investigation indicated the incident was unimportant—that a crowd had taken down an Italian flag hanging over a Tunis tailor shop and that the tailor himself did not complain to the police.

However, coming on the eve of the new session of parliament and of British Prime Minister Chamberlain's arrival en route to Rome, the protest added fresh fuel to the French-Italian dispute.

Daladier conferred immediately with Bonnet on the protest and on its probable effect on their brief talk tomorrow with Chamberlain and the British foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, who will stop here for two hours.

Not to Act as Mediator.

Both the French and the British insist there is no question of Chamberlain's acting as mediator in the dispute between France and Italy.

French and English interests in the Mediterranean, however, are so interrelated that it is considered impossible that the British foreign minister could settle his country's own problems with Mussolini without having a clear idea of a means for a settlement between Paris and Rome.

Opponents of Bonnet charge the question would not have arisen if France had not made concessions at the Munich four power conference over Czecho-Slovakia in September, thereby, they say, giving Italy an impression of French weakness.

Heat Wave Starts Fires

Brush fires raged over the state of Victoria, Australia (indicated by black area), as the result of a heat wave. It was feared thirty persons were killed. Melbourne had a temperature of 109.6 degrees. At Dromana, forty-four houses were destroyed.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Bush fires started during a heat wave raged throughout much of Victoria state today with at least thirty persons missing and feared dead.

Two forestry officers burned to death at Toolangi. Many houses and valuable stocks of timber were destroyed. Damage was estimated at nearly $250,000 at the seaside resort of Dromana, forty miles from Melbourne. Forty-four houses were destroyed there.

Melbourne is experiencing the worst drouth in twenty-six years and the hottest weather in twenty-three years, with the thermometer registering up to 109.6 degrees.

CHANCELLERY OF 900 ROOMS NOW HITLER'S OFFICE

Praises Workers' Speed on Construction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 9.—"I am myself from the building trade and therefore can appreciate what you have done—it is a unique achievement," Reichsfuehrer Hitler declared today at the inauguration of Germany's new superchancellery in Vossstrasse.

With its 900 rooms, the building is about ten times larger than the building which served as Bismarck's chancellery. Hitler addressed the 8,000 workers who built the structure in the record time of ten months.

"As a racial comrade and a private individual," Hitler said, "I am today what I always have been and as such I do not want to be more. My private flat has remained the same as I had before I assumed power and will always remain the same."

Guests of Germany.

He was referring to his eight room apartment in Munich where he and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain signed the Anglo-German nonaggression declaration.

Hitler told the workers that in the new chancellery "the Fuehrer of the German nation and not the private individual, Adolf Hitler, receives his guests. Now I receive the guests, but Germany receives them through me."

One of the most imposing reception rooms in the new chancellery is the "Mosaic hall" whose floor and walls are inlaid with white gold and silver mosaic. The hall receives its light through a colored glass ceiling. The right wing of the chancellery contains a suite of rooms for Baron Konstantin von Neurath in his capacity as chairman of the secret council for foreign relations. This seems to indicate that von Neurath's influence on Germany's foreign policy recently has increased.

Explain Coffee Shortage.

While pointing out to the German people that the diplomatic corps in Berlin will be received by the Fuehrer on Jan. 12 in one of the most imposing buildings of its kind, the Nazi newspapers go to great length to explain the coffee shortage in Germany.

In the Berlin shops today only one-eighth of a pound could be purchased as against one-quarter of a pound last week. The German people are told that the increased purchasing power of the nation is partly to be blamed for the new decree providing that only 75 per cent of the coffee consumed last year henceforth may be roasted.

The press also indicates that the Germans may look toward America for having to go without their favorite drink.

"Apparently as a result of American pressure on Germany's main coffee supplier, Brazil temporarily has suspended her delivery," the press says. Some of the big hotels in Germany now serve tea instead of coffee to their employés.

40 FREED AFTER BOOKIE RAIDS.

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday discharged forty men arrested in police raids on twenty handbooks. He also dismissed two alleged policy game operators.

FATE AND FIT

By CALEB

"WHAT'S to be the fate of that chap over there?" queried the factory visitor, pointing to a busy machinist.

The personnel man's reply was both prompt and decisive. "He goes into a foreman's job the first of the month. And from there he'll probably promote his way to a supervisorship, or a superintendency, or—eventually—to a works managership. He's that kind of a fellow.

"Fate, in any business, is mostly a matter of fit. We have an unwritten axiom in our work that an employe is practically never the same size as a given job he may be holding. He's either a little smaller than the job—or a little bigger. Even if he starts a line of duties that are apparently his same measure, he will gradually fall victim to its routine, grow a bit careless, and finally 'shrink', so far as performance is concerned, in comparison with his beginning efforts.

"That's one way he may go. If made of better stuff, however, he will rise above this lulling quality of all job routine, find ways and means to 'expand', and sooner or later become enough 'oversize' in what he's doing to warrant his possible promotion.

"Management policies, production planning, personnel programs, all give as much attention as possible to providing environments, tools, techniques, incentives, that will facilitate a worker's expansion.

"In the final analysis, however, his fate in the scheme of things depends more on his own attitude toward 'fit' than on any other single factor outside. Constantly encouraging this point of view, and explaining the reasons behind it, is wise use, on an organization's part, of the world's oldest known success-principle: self-interest."

In any examination of employe activities, many a question of fate and fit can be quick-checked by asking, as to a given worker's job-conduct: "Is he perfunctory—or is he enthusiastic?" If the former, day in and day out—he is too small for his job, and can hardly avoid retrograding. If the latter, day after day, he's very probably growing out of the job he is now in—and headed up toward a job of larger size and opportunities.

FINDS SMUGGLER GUILTY; REJECTS IMMUNITY CLAIM

Friend of Movie Stars Loses Court Plea.

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Albert N. Chaperau, reputed friend of many Hollywood celebrities, was convicted today of smuggling French gowns and other valuables into the United States. He can be sentenced to eight years in prison and fined $25,000.

A. N. Chaperau. (AP Wire Photo.)

Chaperau waived the right of trial by jury and relied upon his contention that as a commercial attaché of the Nicaraguan government he is immune to prosecution. Because of his demand for diplomatic immunity customs officers had passed without examination several trunks in which government agents alleged he carried smuggled goods.

Verdict Clears Prosecutor.

Federal Judge Murray Hulbert ruled Chaperau guilty of smuggling. Had the defendant's immunity plea been upheld, Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Delaney would have faced a possible term of three years in prison for causing the arrest of an accredited diplomatic agent of a country having an immunity treaty with the United States.

The judge announced that sentencing of Chaperau will be deferred until after the disposition of two other indictments which name George Burns, radio and movie comedian, co-defendant with the alleged Nicaraguan.

Burns pleaded guilty to a smuggling-conspiracy charge, as did Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer. It had been predicted that Burns and Mrs. Lauer would be government witnesses against Chaperau. Specifically Chaperau was convicted of smuggling finery from Paris for Mrs. Lauer.

Many Involved in Activities.

Government investigators charged that letters found in Chaperau's possession indicated he had acted as agent in the sale of smuggled finery to many well known persons. Many stars in radio and film circles were said to have been upset by his arrest.

Jack Benny of the radio and movies flew here tonight in a hurried trip to appear before the federal grand jury investigating smuggling. He boarded an airliner at Glendale, Cal., last night.

He insisted he had not been summoned and was coming here of his own accord "to find out what it's all about and get the matter straightened out." Benny said he had known Chaperau slightly.

Federal authorities remained silent about any desire to question the comedian. It was reported, however, that Benny would be questioned by the grand jury about the purchase of $1,200 in jewelry for his wife, Mary Livingston.

Burns Pleads Guilty.

In addition to George Burns, the grand jury has called before it for testimony Actress Katharine Hepburn and Comedian Jack Pearl. Burns pleaded guilty to the possession of $5,000 in smuggled jewels which he said he bought as a gift for Gracie Allen, his wife and radio partner.

The fact that other persons received the goods smuggled in by Chaperau was used against him in his trial. Federal prosecutors argued that he did not bring the property into this country for himself, but apparently smuggled it in to sell it for a profit or to receive a fee for bringing in customs-free the property of some one else.

TWO EMPLOYES SUFFER BURNS IN HOSPITAL BLAZE

Two employés of the Englewood hospital were slightly burned yesterday when fire broke out in a rubbing alcohol barrel in the basement. Firemen under Chief Howard Andrews of the 12th battalion extinguished the blaze quickly.

The fire attracted a crowd from the busy intersection of 63d and Halsted streets. Some smoke reached the upper floors of the five story structure. Supt. E. O. Massmann sent orderlies and nurses to quiet the seventy patients and to assure them there was no danger. A few were dressed and helped downstairs.

The employés burned were Walter Brigham and Fritz Josephson. Brigham said he was running alcohol from a large vat into a small can when an explosion occurred, setting the fluid on fire. Josephson ran to his aid. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Myrtle Elizabeth Thrasher, 13 years old, and Charles Joseph Dunn, 21, were on their honeymoon today after the first "child marriage" since passage of the stringent marriage law two years ago. They were given special permission to wed by County Judge Houston after he had questioned them under oath. Myrtle's mother requested the court to approve the marriage. The state law requires a judge's approval for marriage of persons under 16.

SLAYING OF GARY POLICY KING LAID TO VOTE RESULTS

Police of Two Cities Hunt for Clews.

Chicago and Gary police, cooperating in the investigation of the south side murder of Walter J. Kelly, colored gambling boss in Gary Sunday night, received a report yesterday Kelly had paid $185,000 in the last four years for the privilege of running the numbers and policy games in the steel city.

The two departments advanced conflicting theories as to the killing. Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan believes the slayers followed Kelly from Gary to 3035 South Michigan avenue, where he was shot. Capt. Opie Cross of the Gary police advanced the theory that Kelly was killed because of an attempt to start operations on Chicago's south side. He shut down his Gary games on Jan. 2, the day Dr. Ernst L. Schaible, elected on a reform platform, took office as mayor of Gary.

Ill Feeling Is Reported.

In addition to a hotel, a weekly newspaper and a black and tan night club in Gary's so-called central district, home of most of its large colored population, Kelly had operated three policy game offices there for the last four years.

It was reported in Gary that ill feeling had arisen between him and the Kirsch brothers, Louis and Izzy, who were bosses of white gambling houses in Gary, during the last political campaign. On Jan. 2 the Kirsches closed their gambling house at 645 Washington street, against which civic organizations had been crusading for a year. They are reported to be on vacations in California and Florida now.

Kelly, it was reported yesterday in Gary, stopped his protection payments immediately after the November election in Gary, but kept his games running until Mayor Schaible took office. Dr. Schaible defeated L. B. Clayton, who ran for reëlection.

Report Body Guards Engaged.

It was also just after the election that Kelly was reported to have engaged several colored bodyguards. One of these, Sonny Williams formerly was his chauffeur. Williams was in Gary at the time of the murder, and Ira Kelly, brother of Walter, insisted yesterday at the state's attorney's office that Walter was alone at the time of the murder.

Chief Sullivan, however, received a report that another man was with Kelly when he was shot. This companion apparently was wounded, as he limped as he ran away from the scene. Kelly, driving to Chicago from Gary, had stopped first at his brother's office at Michigan avenue and 51st street. He then drove to the spot where he was killed.

Tells Purpose of Trip.

Ira Kelly told Assistant State's Attorney Richard Austin yesterday that his brother had gone to the scene of the killing to lend $200 to La Salle Brown, owner of a hotel at 3035 Michigan avenue. Brown accompanied Kelly to the state's attorney's office. Austin said he thought the clew to the Kelly murder might lie in recent holdups of Chicago policy games, which were not reported to police.

Attorney Euclid Taylor, who accompanied Ira Kelly and Brown, said that Walter Kelly had come to Chicago to attend a court hearing today before Judge William V. Brothers. It was on an action to enforce liability on stockholders of the defunct Binga State bank, in which Kelly owned $10,000 in stock. Kelly had intended to plea that he was broke and unable to pay the assessment, Taylor said.

GAMBLING FOE IN PEORIA SLAIN BY 2 ASSASSINS

Waylaid in Dark Alley at His Home.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Anton J. Miller, 50 years old a locksmith who has campaigned against the operation of slot machines in Peoria county, was shot and fatally wounded tonight by assassins.

"Well, the gamblers finally got me," Miller said when taken to St. Francis hospital, where he died a few hours later.

Miller was wounded by three blasts from a shotgun fired at close range. Slugs struck him in the back and side of his body and mutilated his face.

Trapped in Dark Alley.

Miller had just put his car in the garage at the rear of his home when a sedan, which apparently had been waiting for him, drew swiftly down the dark alley.

A man with a shotgun stepped out of the car and approached Miller. At that moment the man at the wheel of the car threw the automobile spotlight on Miller. The gunman shouted, "Where's that nigger?" and fired three times without waiting for an answer. Then he leaped into the car and the two men sped away.

Before losing consciousness in the hospital Miller told police he was unable to explain the gunman's query. But detectives are investigating the possibility that the killing might have some connection with three gang style slayings in the Chicago area Saturday and Sunday. One of the Chicago victims was Walter J. Kelly, a Negro, once known as the policy and lottery king of Gary, Ind.

Shot 3 Years Ago by Officers.

The lockmith was shot three years ago by two Peoria detectives. At that time Miller was selling a gadget to open slot machines without using a key. He charged that his shooting was connected with his business venture, which was detrimental to slot machine owners.

Miller was shot about 4 a. m. on Jan. 26, 1936, as he walked near his lock and gun repairing shop. Richard J. Claudin and Paul Smith, who were then city detectives, said they shot him when he appeared suspicious and did not heed their commands to halt.

The wounded man sued the detectives and last March 29 obtained a judgment for $5,000 against Claudin, Smith having been dismissed as a defendant. Miller charged from the witness stand that he was shot by the detectives at the instigation of Chief of Detectives Fred Nuffbaum, who then was superintendent of police in Peoria.

Complains to State Officials.

After his shooting Miller opposed the operation of slot machines more than ever. He recently went to Springfield several times to lodge complaints with the attorney general against the continued operation of the "one-armed bandits" in Peoria.

He accompanied a group of ministers, members of the Peoria Ministerial association, to the state capital to make a concerted plea that the machines be ordered out of the county. Not long after this visit with state officials the county was "closed" to the machines.

2 U. S. INQUIRIES ON JOBS AND ROAD BIDDING DROPPED

No Reasons Given for Discontinuance.

William J. Campbell, the new United States district attorney recently appointed by President Roosevelt, yesterday abruptly dropped two government investigations of the state highway department, begun last summer.

W. J. Campbell.

The inquiries had been started by Campbell's predessor, Michael L. Igoe, now a federal District court judge. One concerned the possibility of collusive bidding on twenty-three Cook county highway projects. The second involved a charge of padding department pay rolls during the April primary.

Quiz Conducted by Canaday.

Each investigation had been conducted by Mr. Igoe's first assistant, Warren Canaday, who has retained that position under Campbell. The government assumed jurisdiction because of federal funds supplied for road construction. Canaday declined yesterday to discuss the reasons for discontinuing the investigations.

The two investigations were given prominence in announcements from the district attorney's office during the political campaign last summer and in the fall. But only one inquiry reached the grand jury stage.

County Projects Involved.

This concerned the Cook county highway projects. F. Lynden Smith, director of the state highway department, questioned the acceptance of bids for these projects by the county board.

The bids were $400,000 less than the estimate of county engineers. New bids were asked. These were found to be $872,000 lower than the original estimates. Because many of the companies bid both times collusive bidding was suspected.

In the pay roll padding case Mr. Canaday charged on Oct. 27 that 450 men were added to the state highway pay roll three weeks before the primary and discharged within a week after the votes were cast. Seventy of these men, Canaday said at the time, admitted they had done no work for the department, but had spent their time pushing doorbells for Gov. Horner's candidates.

Often Bitten Dog Catcher Neglects Serum and Dies

Jersey City, N. J., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Edgar B. Compbell, who, as a dog catcher in New Brunswick, had been bitten many times, died of rabies today in a Jersey City hospital. Campbell was bitten five times on his left thumb by a mad dog last Nov. 30. He cauterized his wounds with nitric acid, but had failed to get serum treatment which would have prevented rabies. He was 31 years old.

YEARS
"I've used REM for coughs for 15 years or more. It's way ahead of any cough medicine I've ever used."
Mr. Geo. E. Lydiard
15 Morton St., Bloomfield, N. J.
The Reason:
So many who praise REM remark that it has been their family cough medicine for 5, 10—even 15 years. And there's good reason for that: REM is thorough, for coughs resulting from colds, because it works two ways . . in the throat and also systemically. REM is much more than just a "tickle stopper."

HUNT TONG CLEW IN SLAYING OF CHINESE WOMAN

Find Partner with Bride Fled City in Fear.

Seven weeks ago a young Chinese, partner in a Beverly Hills restaurant, departed from Chicago for Oakland, Cal., with his bride. He said he feared an attack by members of an unidentified tong.

Last night police sought to learn the secret of his fear as a possible clew in the slaying early yesterday of another partner in the restaurant, Mrs. May Wong, 59 years old. Her unclad body was found sprawled across a bed in her apartment at 1443 West 63d street. The murderer had beaten the prosperous café operator about the head until she died.

Fugitive's Sister Finds Body.

The man who fled to California was Theodoro Tan Sunji, 32 years old. He lived at Mrs. Wong's home with his sister, Maria, 21, a student at the University of Chicago. They are of Chinese and Filipino descent. Maria found Mrs. Wong's body shortly after 8 a. m. after being awakened by a postman's ring.

Police and Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin questioned Maria and a procession of employés from the café, the Beverly Tea Maid restaurant at 1712 West 95th street.

One of those questioned at the Englewood station was Herbert Tsai, 32 years old, who also has a share in the restaurant. He admitted to Acting Captain Walter Healy that he was on parole from Leavenworth penitentiary. He was released last August after serving 39 months of a five year sentence for counterfeiting.

A letter from Theodoro to Mrs. Wong, mailed from Oakland recently, read in part: "Don't let Herbert fool you. He knows more than he says." Tsai said he knew nothing of this reference.

Wants Him to Watch Out.

Maria said Theodoro wrote her Jan. 5 asking if the tong were still looking for him. Her partially completed reply was found on a desk in her room at the Wong apartment. It said: "According to what I found out Al does not know if the tong is after you. But watch out."

She did not explain who Al is.

Maria said Mrs. Wong arrived home about 3 a. m. They talked briefly and then went to their bedrooms.

When the postman rang, Maria went downstairs and got several letters. Then she said, she wondered if Mrs. Wong was awake, and looked into her room. She saw the body and blood stained sheets and ran to a neighborhood grocery to call police. Mrs. Wong's neck had been broken and there was a deep slash on her right hand.

Considering the possibility that Maria's account might have been influenced by her fears for her own safety, Prosecutor Sherwin said he will ask her to undergo a lie detector test today.

Denies Link with Feuding Tongs.

Hone Wu, executive secretary of the On Leong Business Men's association, said that neither Mrs. Wong nor her associates and employés in the restaurant were members of his organization. He added he did not believe them to be members of Hip Sing. The feud of the On Leong and Hip Sing tongs was born in China three hundred years ago.

Capt. Healy said he had learned that the On Leong tong objected when Theodoro proposed to open Chinese restaurants at 63d street and Kedzie avenue and at 59th and Kedzie. At the time, the captain said, Theodoro was ordered to appear before the society. He abandoned his plans to branch out, took $800 from the safe at the Beverly Hills place, and left for California.

All those questioned were released last night except Maria. For her own protection she was taken to a hotel by a police matron.

Woman Is Slain

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mrs. May Wong (left), owner of restaurant, who was found slain in her home at 1443 West 63d street, and Maria Tan Sunji, who lived with Mrs. Wong. Maria, a student at the University of Chicago, was questioned by police after she found the body.

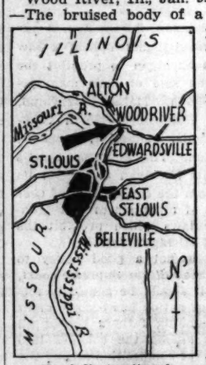
ADMITS WOMAN IS KILLED IN FALL FROM HIS AUTO

Wood River, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—The bruised body of a red haired young woman, found in a ditch on a lonely road near here this morning, was identified tonight as that of Mrs. Millie Stern, 26 years old, of East St. Louis.



Map indicates site of slaying.

The identification was made by Deputy Sherif William Sherman of St. Clair county and was verified by the victim's employer.

Late tonight Sherif Walter Wittman said Charles Lee of Wood River, a tannery worker, who is being held without charge, admitted the woman was fatally injured when she fell out of his automobile near Salem. Lee was quoted as saying that he put Mrs. Stern back in his car, explaining that he was afraid he would be suspected if he took her to a physician. Realizing that she was dead when he neared Wood River, Lee said he placed the body in the ditch. Coroner Harry Marks said an autopsy revealed a brain hemorrhage had caused her death.

Aged Man, Stabbed by Roomer, Dies of Wounds

Fred Lines, 71 years old, who was stabbed on Dec. 16 in his room at 1649 West Adams street, died of his wounds in the County hospital last night. At the time he told police his attacker was Gus Paulaski, 49, a roomer in the same house. Paulaski is being held in the county jail for hearing in the Felony court on Jan. 25 on a charge of assault to murder.

PERFUME GIRL'S SLAYER GETS 60 YEARS IN PRISON

Joseph Kadlecek, 27 years old, was sentenced yesterday to sixty years in the penitentiary for the murder of Miss Ella Pehrson, blonde perfume saleswoman. Kadlecek, a machinist, pleaded guilty before Judge Walter Stanton of the Criminal court.

Joseph Kadlecek.

Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan asked that he be sentenced to death. Kadlecek's attorneys pleaded for a light sentence. All the evidence was stipulated.

Miss Pehrson's nude body, stabbed three times with an eight inch butcher knife, was discovered Nov. 17 in Kadlecek's room at 2017 Warren boulevard.

MARTIN FORCED INTO SHOWDOWN BY AUTO UNION

Leader Must Tell Deal with Ford Company.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Battle lines were drawn tonight between foes and allies of Homer Martin, president of the C. I. O. United Automobile workers, for a showdown in the protracted war for control of union of automotive workers.

Over the opposition of Martin, members of the U. A. W. international executive board prepared to convene in special session tomorrow in response to a petition signed by twenty of the twenty-four board members.

The new outbreak of factionalism was crystalized by Martin's action Saturday night in suspending all officers of Plymouth local No. 51 and appointing administrators. Martin said the rank and file members had revolted against communistic influence among the officers.

May Seek Impeachment.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes, once suspended by Martin, was to obtain from the UAW president a report on the nature of negotiations he says he has been carrying on with representatives of the Ford Motor company.

There were presistent reports that the anti-administration faction would seek either to impeach Martin or shear him of much of his power, and that Martin, faced with a hostile majority on the board, planned a coup, possibly suspension of a sufficient number of board members to give him a sympathetic majority.

Ford Deal Reported.

Reports that Martin and Harry H. Bennett, personnel director of the Ford company, were carrying on some kind of negotiations, brought statements from both Bennett and Martin.

Bennett disclosed that he had had a number of meetings with Martin in recent months, but said there is no intention of changing the Ford company's policy of refusing to recognize any union.

"We believe the company's policy has been fair and just," Bennett said, "and we have no intention of changing. My personal feeling for Homer Martin has nothing to do with the policy of the Ford Motor company. I admire the man's pluck and courage in weeding out the communistic and radical elements."

Hold Two Young Robbers to Jury in $10,000 Bonds

Joseph Marrano, 18 years old, 4106 Congress street, and Ralph Hinton, 20, of 701 South Central Park avenue, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $10,000 each yesterday by Judge Joseph B. Hermes. They were seized Jan. 4 after robbing Jack Lazarus near his home at 3534 12th place.

UNIONS PROMISE TO MOVE FOOD IN BOSTON STRIKE

Merchants Protest to Governor Over Delay.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Gov. Leverett Saltonstall won an agreement between leaders of 5,000 striking truck drivers today for the movement of vast quantities of foodstuffs spoiling in Boston terminals.

There was a delay, however, in the movement of the perishables, attributed by the strikers to confused conditions.

As a result of the delay officials of the fruit and produce exchange strode into the governor's office tonight demanding that $3,000,000 worth of foodstuffs be moved at once.

1,000 Carloads Involved.

They said 1,000 freight cars laden with perishable fruits, eggs, butter, and meats were standing in the north and south terminal freight yards.

Nicholas Morrissey, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor, reiterated an announcement that "all stagnated food will be moved," as he hurried from a night conference with Gov. Saltonstall, a Republican who has just been inaugurated.

The strike, which began last Thursday, was called by the Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen, and Helpers union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, after truck operators refused to sign an agreement to pay $40 for a 40 hour week, in place of $37 for 48 hours under the expiring contract.

Fish Pier Closed.

For the first time in history, there were no dealings today at the Boston fish pier. Coastwise steamship lines canceled Boston service because of lack of freight for outgoing vessels and the fear that incoming steamships might further crowd piers already choked. Railroad officials reported no more room on their sidings.

Reports of profiteering in perishable goods brought inspectors of the state division on the necessaries of life into greater Boston's grocery and meat markets, with a warning that "profiteering of any kind will not be tolerated."

WRIGHT ELECTED TO HEAD STATE DETECTIVE BODY

New officers and directors of the Associated Detectives of Illinois were elected last night at the organization's first annual dinner and meeting in the Atlantic hotel. Those elected are Homer Wright, president; Harry McKee, vice president; George Youstra, treasurer; Frank Kane, secretary; W. C. Dannenberg, chairman, and George E. Hargrave, Sheridan A. Bruseaux, Robert H. Sewall, L. P. Kane, and John Weccard, directors. Associated Detectives is a licensed organization. Its members are heads of agencies licensed under Illinois laws.

MOTHER IS SENT TO REFORMATORY IN HOLDUP FIASCO

Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court yesterday sentenced Mrs. Mary Cheek McCollum Schuch, 36 years old, to 1 to 10 years in the women's reformatory at Dwight. Mrs. Schuch was seized Dec. 21 when she robbed the Drexel State bank of $5,000 by threatening to blow it sky high with nitro-glycerine.

An unemployed nurse, Mrs. Schuch pleaded not guilty to a charge of robbery, but admitted the allegations in the charge. She said she had a sick daughter, that she owed a year's room rent, and that she never had known anything but bad luck from men. Her attorney, Samuel Hoffman, asked for probation. Judge McKinley, with the agreement of Assistant State's Attorney Morris G. Meyers, changed the charge to larceny.

Mrs. Schuch obtained the $5,000 by threatening President R. J. Neal with a vial filled with a liquid she said was ahigh explosive. As she left the was a high explosive. As she left the ored, seized her.

Two Bandits Hunted After $1,133 Grocery Robbery

Police last night were seeking two bandits who robbed the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 2421 North Harlem avenue of $1,133 Sunday.

DICTATORSHIP ON THE RADIO.

Section 6 of the radio act of 1927 contains the following provision:

"Upon proclamation by the President that there exists war or a threat of war or a state of public peril or disaster or other national emergency, or in order to preserve the neutrality of the United States, the President may suspend or amend, for such time as he may see fit, the rules and regulations applicable to any or all stations within the jurisdiction of the United States as prescribed by the licensing authority, and may cause the closing of any station for radio communication and the removal therefrom of its apparatus and equipment, or he may authorize the use or control of any such station . . . by any department of the government under such regulations as he may prescribe, upon just compensation to the owners."

A great many things have happened in the world since that injudicious grant of authority was made by a congress which certainly did not think around the proposal when it came up. For one thing, radio has become a favorite means of government propaganda, not only for control of a domestic situation but for blasting into foreign affairs. Radio transmission abroad is used constantly in fomenting trouble.

For twenty-four hours a day the air is filled with emanations from government stations elsewhere than in the United States. The Italians seek to enrage the Arabs against the British. Both Italians and Germans are bombarding South and Central America. It is a criminal offense in dictator countries to tune in on an opposing government station. It would be worth a German's head to be caught listening to a Russian program. British broadcasting is a government monopoly and censored to stop criticism and opposition. Winston Churchill may talk to Americans by short wave but oftentimes he can't say the same things to his fellow countrymen over their own radio system.

The United States is virtually the only great country which has anything like freedom of expression on the air, and even here the broadcasting companies and the outlet stations have to pay more attention than they should to government intimations and demands for time.

Mr. Roosevelt is looking for trouble abroad and may find it. The neutrality of the United States is a thing under constant tinkering and most of the time it is whatever the administration wants it to be. In such disturbed and disordered times a grant of authority, giving unrestricted power to the chief executive to take control of radio communications any time he can create a situation with which he could justify himself, seems doubly dangerous and extraordinarily foolish.

The present congress ought to repeal the provision and reserve to itself the right to decide upon the circumstances in which government can monopolize the means of communicating information and suggestion by air. Preserving the neutrality of the United States at any time may be blown up to look like a crisis. Mr. Roosevelt may soon have the country where he may say that he does not know how to handle questions of most serious import unless he can control what is being said on the radio. Congress should recover the jurisdiction it surrendered years ago when governments were subject to more restrictions than they are today.

A WINDOW INTO THE NEW DEAL.

Philip La Follette, who became ex-governor of Wisconsin amid great popular rejoicing the first of the new year, ended his administration by pardoning from the Milwaukee House of Correction his personal and political intimate, Thomas Duncan. Duncan, while driving through the streets of Milwaukee, helplessly drunk, had killed a man. The pardon was granted in defiance of popular opinion and against the recommendation of the sentencing judge and the prosecuting attorney.

The misuse of the power to pardon is in the same category as misuse of the power to punish. They are both essential instruments of the dictator. La Follette used dictatorial power in freeing his friend and colleague.

Duncan did not stop when his car struck and killed Henry Schuette, an elderly citizen, but instead wove an uncertain path through the streets. Eventually he was arrested for drunken driving by a trafic policeman who had not yet learned of the killing or of the general order to arrest the hit and run driver.

Duncan at the time was La Follette's confidential adviser and co-author of part of Wisconsin's political and reform legislation.

Medical experts on the state's pay roll presented a defense for him so fantastic it was laughed out of court. What a dozen veteran policemen swore was drunkenness the state paid physicians attributed to a mysterious attack of a more mysterious disease.

Duncan was sentenced to one to two years in jail, the penalty for fourth degree manslaughter, although the court declared him guilty of a more serious offense, the penalty for which is five to ten years in the penitentiary. G. N. Risjord, the judge, told La Follette before the pardon the lesser sentence was his one serious mistake in a long career on the bench.

Duncan was freed after serving only six months and eleven days, a term scarcely longer than is imposed for driving offenses not accompanied by the fatality that was a consequence of Duncan's drunken act. The pardon was a clear prostitution of the power of office for the payment of a debt, personal and political.

The incident exposes the sham and pretense of the group that rose to power in Wisconsin and the nation by coupling an assumption of superior morality with an appeal to class hatred and envy. La Follette has opened another window in the New Deal's house. Through it the nation obtains a clearer view of the viciously irresponsible character of the men who constitute the New Deal. They are just beginning to be found out in all their lust for power and all their willingness to sacrifice anything to attain and hold it.

AFTER THE ELECTION.

THE TRIBUNE'S economist and statistician reports that 168,003 cars were loaded with freight in the Chicago terminal district in the month of December and notes the following:

It was the second biggest December since 1929.

It was the peak of 1938, the first time any year has peaked in the month of December. We've had peaks in March, April, and October, but never before in December.

It was 22 per cent ahead of December, 1937.

It was a bigger month than December, 1922 or 1923, pretty good years, and before the truck lines became important.

Something had happened. It had been happening for some months. It had been happening in the Democratic primaries when the senators who had been marked for political execution were renominated in spite of the decree of Mr. Roosevelt. If there was any doubt of what was happening it did not outlast election day, Nov. 8. THE TRIBUNE said on that event: "The country has turned a corner. The New Deal has been set back on its heels. Mr. Roosevelt has been in large part deflated. America has voted American. It can now pick up and go about its business confident that it can work its way into the clear at last."

MEXICO GOING COMMUNIST.

Although President Cardenas of Mexico frequently says that his government is not communistic the first political triumph of proletarian dictatorship in this hemisphere may be in Mexico, and it may not be long delayed. Political pressure, exercised chiefly by the Mexican revolutionary labor leaders and by economic distress, pushes the government further to the left. The resulting conditions destroy private investment and ruin private enterprise by robbing it of profit.

The chief reliance of the government is now the sale of silver to the United States, and if the 76th congress should put a stop to the absurdity the effect upon Mexican finance and economic life would be violent. Mexican conservatives realize this, but they are unable to stem the revolutionary expropriations of private property and the consequent lowering of employment. Wage earnings are decreasing and prices are rising. Production drops off. The socialized enterprises are falling into disuse and decay. The workers have been given possession of properties and are mismanaging them. As distress increases the government is forced to interfere to a greater extent with the profit system, still further reducing the opportunity for investment and gainful enterprise.

Mexican conservatives realize they are heading into communism at a rapid pace, and if the silver sales should be stopped, affecting, as that would, all the mining activities of the country, the economic shock might precipitate the Marxian revolution at once.

The groundwork has been pretty thoroughly done. Mexican education has emphasized the Marxist-Lenin doctrin of dialectic materialism, which is supported by the national council of higher education and scientific research. A presidential election is to be held in 1940, unless it is postponed, but a sharp turn for the worse in Mexican economic conditions would probably bring the communist revolution in before a campaign could get started.

Stalin's first successful bit of foreign missionary work may be achieved in Mexico any time in 1939. It is not believed that the conservatives could stop it. Although our state department makes representations against the expropriation of American properties, the extreme left tendencies have the sympathy and the support of the American government. The interests and influence of the propertied class have been virtually destroyed. A conservative return to power seems to be out of the question. If destitution and distress start anything it will probably be a dictatorship in the control of the Moscow International.

Editorial of the Day

"BEAVER."

[Washington Evening Star.]

Quite a few years ago Merrie England was in the grip of a fascinating game known as "beaver." It was played by all classes of society, from 'Erbert the 'uckster up to Lord Montmorency and his monocled minions, and consisted in keeping a weather eye peeled for beards. The first one to spot a luxuriant specimen of home grown facial fungus would announce his discovery with a loud cry of "beaver!" and score one point, while the contestants continued on through Piccadilly flushing other quarry.

Densely foliaged members of the Conservative club raged at the sacrilege and followed the time-honored custom of writing to the Times; but nothing could be done. They had to slink along the by-ways of London, nerves aquiver and ears wide open for the dread cry of beaver, until in desperation they bought razors and resorted to surgery. The lack of a sound conservation policy became evident soon. The beards of Britain were decimated to such an appalling extent that no more sport was available, and the players were obliged to fall back on cricket and get only vicarious thrills out of watching Ponderby-Jones' stupendous feat of bowling out St. John Kingsford-Smith in two hours and a quarter for a grand total of only a hundred and twenty-three earned runs.

Now, it may be, better days are in store—when H. M. S. Research gets back to port. The Research is a nonmagnetic ship, built for the admiralty, and no iron or steel is allowed aboard other than the magnetic instruments she carries. The instruments are particularly allergic to razor blades, so the crew have had to leave theirs with the dock purser. At sea, while they are checking up on the vagaries of the earth's magnetism, nature will function relentlessly, and by the time they get home they will have qualified for the Gillette chamber of horrors. Then, as they scatter for cover, there may be one last field day for the devotees of beaver.

HERO WORSHIP CALENDAR.

A curiosity among calendars, almost forgotten now, is that invented by Auguste Comte, the French philosopher [1798-1857]. His system of thought took a strong trend toward the scientific reformation of society in general, and his disciples formed themselves into the so-called Positivist Society, for which he prepared a calendar based upon a cult of Great Men—leaders in thought and action who had made notable contributions to progress. Comte's Positivist calendar might almost be called a Dictators' calendar.

* * *

He started the year at Jan. 1 and divided it into thirteen months, each with four weeks of seven days. He named his months as follows: Moses, Homer, Aristotle, Archimedes, Cæsar, St. Paul, Charlemagne, Dante, Gutenberg, Shakespeare, Descartes, Frederick II. [the Great], Bichat. [The latter was a French anatomist and physiologist who does not deserve this major rating.]

Furthermore, Comte named every day in the year after some notable, and so whenever an addict of the Positivist calendar woke up in the morning he had a Great Man of the past to inspire him. Here are the names of the days in the first week of the month of Moses, i. e., the first week in January: Prometheus, Hercules, Orpheus, Ulysses, Lycurgus, Romulus, Numa.

* * *

At the end of the thirteen months the faithful Positivist had tried to pattern his life on the models of 364 subjects of articles in the encyclopædia and must have been feeling pretty low from all that strain; therefore, in adding an extra day to make the count the proper 365 Comte called it the Festival of All the Dead. His names for days were entirely masculine, but he made a concession to womankind on leap year. His extra day every four years was named the Festival of Holy Women.

The entire world turned negativist when faced with the Positivist calendar.

GHOST IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

Here England's soul abides. For here her great
Of mind and heart live on through tumbling years.
Elizabeth still reigns, amid the fears
Of this new time. Here are her robes of state.
She still is queen, though timid statesmen prate
Of broken pacts and dread new wars that loom—
Elizabeth the Queen shall save from doom,
As British hosts her glories contemplate.
Who sees her victim of dictator kings
That shake red banners over Europe's throngs?
Fear not their taunts, their bloody battle songs,
Their demon dreams, their warlike traffickings,
Elizabeth still reigns, and leads her band
Of new-bred heroes, sworn to save her land.

Thomas Curtis Clark.

Message to the Family Upstairs.

Ah, good evening, good neighbors. Are we all set for the evening circus? You've added an elephant? That's simply ducky. Say, keep off that rug! You can't make near the noise on it that you can on the floor, O, do be careful. You shouldn't try to throw the davenport across the room. You might break your neck, I hope. What a novel idea—doing the Lambeth walk with a chair for a partner! Hoi!

Now for the windows. That's right. Just slam them up and down until you have them exactly right. Would you mind tuning in the radio just a little louder? I can't catch the addresses on those police calls. Why, you're not going to bed already? Not with that beautiful sunrise coming up over the lake? Well, if you must, you must, but don't forget to swing on the chandelier while you're taking off your shoes. They thud so much more effectively that way. There, I knew you wouldn't fail me. Natalie.

To Inspire the Young.

I attribute my ability to retire with $68,006 in the bank, after thirty years in business, to close application to duty, pursuing a policy of strict honesty, taking good times with the bad, always practicing rigorous rules of economy, and to the recent death of an uncle of mine who left me $68,000. Landfield the Junior.

DESERT ISLAND DREAM.

Ah, love, with you on some deserted isle,
Wrapped round with green, illimitable seas,
I would not jealous be of spicy winds

And yet, perhaps, some perfumed, starry night,
While in your arms I watched the tropic moon,
My heart would break to find you listening

Casey Jones Roams Around Chicago.

Your Curbstone Voodoo Man [1-3-'39] can be none other than "Casey Jones," unless he has a double. Last summer his leading chicken lady, Mae West, passed away and a public funeral was held for her in the vacant lot near 30th and South State streets.

"Casey" was once picked up by police for having no visible means of support and when so charged by the judge, produced his accordion, or banjo, or guitar [he's an adept on musical instruments], declaring that this, his support, was quite visible. On being ordered to demonstrate, he said:

"Judge, your honor, give me a dime and I'll sing you the Blues." Darmal.

FAREWELL IN WINTER.

Fall softly, snow. Beneath this hillock lies
A heart who loved you deeply, who would crave
No lovelier requiem than your silent rune,
No glory greater than a snow-draped grave.

Six-pointed, fragile, exquisite crystal stars,
Heal this disheveled earth. With cadence slow,
Yea, weave a glittering pall more velvet soft
And whiter than the whitest lilies glow.

WHEN GERMS START TRAVELING.

PHYSICIANS now understand that early in the course of most of our infections the blood harbors bacteria. For example, in an acute inflammation of the air passages we may find certain germs floating along the arteries and veins. As a rule they do not live long in this environment—an hour or two, occasionally several. And here nature displays one of her most beneficent rôles. Because the organisms are not present in huge numbers the natural defenses of the system may kill them immediately, long before they can spread to vital regions. In meningitis or pneumonia, if we are alert and skilful, we can probably find the causative microbes in the circulation prior to the actual attack upon the brain coverings or the lungs.

In osteomyelitis [infection within a bone] a nest of staphylococci may become established near the end of one of these long structures. But the invaders did not originate in that location; neither were they introduced from the outside through a wound. They were conveyed by the blood and found therein a site favorable for growth. The patient, unfortunately, did not possess enough resistance to destroy the cocci. But where did they come from? In the majority of instances such lesions can be traced to the nose, the throat, impetigo on the skin, the teeth, or even a boil.

But what about carbuncles and pus containing pimples such as boils? Are the organisms always rubbed into a hair follicle by the fingers? No. In at least half the cases—particularly in those who have crops of boils or furuncles one after the other—the source is not the skin at all. Bacteria are being transported hither and yon from remote localities, some of which are deeply seated. The same may be said of abscesses about the kidneys or within the prostate gland. The chances are that on more than one occasion when we are feeling just a bit below par—half sick—we may account for the episode by a blood infection which never actually blossoms.

One of our common enemies is the streptococcus viridans which is fond of lurking around the sockets of the teeth. It can nearly always be found on the mucous surfaces within the mouth. It is our most frequent cause of bacterial endocarditis and we are often at a loss to explain why the pumping organ of one patient will be impaired while another will not be. The reason is that we sometimes overlook trivial affairs which may drive these "bugs" into the circulation.

Caution has been sounded repeatedly against wholesale extractions from a foul mouth because within a few minutes bacteriologists have been able to detect these organisms in the liquid portion of the blood in 75 per cent of the cases. Enough injury is produced in pulling the tooth to open tissue spaces, thus permitting the entrance of germs. Even in a clean oral cavity the incident ensues now and then. All of which means that the dentist who removes teeth must do so with the least possible damage as there is always a chance that streptococcic forms will be forced into the blood stream.

It seems obvious, therefore, that the members of the human family are menaced with catastrophes of which they are unaware, but from which they are adequately protected if the health level is sufficiently high. But should a chill ensue, followed by a fever, we may know that the bacterial adventurers floating about have increased to the point where the fighting forces of the body cannot overcome them with ease. The individual then faces an illness—such as pneumonia—where every resource of medical science will be needed for the preservation of life.

Few of us need give any concern to this subject, but this discussion may serve to emphasize again the importance of maintaining a high standard of well being.

CROUP.

M. P. writes: What causes croup? How can it be overcome?

REPLY.

The commonest cause is congestion resulting from infection in the nose and throat or breathing passages [bronchial tubes]. The breathing may be eased by the use of a steam kettle. Rubbing the chest with ointments containing menthol, camphor, and other volatile oils may give relief. Occasionally sensitivity to some food is responsible.

GRAPEFRUITS FOR DIABETICS.

S. writes: Is it harmful for a diabetic to eat one or two grapefruits daily?

REPLY.

No, but since grapefruit contains a small amount of sugar, it must be counted along with other foods in the total carbohydrate allowance.

CLAIM ON ESTATE.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Has the attorney for an estate in probate the right to raise the rent?

2. Must the Probate court issue an order?

3. The deceased owner refused to go to a hospital. I nursed him four months. Have I a right to file a claim against the estate for practical nursing?

4. Attorney for estate says I have no legal basis for a claim, as the deceased had not given me a written statement authorizing me to collect anything from the estate for my services.

5. Can I collect or not?

6. Must I have a written statement?

L. L.

1. The attorney has only such rights as are given him by his client, the executor or administrator. Neither the executor or administrator has necessarily anything to do with the real estate.

2. If the estate is clearly sufficient to pay debts and there is no will giving specific powers to the executor to manage real estate, presumably the heirs would make decisions. In any event, the tenant's rights under an existing lease would continue.

3. Depends in part on the understanding when your services were rendered. If, for example, the deceased was a close relative of yours, then it might be presumed that your services were gratuitous.

4. This would not be conclusive.

5. Your chances would seem good enough to warant employing an attorney.

6. No, but your own testimony would not be admissible under the evidence act. You would have to produce other witnesses.

YOUTH AND MR. WILLIAMS.

East Chicago, Ind., Jan. 1.—How comes it that the appointment of Aubrey Williams as head of the National Youth administration is accepted so casually? I have seen almost no comment on it other than that the appointment has been made. Is not Mr. Williams an out-and-out communist, or at least decidedly Red in his tendencies?

It seems to me a very significant appointment and one that will delight the Reds in this country and their masters in Russia. Nothing could be more to their liking than to have one of their number to direct the youth of the United States in the ways and the "blessings" of communism. As a trite saying expresses it, the young people of today are the men and women of tomorrow, and with the head of the youth movement to supplement the teachings of the schools in cases where the latter are embryo hotbeds of communism, as I am convinced some of them are, what could be better for the Stalinites? L. M. F.

FRIENDLY TO DYNAMITE.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—I read your editorial on "Political Dynamite" with interest and agree with you that the pension question is the most important question before the American people today and that it is political dynamite that will blow any congressman out of office who dares to vote against the expressed will of the organized millions who are demanding action now. This movement is spreading like wildfire from coast to coast and the new slogan for the 1939 drive for new members is, "Every Town a Townsend Town." The first effect of this drive was felt in the last election on Nov. 8, but that is just the beginning. Wait till you see a pension block in congress controling the balance of power; then the politicians will think it is political dynamite.

G. EDWARD LIND.

GEORGE'S VISIT.

Waukesha, Wis., Jan. 4.—Now that the king and queen of England have so graciously condescended to visit our country [for their own very good reasons—and if we are not too foolishly flattered we know why], I earnestly hope that our natural pride of person and country will keep our heads erect when we meet them. If a straightforward look, eye to eye, a friendly smile, and an honest American handclasp isn't good enough, let them stay at home. We've proven ourselves their betters in every way, in war and in peace—and we pay our debts.

ALL-AMERICAN.

BARNUM WAS RIGHT.

Chicago, Jan. 7.—Recently I saw the Shriners' circus. I was interested in the side show. They had a headless body of a woman, kept alive by several tubes attached to some apparatus. The tubes came out of the neck where the head was cut off. I saw the hands and arms move and they were flesh. I believed it real; my friends called it fake. Medical science is wonderful, but I am not in favor of saving a headless, helpless woman. What is your opinion?

MRS. W. GASTEL.

F. D. R. PROMISED TO END IT.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 6.—Surprise and surprise! There was a deficit under Hoover in 1932 of around 3 billion dollars, according to a chart in this morning's TRIBUNE. I thought only the Democrats incurred deficits. NOT A DEMOCRAT.

THE DECISION APPLIES ONLY TO LIQUOR.

Alpena, Mich., Jan. 5.—On Jan. 3 our nation's highest tribunal upheld a law which permits Michigan to prohibit the importation and sale of beer manufactured in Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont, and Washington. The Supreme court's decision permits Michigan to protect its beer barons from the competition of beer manufacturers of other states in retaliation for their laws which prohibit the importation of Michigan beer.

Although it is not a good policy to question a decision of our Supreme court, it seems that it should be generally recognized that our nation has become great because its founding fathers booted all trade barriers among the colonies into the ash can. Free competition among the states of the Union permitted our nation to undersell the peon and the coolie labor of the world. Instead of putting its stamp of approval upon a law which erects a trade barrier among states, the court should have declared such a law un-American and unconstitutional.

Prohibiting the importation of beer from one state to another can easily lead to prohibiting the importation of other products.

In recent years citizens of some states have demanded that laws be enacted to prohibit the importation of outstate agricultural products. If these citizens would have succeeded in protecting their producers from competition from agricultural producers of other states it is more than likely that by this time Indiana automobile manufacturers would be demanding that legislation be enacted to protect them from the competition of Michigan manufacturers.

NORBERT VICTOR DAY.

OFF THE CHEST.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—Darn it, Voice, I hate a poor loser, and THE TRIBUNE is just that. I believe if even conditions were normal you would still rap Mr. Roosevelt. I am grateful we have a President who is first and last a humanitarian as well as an American. I hate [a terrible word] any ism except our own Americanism. I'll feel 100 per cent better when this is in our United States mail box, as it will take an awful load off my chest. May I suggest we all pull together and see what happens. P. R. SANDLER.

HOW ABOUT REPEATERS?

Chicago, Jan. 3.—That the driver's license law is unnecessary is evidenced by the fact that of 915 deaths caused by automobiles during 1938 613 were attributed to normal motorists while only one was attributed to a motorist classified as physically deficient. This showing means that physically fit drivers should be removed from the streets and only those physically deficient allowed to drive.

A SAFE DRIVER.

THE WIT OF ARISTOPHANES.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—I submit herewith a quotation from Aristophanes which seems very appropriate at present:

"If we withdraw the confidence we placed in these, our present statesmen, and transfer it to those whom we mistrusted heretofore, this seems, I think, our fairest chance for safety: if with our present counselors we fail, then with their opposites we might succeed."

L. A. SORENSEN.

ANOTHER RELIEF CRISIS.

Chicago, Jan. 5.—In recent issues of THE TRIBUNE I have noticed the same old bunk concerning the so-called imminent crisis of the Chicago Relief administration. Why all this periodic baloney? Every one knows that when the relief was dependent on grants from Washington Harry Hopkins, who was then in charge of the grants, made a complete survey of the situation in Illinois and notified the officials here that Illinois was entirely capable of caring for the poor and to do so adequately a 3 cent tax should be imposed, and unless such tax was put on the statute books here no further grants would be made to Illinois for relief.

After the usual ballyhoo the tax was passed and subsequent events have proved Hopkins was right. The 3 cent state tax will take care of all relief in Illinois, not on an emergency or starvation basis but adequately. But what happened? We find that our governor and our beneficent legislature took over the tax for themselves after six months and gave only 1 cent of it for what it was intended. So it is now not a question of passing new legislation to continue giving even the 1 cent tax for relief, but whether the state needs any of the tax instead of the people for whom it was intended.

Give the 3 cent tax back to the relief and no more crises will occur, and incidentally no pot-bellied politicians will be getting the benefit of public money which was intended solely for the poor.

ALBERT RAWSON.

SPEECH ON THE RADIO.

Riverside, Ill., Jan. 7.—A few years ago radio announcers vied with one another in speaking correct and clearly expressed English, which was a pleasure to hear. Of recent years the quality of speech over the radio has markedly depreciated, as well as the quality of many programs [not progr'ms or "grums"] and we get often for often, fawst for forest, fawn noos for foreign news, Maw's'n for Morrison, artic and anartic for arctic and antarctic, innerstate for interstate, authorty for authority, etc.

LISTENER.

MR. KENNEDY'S ALTERNATIVES.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—In his attempt to drum up a war scare President Roosevelt, in his annual message, omitted any and all reference to a recent important and relevant event, about which Ambassador Kennedy on his recent return from London said, succinctly, the only alternatives to European appeasement were economic chaos and war.

Inference: Mr. Roosevelt doesn't agree with Mr. Kennedy and on the other hand doesn't dare, or care, to express openly his preference for "the only alternatives." C. B.

ONE MORE YEAR.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—It's 1939 now! Only one more year of lawless strikes, economic sabotage, class prejudice and hatred, ill will between capital and labor, mass poverty, and social disintegration. In 1940 Americans will rise up and clean out the selfish interests of the New Deal and the money-making Roosevelts. Let's have hope, and pray that in 1940 this land will again become a land of free people with purpose, initiative, and freedom to pursue and worship American ideals. JAMES PENNY.

GREEN DEMANDS NEW LEADERSHIP; ASSAILS RACKETS

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Dwight H. Green outlined the major planks in his platform for the Republican mayoral nomination in a radio address last night. These are:

"Restore honest government for the city.

"Stop waste.

"Reduce taxes."

Mr. Green's speech was the first of a series of talks which he will deliver at 9:30 p. m. each Monday until the primary election Feb. 28.

The former United States district attorney made a vigorous plea for Chicago to join in the march of Republicanism. Looking ahead to 1940, he warned that voters who cast Democratic ballots in this primary will forfeit their rights to take part in the G. O. P. primary next year.

Demands New Leadership.

"What this city needs today is new leadership—a type of leadership which will restore the confidence of the nation in Chicago," Green said.

"In order to accomplish this it is not necessary to change the ways of the people of this outstanding liberal city. It is not necessary to interfere with their social activities nor their private lives.

"Chicagoans are open minded and they are lenient in the matter of personal liberties. But any man who occupies the executive office of this great city must realize that these same liberal people are violently opposed to organized political gangs and racketeers who seek to dominate the government and block the normal processes of law."

Refers to Capone Overthrow.

He referred briefly to the overthrow of Al Capone and other overlords of gangdom, when he prosecuted them as United States district attorney and as assistant to his predecessor, George E. Q. Johnson.

"I contend that the task which faces the next mayor of Chicago is no more difficult than was the problem of convicting these firmly intrenched criminals," said Green.

"Chicago can break the alliance between crime and politics, but such an achievement will require an entirely new leadership in public office."

The problem is of interest even to those persons whose main questions, said Green, are: How much longer will we be on relief? Where can we find honest jobs? How can we find relief from unjust taxation?

Wants Corruption Driven Out.

"In the face of these existing conditions and the ever increasing rate of taxation, is it any wonder that business men hesitate to open shops or bring Chicago additional industrial plants?" he asked.

"Racketeers and hoodlums have preyed upon business and industry. It is apparent that organized crime could not have thrived as it has without the tolerance of our elected officials and law enforcing agencies.

"If Chicago is to go forward—if Chicago industries are to flourish and provide jobs for the unemployed—these corrupt influences must be driven from Chicago by an aroused citizenry marching to the polls—demanding new leadership."

Points to Special Problems.

Green spoke of special problems affecting the outlying neighborhoods, the public schools, and taxpayers, which he said he intends to solve.

"I urge you to join me whole heartedly," he said, "in this effort to restore honest government for the city—to stamp out crime, to stop waste, and to reduce taxes.

"Go forward, Chicago, with new leadership, to better times!"

Yesterday was Green's 42d birthday. He put in a hard day and evening. His hand was limp but his smile had not left his face when he finished greeting 2,700 persons who came to his birthday party.

Receives for Three Hours.

For three hours, starting at 2 p. m., throngs besieged the Green-for-Mayor headquarters on the ninth floor of the Hotel La Salle. During that time Green headed a receiving line which included Mrs. Green, Charles B. Goodspeed, national treasurer of the G. O. P., and Green's running mates, Clement A. Nance, candidate for city treasurer, and John W. Chapman, candidate for city clerk.

The guests made short work of a birthday cake, four feet high and trimmed in green. As birthday gifts Green received pledges of thousands of votes, an American flag, and a speech with it recalling his services to the country as a world war aviator and district attorney, and a silver elephant.

2 KILLED AS AUTO PLUNGES 40 FEET OFF RAIL VIADUCT

Skids on Wet Pavement in Berkeley; 1 Hurt.

Two men were killed and a third was critically injured yesterday when their automobile skidded on a slippery pavement, plunged through the guard rail of a railroad viaduct, and dropped forty feet to the ground. All lived in Maywood.

The accident occurred on the Wolf road viaduct over the Chicago and North Western railway tracks in Berkeley, a village in the western part of the county. St. Charles road is about 2,000 feet south of the viaduct.

Those killed were Howard Hinkel, 28 years old, 844 South 15th avenue, and Floyd J. Kearney, 50, 1208 South 13th avenue. David Dortmann, 30, 637 South 14th avenue, was injured. The men were in the gas station business.

Find Fugitive Under Bed.

New City police yesterday arrested William Vojensky, 17, while he was hiding under the bed in his home at 4809 South Winchester avenue. On Sunday night his automobile seriously injured John Machlisky, 59, 5130 South Hermitage avenue, a carpenter, at 50th and Wood streets.

Vojensky's car, a seven year old model, was equipped with state license plates belonging to his companion, Tony Noradin, 23, 4643 South Laflin street. After the accident Vojensky removed the plates and tossed them away.

Then he drove Machilsky to the Evangelical hospital, left him there, and fled. A little girl found the plates and turned them over to Sergt. John Stautz, who traced them to Noradin. Noradin was charged with disorderly conduct, and Vojensky with leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving, and driving with fictitious plates.

Hit by Auto; Dies in 2 Hours.

Alfred Lehman, 58 years old, 4711 Jackson boulevard, died in St. Anne's hospital last evening of injuries suffered two hours before when he was hit by an automobile in front of 310 South Cicero avenue. The driver was Milton Rubin, 20 South Central avenue. He was not held.

An inquest into the death of Raymond Leinen, 33, 1129 Drummond place, was continued yesterday until next Tuesday. Leinen was killed early Sunday at Wells and Eugenie streets. The driver of the car, Raymond Collins, 33, 625 Willow street, an ex-convict, was pursued for two miles by a police squad and captured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 42 persons had been killed by automobile in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of this number 32 were killed within the city limits, where 526 were injured.

With many of his 1,400 specimens of birds and mammals still wet from the waters of the Courantyne river in the depths of South America's "lost world," Emmet R. Blake arrived in Chicago yesterday.

Arrow indicates where boat upset.

At the Field museum, where he is assistant curator of birds, the specimens were opened up for drying and Mr. Blake spent the day recounting his adventures to museum staf members.

When the boat he and his expedition party were in struck a submerged rock and overturned last Nov. 1, he narrowly escaped drowning. The misadventure occurred deep in British Guiana, near the Brazilian border. Blake and the one other white man on the trip then remained on an acre-large island in the river for seven days living on cannibal fish and iguana eggs while the natives went for boats.

COURT UPHOLDS COMPANY'S RIGHT TO FREE SPEECH

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP)—The federal Circuit court today denied the petition of the National Labor Relations board for a rehearing on its unsuccessful application for an enforcement order against the Union Pacific Stages of Portland. The board had ordered the company to post notices of its intention to cease discouraging membership in the union. The court said: "It is difficult to think that congress intended to forbid an employer from expressing a general opinion that an employé would find it more to his advantage not to belong to a union. Had congress attempted to do so, it would have been in violation of the first amendment of the United States constitution."

Inquest Today in Death of Boy Killed with 50c Rifle

An inquest into the death of George Brincka Jr., 13 years old, of Downers Grove will be held today in Westmont. George was shot and killed on Sunday in the yard of his home when his brother, James, 4, picked up the rifle with which George had been playing and pulled the trigger. George had bought the gun a few weeks ago from a friend for 50 cents.

LAWS DRAFTED TO END PROFITS IN SPEED TRAPS

Hoosiers Also Opposed to Diversion of Funds.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—A legislative program affecting automobile operation was drafted at a Chicago Motor club luncheon here today. Civic leaders from throughout northern Indiana were in attendance. Emphasized in the program were restraints on speed traps and on diversions of state road funds.

Justice of the Peace W. R. Howard of Monticello read the draft of a bill he said will be introduced in the legislature to eliminate fees for justices and constables in traffic arrests. Under this bill one justice in each county will receive a monthly salary of $125 and no fees for handling all trafic arrests in the county not handled by Municipal courts.

Prepare Series of Bills.

Paul Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation and chairman of the Indiana Traffic Safety council, said that Dean J. J. Robinson of the Indiana university law school is preparing bills with this same aim—to eliminate the profit motive in traffic arrests.

Justice Howard's bill and other proposals indorsed at today's meeting will be submitted to Dean Robinson as chairman of a committee of the Indiana Traffic Safety council. This committee is drafting a complete recodification of Hoosier automotive laws. Indorsed proposals include:

1. A resolution calling for an amendment to the state constitution barring use of any motor tax for purposes foreign to motor operation.

2. Repeal of an act of 1937 transferring $1,250,000 annually from the road fund to the general fund.

3. Repay the road fund $2,000,000 borrowed by the general fund in 1932.

Want Records Kept.

4. Require justices of the peace to maintain complete public records.

5. Enact a penalty for justices or constables making traffic arrests and convictions for personal profit.

6. Require all automobiles used in traffic patrol to be painted distinctively.

7. Ban trucks from busy highways on summer week-ends.

8. Eliminate 25 cent service charge on auto license plates purchased from branch offices.

9. Extend the 50 cent driver's license fee to cover three years rather than the present one year.

VOIGTS FINDS A NEW ROOTER IN TRAFIC JUDGE

Among the rooters for Bob Voigts, guard on the Northwestern university basketball team, at the Michigan game last night in Patten gymnasium, was Judge James M. Corcoran of the Evanston Municipal court.

During the day Judge Corcoran dismissed Voigts when he was arraigned for a trafic violation. Then the judge promised to be on hand to cheer the basketball player.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR GETS YEAR IN COUNTY JAIL

Judge Jay A. Schiller in Safety court yesterday sentenced Herman L. Voss, 4501 Monroe street, to one year in the county jail. Voss pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident.

On Dec. 10 the automobile he was driving killed Patrick Stapleton, 70, of 767 Van Buren street, at Van Buren and Halsted streets. Voss fled the scene. He avoided capture for seventy hours. He was traced through Miss Thelma Wells, 3428 Jackson boulevard, owner of the car. Miss Wells and Lee Leace, 1803 Adams street, who were with him when the accident occurred, said they pleaded with Voss to stop, but he refused to listen.

Cab Driver Returns Gems to Mrs. Herbert N. Straus

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Herbert N. Straus, widow of the department store executive and sister-in-law of the late Jesse Isidor Straus, former ambassador to France, today recovered a handbag containing a small fortune in gems and money which she had left in a cab last night. The bag was returned to her by Ladislaus Zukowski of Astoria, Queens, driver of the cab.

DOCTORS URGED TO LEAD FACTORY HEALTH PROGRAM

Organized medicine must assume the responsibility of safeguarding the health of industrial workers or the responsibility will be taken over by others, Dr. A. D. Lazenby, industrial health leader of Baltimore, Md., said yesterday.

He spoke before the first congress on industrial health sponsored by the American Medical association meeting in the Palmer House. The association's industrial health council seeks the coöperation of industry and insurance companies in promoting the health of workers.

Voyta Wrabetz, chairman of the Wisconsin state industrial commission, said the company doctor must be independent of the employer to carry out his responsibility to determine fair compensation for the employé injured or ill because of his work.

NEW ARMY, NAVY CHIEFS WILL BE NAMED IN 1939

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staf of the army, and Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, will reach the statutory retirement age of 64 within a few months and army, navy, and political circles are considering their successors, the men who must supervise the largest peacetime armaments program in history.

Gen. Craig will be 64 next August. Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, one of the senior ranking officers of the army, now in command of the first army and the second corps area, with headquarters on Governors Island, is one of the two men most prominently mentioned as Gen. Craig's successor. The other is Brig. Gen. George C. Marshall, now deputy chief of staf. He was formerly chief instructor of the Illinois National guard.

Navy Slate Prepared.

The navy department's slate for high command, chief of naval operations, commander in chief of the fleet, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, and subsidiary units commands, is said to be on the White House desk, but President Roosevelt has given no indication whether he will approve or disapprove it.

In the past the President frequently has overruled navy and war department recommendations and selected his personal appointees. Thus accurate predictions as to the next ranking officers of the services are impossible.

Some decision as to the chief of naval operations, however, will have to be made in the near future, because Admiral Leahy will be 64 in May.

May Retain Leahy.

There is a faint possibility that Admiral Leahy may be retained on active duty after his normal retirement date, but it is considered more likely that his successor will be picked from one of the following officers: Admiral Claude C. Bloch, now commander in chief of the United States fleet; Admiral E. C. Kalbfus, commander of the battle force; Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, commander of the scouting force; Rear Admiral James Richardson, chief of the bureau of navigation, or Rear Admiral Harold R. Stark, commander of cruisers.

ROBERT M. LEE FUNERAL HELD IN LAKE FOREST

Funeral services were held yesterday for Robert Morton Lee, managing editor of THE TRIBUNE, who died late Saturday night. Six of his coworkers were the pallbearers. The services were read by the Rev. John Evans, religious editor of THE TRIBUNE.

The services were held in the Lee home at 830 Waukegan road, Lake Forest. Only a few close friends and TRIBUNE editorial department employés were present. Burial was in the Lake Forest cemetery.

Mr. Lee was 55 years old. His unexpected death was caused by a coronary occlusion, a severe heart attack. He had been considered as recovered from a previous illness, and on Friday he attended to his regular duties.

Mr. Lee is survived by his widow, Virginia, and a daughter, Mrs. Donald J. Eaton.

Army Lifts Restrictions on Enrollment in Reserve

The war department has liberalized the qualifications for enrollment in the regular army reserve in order to bring its authorized strength to 75,000 men, Maj. Gen. Stanley H. Ford, commanding the 6th corps area, announced yesterday. Previous restrictions as to marriage and time of enrollment have been removed. Enrollment now is limited to men less than 36 years old, who have been honorably discharged after at least one year of service.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Johanna Crane.

Mrs. Johanna O'Brien Crane died yesterday in her home, 3000 Sheridan road. She was the widow of William J. Crane, retired executive of the Owens-Illinois Glass company, who died last August. Mrs. Crane leaves three daughters and two sons: Mrs. James D. Connell, Mrs. William R. Carney, Mrs. H. D. Murphy, William H. Crane, and the Rev. Walter O. Crane, S. J. Services will be at 9:30 a. m. Thursday from the residence to Our Lady of Mount Carmel church.

Dr. Louis King.

Dr. Louis King, a Chicago physician for the last thirty-five years, died yesterday of a heart ailment in his office at 2534 Wentworth avenue. He was 63 years old. His home was at 231 North Waller avenue. Surviving are his widow, Eleanor, and a son, Bruce, an attorney. The funeral will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 5206 Broadway.

GIRL, SHOWMAN TO GET $500,000 WITHOUT FIGHT

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—A suit contesting the will of Mrs. Edna Morss Elliott, a widow 70 years old, who left her $500,000 fortune to a ballet girl and a former theater manager because they had been attentive to her at the Radio City Music hall and the Roxy theater, was withdrawn in Surrogate court today.

Attorneys for an Oklahoma man who claimed relationship to Mrs. Elliott said their client had no ground for contesting the will.

Rosalie Spatcher Knisherm, the ballet girl and William J. Reilly, former manager of the Roxy, were named beneficiaries of the estate in the will. Mrs. Elliott was a frequent patron at both theaters.

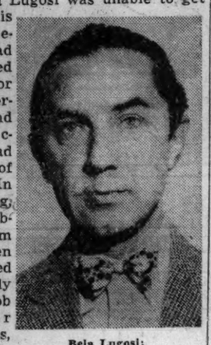
Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Observation Post

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 9.—For two years Bela Lugosi was unable to get a job in this town because he had been typed as a horror picture performer and horror pictures had gone out of vogue. In that long, enforced absence from the screen Lugosi tried desperately to get a job in other movie roles, but they laughed at him. "I was a fine actor in the Hungarian theater," he told them. "You're a boogey-man," they answered, "and we have nothing for you today, or tomorrow, or the next day." The money that Lugosi had earned melted away. He had bought a place, when he first came to Hollywood, for $32,000. When the money in the bank started disappearing Lugosi mortgaged the property to the hilt. Then he lost the property. The bank savings disappeared completed; he started borrowing money from friends. Each day he'd try to get a movie job and return to his flat at night to repeat the discouraging rejections to his wife. "They had branded me with the stamp of an animal," he says picturesquely. "I was a horror actor, an animal, and they would not give me a chance."



Bela Lugosi: A revival helps.

For two years Lugosi's only work was eight weeks on the stage with the road company of "Tovarich," playing the part of the commissar. He had to stretch eight weeks' pay over 104 weeks. Then one night his phone rang and a man introduced himself as Eric Umann. He was, he explained, the manager of the tiny Regina theater on Wilshire boulevard and he wanted to know if Lugosi would make a personal appearance. Lugosi thought it was a gag, but the manager said that he was going to play "Dracula" and "Frankenstein" as a four day revival. "I think that they will do some business," said Umann, "because movie audiences are fed up with the stuff they're getting now, and a new generation of fans never saw those pictures." So Lugosi, flat broke, made a personal appearance.

Umann, manager of the 659 seat Regina theater, never has been given credit for his sagacity and showmanship in reviving the two pictures. On Aug. 4 he opened them at his house, and played them for five solid weeks—to capacity business. Immediately other managers throughout the county imitated him, and Universal noted itself close to $500,000 as a result of rentals and percentage deals on the revivals. Umann, instead of having a gold medal struck off in his honor, relates that the company jacked up the film rental on him to such an extent that he had to give up the pictures after the fifth week. For that some crackpot in the sales organization should be dressed down, because if it hadn't been for Umann the ensuing flood of gold wouldn't have been possible. At least, that is what he tells me, and his story will stand until evidence is produced to the contrary.

"The revival of 'Dracula' proved that the movie fans hadn't forgotten me," says Lugosi, "and it proved something else, too—that there was a market for that type of story if the story was good, and the production excellent. 'Dracula' was not simply a horror story; it was a good story and it had production values. That's why it made money whenever it was played." As a result, Lugosi got a fat part in "Son of Frankenstein," and now England wants him to sign for two pictures and Universal may sign him to a sequel. "I owe it all to that little man at the Regina theater," says Lugosi. "I was dead and he brought me to life."

Had he not been desperate, Lugosi will tell you in his awkward English, he would have turned down the rôle in "Son of Frankenstein." He is very bitter at the "typing" which has short circuited his career and which put him out of work from 1936 to 1938. "I played every type of rôle in Budapest," he explains wearily, "but here they only think I can scare children. It is very discouraging." His wife nods assent.

"Dear Ed," writes David O. Selznick, "in reference to your paragraph yesterday, Vivian Leigh is by no means cast as Scarlett O'Hara. There are three other possibilities. If Miss Leigh gets it, it will be because of physical resemblance to Miss Mitchell's Scarlett—and more important, ability to give the right performance. And this after an exhaustive two year search. Scarlett O'Hara's parents were French and Irish; identically Vivian's parents are French and Irish. A large part of the south prides itself on its English ancestry, and an English girl might therefore be as acceptable in the rôle as a northern girl. In addition, there is a much closer relationship between the English accent and the southern accent than between the southern and northern accents.

"Yesterday you mentioned Helen Hayes' portrayal of Victoria Regina, and Canadian born Raymond Massey's portrayal of Abraham Lincoln, to indicate that a performer's art dissolved frontiers. You forgot Bette Davis' portrayal in 'Of Human Bondage,' Katharine Cornell's Elizabeth Browning, Tyrone Power's rôle in 'Lloyds of London.' England has warmly received American actors in English rôles, and if Vivian Leigh is selected we can do no less. If she gets the rôle I'd like to think that you'll be in there rooting for her. DAVID."

Emily Goehst New Leader of Service Club

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the most enthusiastic receptions ever accorded to a new Service club president was received yesterday by Miss Emily Goehst as she took office at a luncheon meeting of the club.

The ballroom of the Woman's Athletic club, where the meeting was held, resounded with hearty handclapping and some even more hearty cheers, so great was every one's pleasure in the selection of the nominating committee.

It is difficult to think of any one member who has done more for the club in the last few years than Miss Goehst has done. Comedienne extraordinaire, she is a favorite with Service club audiences. As production manager she infused new life into the yearly revues and successfully launched the policy of home-made entertainment—that is to say, revues made up of songs and skits written by members.

Miss Goehst's acceptance of her new responsibilities was characteristically brief. She told the members to start now to write next autumn's revue.

Lavender orchids were the only note of color on Miss Goehst's black ensemble, and more of the blossoms were worn by several other officers, including the retiring president, Miss Eleanor Wetten, who has guided the club through one of its most successful years.

Mrs. Vanderwarker New Production Manager.

Mrs. Richard Vanderwarker was appointed production manager, the place held last year by Miss Goehst. The other new officers are Miss Peggy Sargent, first vice president; Mrs. Harry L. Drake, second vice president; Mrs. Edwin Sims Jr., treasurer; Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, corresponding secretary, and Miss Barbara Emerson, recording secretary.

Mrs. Sims' sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Sims, and her sister, Mrs. Glendon Gerlach, are to decide soon which one will accompany their father, Frank McNair, when he goes abroad in April. Miss Mary Lou Laird, the club's advertising manager and one of its hardest working members, is looking forward to a holiday in the more immediate future. She is leaving next week to visit relatives in Winnipeg, Canada, and is packing all her skiing clothes. She plans to ski in Miami, a tiny village in Manitoba.

Miss Goehst announced her advisory board as follows: Mrs John J. Mitchell, Miss Wetten, Mrs. Vanderwarker, Mrs. Sanger Hinchmann, and Mrs. Frank Sims.

Elman Concert Will Aid Scholarship Fund.

Miss Goehst just now is busy with a benefit for the scholarship fund of the Francis W. Parker school. It is to be a concert by Mischa Elman, violinist, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Jan. 29, at the Civic Opera house. Miss Goehst is a member of the women's box committee. The recital will be Mr. Elman's only 1939 appearance in Chicago.

Because the school is a co-educational one and its alumni as well as alumnæ and parents of students maintain an active interest in its affairs there is a men's box committee, too. Both committees will be guests at tea on Friday of Mrs. Convers Goddard, who is chairman of the women's committee. Mrs. Goddard is entertaining at home, 526 Arlington place.

Dr. George H. Coleman is chairman of the men's committee. Some of those working with him and with Mrs. Goddard are Mrs. Billings M. McArthur, Mrs. Shreve C. Badger, Miss Helen Dupee, Mrs. Frank E. Simpson, Mrs. William L. Pattison, John A. Holabird, Clay Judson, Theodore W. Robinson, Henry Monroe, Edwin W. Eisendrath, and the Rev. Theodore C. Hume.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Beware the beauty operator who wants to pluck your brows to a thin, exotic line! And stay your own hand with the tweezers, too. The natural line, well groomed, is still the best line from a fashion and beauty standpoint.

Maybe we've been getting around in the wrong circles, but we have been noticing lately that there is a tendency to tinker with the eyebrows again. We'd thought that was all over and rejoiced at the thought.

Every woman should stop to ponder, look about her at all the women with the over-plucked brows, and listen to advice before she decides to make a drastic change in the aspects of the area above her eyes. Just because you have a new draped turban don't fancy you're an exotic or that plucking the eyebrows like crazy will make you look like one.

The very wisest rule you can follow is to leave your eyebrows pretty much alone. If they sprout all over the landscape just above the nose, have them cleared out, by all means. That's just good grooming. But don't tinker with the line unless an expert says you should—and does it.

Not every beauty operator has an unerring eye for what is artistically right. Many women have had the sad experience of asking the first operator they find to "do" their brows. And they've been sorry afterward. Eyebrow arching is a highly specialized art. And as for dyeing lashes, don't, DON'T let any one but an expert [and one in a reputable, responsible shop] attempt that delicate job.

The dyes used nowadays are as safe as they can possibly be made. But it's still true that expert application is as important as the product used.

There are experts in town. Marvellous things are being done every day in corrective eyebrow arching. But the expert never attempts an obviously phoney line. She leaves the line pretty much as she finds it and the ultimate effect is one of complete, becoming naturalness.

The Cast Turns 'Sea Gulls' Into Vivid Theater

"THE SEA GULL."

Drama in four acts by Anton Chekhoff, translated by Stark Young. Directed by Robert Milton. Settings and costumes by Robert Edmond Jones. Presented by the Theater Guild in the Erlanger theater, Monday evening, Jan. 9, 1939.

THE CAST.

Irina Arcadina	Lynn Fontanne
Boris Trigorin	Alfred Lunt
Constantine Treplieff	Richard Whorf
Peter Sorin	Sydney Greenstreet
Nina	Uta Hagen
Shamrayeff	S. Thomas Gomez
Pauline	Edith King
Masha	Margaret Waller
Eugene Dorin	John Barclay
Semyon Medvedenko	George Meader
Yacov	Barry Thomson
Housemaid	Jacqueline Paige

BY CECIL SMITH.

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, having completed their appointed course in "Amphitryon 38," are now devoting their attention for a fortnight to a remarkable revival of Chekhoff's "The Sea Gull." The "Amphitryon" cast, with the addition of Uta Hagen, is carried over into the present performance.

The adjective "remarkable" is chosen advisedly. Even the glowing advance notices from the east had hardly prepared the audience for the shock of seeing a swift paced, actable, vivid theater piece instead of a reverent resurrection of the Moscow Art theater of the 1890s. "The Sea Gull" must indeed be a great play, for there is not one line in fifty that cannot be uttered with conviction, as though it had been written for a 1939 audience.

To be sure, this Theater Guild production is not without its period atmosphere. Robert Edmond Jones, designer of both costumes and settings, has dressed his people in idealized fin de siècle clothes of rare charm; and the action takes place within sight of a lyrical river whose leisurely flow must surely have become more agitated since 1917.

But Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne are not the ones to make a play stodgy or pious just because it is over forty years old and a "classic." Miss Fontanne's Irina, an actress in love alternately with the author, Boris Trigorin, and with her own glamorous past on the stage, is irresistible. She has seldom undertaken a rôle with a richer variety of emotional motives—her partly frustrated adoration of Boris; her barely hidden scorn of the young Nina, of whom he becomes enamored; her jealousy of her own son's artistic aspirations, with its attendant eruptions of a maternal instinct she cannot always down.

If the play is warped out of the shape Chekhoff intended it to have by Miss Fontanne's presence in the cast, this is only because her Irina is one of the most forcible performances she has given. Mr. Lunt's rôle requires a more placid demeanor, and the chief glory of his approach to it lies in the miraculous imagination he brings to every inflection and bit of timing.

Richard Whorf's realistic portrayal of Irina's neurotic son adopts the high key of Miss Fontanne's performance. The bitter battle of words between the two in the third act, with its subsequent convulsive reconciliation, becomes one of the peak moments of the theatrical season. When a powerful Russian scene is played with so little inhibition it can almost frighten one of our restrained American audiences. It did this last night, for there were nervous laughs when the full honesty of Chekhoff's knowledge of human nature broke through the outward shell of theater convention.

As Nina, the young girl whose love for Trigorin brought both her destruction and that of Irina's son, Uta Hagen revealed disarming simplicity. Already a finely schooled actress, she projected a difficult rôle economically and touchingly.

The cast is crowded with capable performers: Sydney Greenstreet, who makes a living figure out of his state councilor, though he actually has only seven minutes of speaking; Margaret Waller, assured and skilful whether called upon to be sober or tipsy; George Meader and Edith King, completely transformed from their "Amphitryon" personalities, but equally as good.

Stark Young's new translation is all that has been claimed for it. It moves naturally, and for the most part falls from the actors' lips as though its original had been written yesterday.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

Lawyers' Chuckle.

The title of Volume 16 of American Jurisprudence just received from the publishers by Chicago lawyers is DEATH TO DIPLOMATIC OFFICERS. The title page explains that it attempts to reflect the modern development of the law. Perhaps the title has reference to the Munich pact and subsequent repercussions, quips John Knox, the gentleman who was secretary to Mr. Justice McReynolds of the Supreme court in 1936 and 1937 and who now is with a Chicago law firm.

New Shaw Movie.

It's theater and cinema news that one of the Shaw plays Producer Gilbert Pascal is planning to do shortly is The Doctor's Dilemma. A London cable to Sir Cedric Hardwicke, whose Shadow and Substance is playing its final week at the Selwyn, said that Shaw and Pascal are interested in his playing the part of Walpole and want his "reaction." Starting date, June.

• • •

Sir Cedric Hardwicke is a close personal friend of Shaw and a repository of innumerable Shaw quips. The fact that Producer Pascal is starting work on a movie version of Anthony and Cleopatra brought to mind a typically Shavian comment made by the author when the play was in rehersal in London. The feminine lead was being difficult and there was little harmony between the co-stars.

"After all," said Shaw," the title of my play is not 'Anthony vs. Cleopatra'."

• • •

When we quoted to Sir Cedric a comment Thornton Wilder once made to the effect that Shaw was playing a game with posterity, and had an eye to his collected letters when he answered the requests of autograph seekers with witty notes, the English actor answered:

"Maybe, but Shaw was once asked if that were true and he answered: 'After all, what has posterity done for me?'"

Spoonerisms Again.

Imagine the embarrassment of the hard-boiled top sergeant of the Black Horse troop when, in giving recruits suppling exercises, he shouted in a raucous voice:

Cuff Notes.

Robert Taylor bought Chinese checkers in Chicago to play on the train on the way east. Howard Dietz also bought the game. They expected to play it together, but found themselves on different sections. Perhaps they played it by telegraph. . . . Joy Hodges of the stage and screen was attracting glances in the Balinese room at the Blackstone at luncheon yesterday. . . . At the "After Susan and God" party at the Ambassador's Polo room Saturday night Gertrude Lawrence's favorite appetizers, celery stuffed with scraped beef [raw] were served. And a creme de cocoa concoction in a punch bowl was labeled "Susan and God Cure." . . . One guest came with a bandage over one eye. "Cast in my eye," he quipped by way of explanation. . . . A young woman arrived in deep mourning, presumably for a husband lost in admiration of Edith Atwater of the cast.

• • •

But the stage and screen's famous Alice Brady, who, with Austin Fairman, was among the guests, was plaintive as to when dinner was to be served, as the pre-dinner nonsense went on and on. . . . It was Miss Brady, by the way, who made the perfect one-actress-about-another crack recently. She was lunching with friends at the Pump room when Gertrude Lawrence stopped at the table and the two were introduced. After Miss Lawrence left Miss Brady said, "Who in the world was that?"

Brennan	Herbert Rawlinson
Wilkins	John Harron
Moll	Lois Chaney
Mrs. Schmidt	Greta Meyer
O'Brien	Cliff Saum

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Torchy, a newspaper woman, who's plenty smart but not quite so far-sighted as she thinks she is, her fiancé, Detective Steve McBride, slow thinking but canny, and a Pinkerton eyed police dog with bloodhound nostrils, sew up a gang of counterfeiters in this latest episode of the "Torchy Blane" series.

The action moves swiftly from the moment Willard Robertson, as a crook impersonating a federal agent, appears at the police station to perform a neat job of wool pulling over local ferrets' eyes.

You, if you're wide awake, ken immediately from the wicked gleam in his optics that the feller ain't what he seems to be. . . . However—he succeeds brilliantly in his plans till Torchy smells a rat, Doggie smells creosote, and Steve pricks up his ears at the word "steak" uttered by one—BUT—who am I to be giving away plots like this. . . !

The picture is excellently acted and mildly suspenseful. It's a bit farfetched at times and its humor is often pretty childish. But, all in all, you'll enjoy the experience of watching Torchy get her man.

See you tomorrow.

The Housewife

A pretty little touch for the curtains in the youngsters' room is furnished by some gay tie-backs about the size of large buttons or a silver dollar. These are ornamented with little sunbonnet dolls and come in blue, yellow, brown, red, and lavender. They're sold two to a card.

In the same colors are other tie-backs that have pictures of sailboats on them. These cost only a few cents.

Similar in style, but smaller, are ones shaped like tiny flowers and made of metal in coral, yellow, and blue finishes. EDITH WEIGLE.

Choruses of High Schools Start Competition Tonight

The musical talent of Chicago's high schools will be displayed this week during a series of choral competitions and concerts starting tonight. The competitions will be held in the Lane, Tilden, and Hyde Park high schools. Choral groups from sixteen schools will participate. The concerts will be given by fifty-three choruses from thirty-seven schools.

Lighter Shades Are Featured in Resort Hosiery

BY RHEA SEEGER.

If the showings of smart fashions and well matched accessories for southern resorts are significant of what we'll wear next spring and summer, the hosiery collectors will have a new thrill. All the newest shades are appreciably lighter. Street, daytime and evening colors new this season are the lightest you've inspected in years.

Going south are the three new shades called northern sun, Florida sun and Bermuda sun, all definitly new and different. While they are suntan shades there is a new subtlety, a flattering dull sheen that slenderizes with all kinds of magic.

One extraordinarily beautiful shade, a real honey beige, can be matched exactly to gloves. Worn with dull black, navy or the new bronze green it's the perfect contrast tone. While it's smart with dull, solid winter weather colors such as just mentioned, it's effective with gay prints and pastels for resort wardrobes. Other hosiery can be matched exactly with the new doeskin gloves and with decorative belts.

Sandal toe heel hosiery to be worn with open toe and open heel footgear are featured in these new colors as well as darker tones. The lace patterned toes and heels, though delicate in appearance, will take average wear. Lace stockings are still favorites with many shoppers. They come in all street and all-purpose shades, wear surprisingly long and reduce the run hazards to almost nothing. Lace clox are slenderizing, decorative and good for afternoon clothes, they keep a high fashion rating, especially for fastidious women who appreciate the dress parade quality of such good looking finds.

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

In a railway station a young man, apparently dying, gives the hero his wallet and baggage check to claim his luggage and get his medicine. Before he can carry out the errand Detective Mike Clancy starts to arrest him as a fugitive bank teller. But the dying man creates a diversion and the hero escapes. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, decides to use the man's ticket.

INSTALMENT II.

FOR THE HONOR OF HIS FAMILY.

The conductor took the billfold from me and found a long strip-ticket and a Pullman car reservation which he glanced at hastily. "Mr. John Bowman," he said mostly to himself and turned to the porter: "Train number nine, drawing room A, car 43."

"Bowman" seemed as good a name as any to travel under so I grinned and ran after the red cap, who flipped the bag to the car porter just as the train was pulling out.

The two conductors, Pullman and train, entered eventually to examine my tickets.

"Drawing room A, car 43, the Navajo, to Clovis, New Mexico," said the Pullman conductor.

"You'll be there late tomorrow afternoon," the train conductor added pleasantly.

If I had been able to choose the exact method and direction of my departure from Chicago I could not have selected anything better than a westbound trans-continental limited. It took me farther and faster from scenes that I wished to avoid than practically any other means of transportation except, possibly, flying. I'd had enough of flying lately anyhow, and besides flying is more conspicuous.

Unfortunately I had the kind of face that it is difficult to disguise. I'd found that out in three years of wandering, some of the time, as now, just a short jump ahead of the police. I had a good chance to look at my assortment of features while I stood in front of the mirror of the drawing room washroom and shaved with an English razor which I found in John Bowman's bag. There was quite a stubble of reddish whiskers on my chin and cheeks before I lathered.

The hair on my head was darker—chestnut, I believe they call it, especially when it's on a horse. My eyes were very brown, with a little of that red glint I've mentioned in the whiskers. I had lots of mouth. It had once been rather pleasant, but now was hard like all the rest of me and there were heavy lines from either side of the nose leading to the corners of it.

And last, but certainly far from the least, was the nose I have just spoken of which was fairly large to begin with and had been broken when I crashed with a pursuit plane in Spain and reset with just a slight cant to starboard. All in all it was a face that no one would be apt to forget, especially if he was a policeman.

Aside from the fact mentioned I looked about like any young man of my age, 26, a little taller, maybe, and at the moment thinner than most, but that was because of a rigid diet of nothing particular which had been prescribed by Old Doctor Necessity.

I had on a gray tweed suit which looked better after the year I had given it than clothing made of any other material could have looked.

As I shaved I had an excellent opportunity to look myself square in the eye and see how I stacked up ethically in my conduct toward the unfortunate young man in the railway station in Chicago who had thrown himself upon my mercy.

After due consideration I decided that, while I had not been exactly the soul of honor, I had probably not injured my unintentional benefactor very greatly. He could not have used the railway ticket or the Pullman accommodations anyway and it would have been too late to turn them in for a refund. If I had tried to give them back to him personally they would have done him no good and would have resulted in my own immediate arrest.

The baggage and the wallet were a little different, but I justified my possession of them on the grounds that they had been practically forced upon me. There was quite a sum of money in the wallet and I would have to use some of it while I was on the train, but I determined to keep close track of my expenditures and make restitution when I was in funds again myself. The idea that I would ever have enough money to pay him was a trifle optimistic, but I was young and hopeful—I was bound to get a break sometime.

There hadn't been many breaks since that day three years ago when, as that Chicago detective had reminded me, I had "taken it on the lam."

That had been a tough day all around, I remembered. My beloved uncle, Fergus O'Malley, had shot himself in the men's room at the bank. My father, at home ill, had not been informed that the examiners were coming. It wouldn't have done any good and might have killed him. It wasn't his fault that Fergus had guessed wrong about wheat and one thing and another, but he was a partner in the business and would have had to assume the responsibility and guilt.

More or less against my will I was working there as a teller, learning the banking business from the ground up in accordance with the affectionate but definite wishes of my father.

All in all, it had seemed like a good time to do something for the honor of the family. So I left town hastily after scattering around a few contrived bits of evidence that I had speculated with the bank's funds. I had no regrets—merely a cynical amusement at the fate which had taken me from the routine of a well-ordered, comfortable existence and thrown me sprawling and more or less defenseless onto a harshly unfamiliar world.

I was consoled for my three years of wandering by the news gleaned here and there that my father had recovered and was now conducting a reorganized business, with a name untarnished and respected as it should have been after forty years of service to the community. The fact that he had a presumably scapegrace son had not damaged him with his old friends. The whirlpool caused by my departure had subsided.

My present plans, as far as I had any at all, were to go as far as the railroad ticket would take me. It seemed remote enough and I was looking for a distant place. For three years I had been seeking distant places, and it was only a faint nostalgia which had brought me back to Chicago, hoping, perhaps, for a glimpse of my family. I had wondered how my father and mother had stood the years—wondered also if my sister, Beth, had grown up to be the beauty she had promised to be. But I had caught no sight of them, although I had hovered about for two days outside the family home.

I regretted that I had not seen my family, but that seemed to be in the cards. It was a kindly fate which had flung me aboard this train, bound once more for oblivion. I could have no complaint, certainly, against the chance which had extricated me from an embarrassing, almost tragic, dilemma, for to fall into the hands of the authorities now would undo all the good that I had attempted to do.

A trial, even at this late date, would most assuredly bring out the real facts in the case. My reappearance on the scene would certainly condemn the ones I loved to an existence of shame and hardship. By now they must think that I was dead. Let them continue to think that.

My father knew, of course, why I had gone. He probably realized that there was no other way and had bravely accepted the duty of carrying on for the rest of the family. And, knowing my father, I could not think that he was living an exactly happy existence. He would, I knew, have preferred to take the burden on himself. As it stood, he had had no choice. All other roads had been barred to him save the one which I had left open.

I did not, for the day and a half that I was on board, mingle much with the other passengers on the train. By having my meals served in the drawing room the first day I avoided contacts with practically everybody except the porter, the conductors, and the waiters.

The next day there were meal stops at Fred Harvey station hotels, and the porter, for a consideration, brought me coffee and doughnuts for breakfast and some sandwiches and milk for lunch.

The lunch stop was at Canadian, which is in Texas. After that I had nothing to do but pack Mr. Bowman's bag. I put in it every last thing I had borrowed from the unfortunate young man including the wallet, minus the money I had spent, for which I made out an I. O. U. My intention was to check the bag in the railway station at Clovis, where the owner if he should live or his heirs if he did not, would eventually be able to claim it. That, so far as I was able, washed me up of the entire transaction. Sometime I would make a complete financial settlement and an explanation if anyone cared to hear it.

Being occupied I scarcely noticed the next stop, and later after the train was in motion again, when there was a rap on the door, I supposed it was the porter and said, "Come in!" without looking up.

GASOLINE ALLEY—RULED IN FAVOR OF THE DEBTOR

I HATE TO BRING THIS UP, TOPS, BUT I'VE GOT SOME OLD I.O.U.'S OF YOURS.
MINE? LET'S SEE 'EM.
I'M IN A SPOT, TOPS. AN' NEED SOME MONEY BAD.
THESE ARE FROM LAST SPRING, SKEEZIX. THEY'RE NINE MONTHS OLD. THEY'RE OUTLAWED.
OUTLAWED? IT TAKES SEVEN YEARS TO OUTLAW A DEBT.
THAT'S WHEN A FELLA'S OF AGE. WHEN YOU'RE BOTH MINORS IT'S SEVEN MONTHS.

Romance Dies When Wife Is Slovenly One

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A gentleman with Anonymous as his signature begs us to write an article chastising wives who appear at the breakfast table in pajamas with or without a not too immaculate robe thrown over them. Sometimes, Anonymous accuses, the breakfast has been prepared by said wife in this sort of outfit.

It goes without saying that this type of wife either leaves her hair done up in the curlers she wore to bed, the charge continues, or it isn't dressed at all. "O, yes, she'll have her bright red fingernails, which only add to the breakfast indigestion. Her lips will be slathered with red, all right, but she is a most unpleasant looking breanfast companion."

Anonymous goes on with a comparison of what type of woman greets the same gentleman on his arrival at his office, a girl who may have had to get up an hour earlier than the wife referred to, to get to work on time, and looking her efficient self.

"It isn't that I am advocating the office affair, understand," says Anonymous. "It isn't that I think a woman at home should be expected to be quite as presentable at the breakfast table as she would be did she occupy the office girl's position. It is only that women take the romance out of marriage themselves when they begin the day with a bad impression. It's like burnt toast and bitter coffee. Just doesn't set well, that's all."

We assumed by the first few lines of Anonymous' letter that he was one of the breakfast table victims. It turned out to be his brother-in-law, however. Anonymous further discloses that he told the brother-in-law's wife, when she complained of her husband's growing indifference, that she was to blame. She hit the ceiling, in his words, and started in telling all that she gave up for that man of hers.

"Women do resort to that silly old alibi about what they've given up. But they won't admit that they give up trying to look the sweetheart a man married, will they?"

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Lard is an inexpensive shortening and an excellent one for many purposes. It should be kept cool and dry, apart from strong flavored foods in order to remain sweet and fresh. It is well to purchase lard a pound at a time unless the family is large enough to use more than that within a week or so.

Lard is fine for pastry and breads. It may be used successfully in cookies, too, although many persons prefer butter for the flavor it gives. Cakes may be made with lard, but butter, margarine, and vegetable shortenings usually give better results.

Pie and tart pastries made with lard are flaky and tender. Since lard has greater shortening power than other fats, less of it is needed in baked goods to give the same results. A third as much shortening as flour is the usual pastry proportion. If lard is used the ratio is one-fourth fat to three-fourths flour. A very rich pastry results if the one-to-three proportion is used.

Dessert Tarts
[Serves four]

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup lard
6 tablespoons ice water
1 cup peach preserves, strawberry or raspberry jam

Sift flour and salt. Cut in lard with pastry blender, two knives, or with the finger tips, until the mixture is in coarse particles. Add ice water gradually, pressing the dough together into a ball. Pat out on a lightly floured board and roll thin. Cut in circles with a large cookie cutter. Bake pastry rounds on an ungreased sheet at 450 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Put three circles together with preserves or jam spread between them for each service. Top with whipped cream. The pastry rounds may be sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon as they go into the oven to add a bit of spiciness to the dessert.

Southern Beaten Biscuit
[Two and a half dozen]

4 cups all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup lard
¾ cup [1 cup minus 2 tablespoons] milk and water

Sift salt with flour. Work in shortening with the finger tips. Stir in liquid [equal parts milk and water] gradually, mixing until a very stiff dough is formed. Roll out on a floured board. Fold the dough over and beat with a mallet or wooden potato masher. Continue folding and beating for 20 minutes or longer. When dough becomes smooth and velvety, roll out to a half inch in thickness. Cut into rounds and prick each biscuit twice, clear through, with a fork. Bake in a hot oven, 425 degrees, on an ungreased sheet, for half an hour or until well browned.

Pattern Offers Final Numerals in Cross-Stitch

BY NANCY CABOT.

This is the final group in the series of cross-stitch numerals and figures. These now are ready for final arrangement wherever they are to be used, and the frogs, swans, and birds are interesting companions for the two previous groups. Each numeral and figure may be of a different color, or all the numerals may be alike, with the figures in contrasting shades.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the third group of numerals and figures, No. X-946, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

Three seasons of the year and two climates are served by this versatile pattern. It's a sprightly and youthful model for informal wear in the city and southern resorts. Depending upon the fabric you select, this dress may be practical, dressy, or styled for summer temperatures.

The original of the costume is created for spring wear. It is made of plain crêpe with contrasting print. The bolero and flared skirt are of light blue silk, and the bodice blouse of silk print in blue, green, and purple. A kerchief of the print is tucked into the bolero's pocket. A slide fastener does duty down the front of the blouse.

You may style the frock with a square neckline and buttons, if you like. A glance at the sketch will show you that you can artfully combine all types of fabrics and colors. If you want the dress only for the present season make it of woolen, velveteen, silk, or combinations of these materials. For spring use lightweight woolen, silk, or a combination. For the south use linens, cottons, and lightweight woolens. Washable silks are possibilities, too.

Style No. 2758 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1 yard of 39 inch fabric for the blouse.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Carrie Chapman Catt Marks 80th Birthday; Gloomy About Peace

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Celebrating her 80th birthday, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, militant pioneer suffragist and soldier of peace, looked at the future today and indulged in a bit of uncharacteristic pessimism.

"The world outlook is dark," she said. "I hav e never been anything but an optimist and I hate to confess gipom now that I am 80, but the truth is I feel downcast about affairs in Europe and Asia.

"I believe the peace movement is further from success than was the suffrage movement when I entered it. And it probably will be accompanied by more excitement."

Mrs. Catt maintains a lively interest in current events. She is an avid newspaper reader and keeps up a voluminous international correspondence with fellow workers in women's rights and peace movements.

County Legion Votes Fund for Child Welfare Cases

Appropriation of $2,000 to provide for child welfare cases was announced yesterday by the Cook County council of the American Legion. Perce Brautigam, county commander, said each of the nine local districts would be given $200 with another $200 going to the American Legion auxiliary of Cook county. The money comes from the Legion's July 4 fireworks displays at Soldiers' field. The commander, service officer and child welfare officer of each district will form a board to study cases of needy children.

First School Days Helped by Physical Care

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Is your small Richard or your little Diana going to school for the first time in February?

This represents a great change in your child's life. Some take to it smoothly; some do not. Whether your child belongs in the first category or the second, you probably will not know until the first weeks have passed.

His adjustment to school will be governed by a number of things—his health, his habits, his temperament, his home life in general; and, not least, his teacher and his companions at school [though a fine teacher has much control over the adjustment of children to each other in the classroom].

Now, you can't revolutionize your child and his life in a couple of weeks—in fact, you probably don't need to, anyhow—but you can do a few things to make his new way of living easier for him. One of these things consists of helping your child in a physical way in the time remaining between now and the first day of school; and helping him physically is helping him in other ways. For we know without need of stressing it now that the physical, emotional, and mental are closely intertwined.

So let's begin at the beginning and see what we can accomplish in this direction. If you haven't recently taken your child to the doctor for a general health examination, do so now. And I mean a thorough examination, including vision, hearing, and so forth. See what suggestions the doctor has for emphasis on any one aspect of physical care.

It is important at this time in your child's life, if you haven't already done so, that you find a good general practitioner who has had wide experience and an understanding of children, or a pediatrician [one who specializes in children]. If it is financially impossible for you to do this the health centers and hospitals both have children's clinics, where often the finest physicians give their services.

So see your doctor. Get his suggestions, if any, for improving the general health of your child. And if there is any difficulty which will affect your child's school life, such as poor vision or hearing, go to the school and see the principal about it.

Tomorrow this subject will be continued.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

As I expected, contestants in the recent examination did a great deal better with bidding questions that involved no particular boldness than they did with others in which the officially correct bid required the taking of some risk. I have noticed for many years that the bridge philosophy of the public at large is to "play them close to the vest." In bridge, exactly as in life, it is impossible to get the limit out of one's chances [or even a near limit] without running legitimate risks. All of which dissertation brings us to question 33:

With only East-West vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	Pass	?

You are South and hold:

♠ 10 5 ♥ A J 8 ♦ K 10 9 8 4 ♣ K 10 3

What call do you make?

The official answer was that South should double. I did not expect any large number of readers to agree with this answer, hence was not greatly disappointed at the following lineup: Of the 20,341 answers sent me on this question:

10,651 readers thought that South should pass.

5,786 gave two diamonds as the correct reopening bid.

I think that most of the contestants went astray in this question because they do not realize the enormous influence of position in respect to the take-out double.

When a take-out double is made as a reopening bid, the top-trick strength may be shaded considerably. In such cases it becomes logical to assume that, since the opener's partner could not even bid a negative no trump or give a single raise, he must be virtually "busted." Hence, since the opener did not start with a two-bid, the reopener is certain to find his own partner with top-trick strength. Perhaps he was just short of an overcall or a double of his own, but properly failed to make either because he was afraid of being caught between two fires. Now that it has been revealed that those two fires do not exist, it obviously is wise to give him the chance to speak. In this particular case, question 33, North may well prefer to play against one spade doubled, rather than do any bidding on his own account. Hence, South should give him that opportunity.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	2 hearts	2 spades
3 diamonds	Pass	4 no trump	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	6 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

The play of this hand shows how a clever declarer can take advantage of the bidding. West opened the spade nine to his partner's bid suit. Dummy's ten covered and declarer captured East's jack. After leading only two rounds of trumps, the ace and king, dummy's ace and king of clubs were unblocked. Declarer then reentered his hand with the diamonds, cashed the club queen, discarding a heart from dummy, and ran off every diamond. At the end declarer had only the spade five and the J-2 of hearts. Dummy had the A-8 of spades and the heart king. East had to hold the Q-7 of spades to guard dummy's suit, hence could keep only the heart ace. Declarer had carefully noted East's discards, and now it was not too difficult to read the situation. A heart was led and East, on winning with the ace, had no recourse but to return a spade up to dummy's tenace.

Bright Plumes Adorn Tea Table at Sale of School Art Society

Only as brilliantly plumed a tea table as Mrs. John C. Murphy arranged yesterday for the Public School Art society's exhibition and sale of reproductions of fine paintings could have vied in interest—and color—with the prints that lined the ballroom of the old Potter Palmer mansion at 1350 Lake Shore drive. The ballroom was especially opened for the day through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer. She is a member of the board of the society.

Ostrich plumes in the most tropical shadings bowed from Tole urns at either end of the long tea table, which was located in a dining room off the ballroom. A bird cage embellished and filled with more of the plumes was the unusual centerpiece that stood on a magnificent gold brocade cloth that once was a pair, or perhaps several pairs, of draperies. Facing each other across so much color as they poured tea were Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, both in somber black. The former's hat was a charming one of blue breast feathers. Mrs. Goodspeed's hat was trimmed with velvet in pastel pinks and blues; the waist of her gown was enlivened by crystal tear drops.

The long, high-ceilinged ballroom, which has become more accustomed during the last years to crowds in afternoon rather than evening dress, was thronged during the tea-hour rush.

The French ambassador to the United States, Count René de Saint-Quentin, will come to Chicago on Feb. 2 for a three day visit. There will be a dinner for him at the Casino on the third, and the Alliance Française will give a reception either on Feb. 2 or 4. Count de Saint-Quentin will stay at the Drake hotel.

Because the French consul general, René Weiller, has made so many friends in Chicago, especially among alliance members, the alliance has been circulating a petition to have him reappointed to Chicago.

There will be a meetin of the board of the alliance at 11 o'clock this morning at the home of Mrs. Ralph James, president of the Conseil d'Administration, to discuss the petition.

Constance Crafts Becomes Bride.

Wearing her mother's wedding gown, shoes, and gloves, Miss Constance Keene Crafts, daughter of Mrs. Zina B. Crafts and the late Mr. Crafts, became the bride of George Jarvis Platt at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at home in Oak Park. The bride's wedding veil of Chantilly lace was loaned by Mr. Platt's mother, Mrs. Edward M. Platt of Manitowoc, Wis., to whose mother it belonged.

Only relatives and intimate friends heard the Rev. J. W. G. Ward of the First Presbyterian church, Oak Park, read the service. Mr. and Mrs. Platt came from Manitowoc; Mr. and Mrs. James Baird Jacob and Alida Jacob came from Biloxi, and the bride's cousin, Mrs. Philip Sheridan, came from her home in Greenville Junction, Me. Another cousin, Miss Dawn Herbuveaux, was a bridesmaid. Miss Mary Hamilton Johnson was the maid of honor.

Edward Vilas Platt was his brother's best man. After a month's wedding trip to Key West, Fla., Mr. Platt and his bride will be at home in Oconomowoc.

Actors to Be Guests of Drama League.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke and members of the cast of "Shadow and Substance" will be guests of the Chicago Drama league at a breakfast at 12 o'clock today at the Blackstone hotel. Dr. Fernando Wagner, former director of the drama school at the Palace of Fine Arts in Mexico City will speak on "Popular Theater in Mexico."

At the speakers' table will be the Mexican consul, Rodolfo Salazan; Mrs. Francis Gunn, Mrs. Horace B. Horton, Mrs. Charles Cartwright, and members of the Drama league board. Dr. Horace Bridges will introduce the cast.

Concluding the thirteenth year of its concert history, the Woman's Symphony orchestra will give a program tonight in the Auditorium theater. Izler Solomon is to be the guest conductor. Winifred Christie, pianist, will be the soloist.

Members of the Chicago Geographic society and their guests will hear Capt. Warwick Tompkins on "West Around Cape Horn" tonight at Orchestra hall. Capt. Tompkins is the owner of the schooner Wander Bird, on which he and his family made their home for nine years. He will show pictures of the ship's famous Cape Horn passage.

Some Real Fun Is Essential to Facial Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Today's topic may be considered a little out of the line of beauty—but it is not. It deals with getting a bit of fun out of life as you go along.

A recent meeting with an acquaintance proves the point of that well known axiom about all work and no play making a dull, uninteresting individual eventually. Some years ago this acquaintance was one always referred to as the reigning belle of her crowd. Today she looks years older than she is, and she also has developed into a sour visaged, biting tongued one whom people avoid. In her particular case there were no unusual financial worries. No real griefs, as others know them. She used to have a good time when she was younger. Somehow her popularity gave out and she simply sat down on her job of living and making a happy life for herself.

There is a number of women like her. Haven't real troubles, but you'd think by their expressions the world was against them. Naturally you can't carry an expression like that without being bitter at heart. Let one of the type experience the joy of a rare entertainment, know some unexpected pleasure, and almost at once her face is transformed.

It takes more than face lotions, you know, to develop real beauty of face. The spirit behind that face has to be alight. Very good people register a beauty of face that can't be otherwise duplicated. Be good, be kind, be understanding and your face cannot but take on an expression that is lovely.

After this type of facial beauty comes the quality of expression that bespeaks an alive, interested, and fun loving attitude. They can be combined and often are. But what is being pointed out here is that one must know and enjoy more than her own dull company in order to get a sparkle into the eyes. One must get out and around, work out her own social program if need be, but get it somehow.

The greatest known secret of youth is involved in just such a program. Fun has to be written into one's career—good, healthy, wholesome fun—so that one's audience is spared the painful dead pan face or frankly sour visage.

Good Humor Marks Dance Presentations by Beliajus Troupe

Vytautas Finadar Beliajus, Chicago dancer and teacher, brought his group to the Chicago Woman's club theater last night and presented a program of diversified dances.

In solos, duos, and ensemble numbers the company dealt both with the gay and the grave aspects of life among the Hasidic [Polish] Jews, the Lithuanians, and several eastern peoples. The dances were imaginative, technically adroit, and fittingly costumed.

Mr. Beliajus enriched his solos with a fund of humor and an understanding of human nature which found expression not only in motion and posture but in subtle bits of grimace. He possesses a mobile countenance and an arresting personality.

The company consists of a dozen-odd bright faced young men and women whose dancing had not only verve and skill but an infectious air of good humor. Helen Pech provided finely calculated piano accompaniments.

BAR DELEGATES INDORSE BILL TO CURB BUROCRATS

Act Despite Appeal by Solicitor General.

Legislation to place a bridle on law making in the guise of federal administrative regulations will be introduced in the present congress and pushed by the American Bar association. This decision was made by the association's house of delegates yesterday in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Robert H. Jackson.

A futile attempt to block the plan was made in heated debates which occupied most of the first day of the annual midwinter session. Leading the assault on the measure was Robert H. Jackson, solicitor general of the United States.

Result of Six Years' Study.

The proposed measure is the result of six years of study and research by a committee headed by Col. O. R. McGuire of Washington, D. C. It is designed to keep buroc racy under control and to assure the citizen a fair deal in his controversies with the 130 administration agencies of the federal government.

Each agency would be required to announce its detailed rules and regulations within 90 days after the effective date of the law it administers. The agencies would have to set up boards of review where citizens could be heard. Records would be made and decisions could be appealed to the United States Circuit Courts of Appeal.

"In effect, it provides that the rules of the game shall be declared in advance of the play," said Col. McGuire, who is general counsel for the United States controler general.

Admits Need for Uniformity.

Jackson admitted that all federal agencies are in need of greater uniformity of procedure and should pay more attention to the rights of individuals. But he soon took the offensive.

"I do not doubt that there are men in federal agencies who wish freedom from the law for their bureaus," he said. "But there are other men who wish to strike down the heart of modern social and reform legislation.

"I would not want to see my profession aligned with these men. I think it is already in some danger of being identified with the movement."

Cites Record of Tribunals.

"I've been licked in the courts—but I didn't attack the courts," he said. "The fact is, the record of administrative tribunals is slightly better than that of the lower courts, where appeals were made. Federal agencies won 64 per cent of their cases, while lower courts were sustained in only 54 per cent of the cases, over a ten year period."

Congress would refuse to pass the proposed bill, said Jackson.

"Let's not spend our time tilting against windmills," he concluded.

But before they adjourned last night the delegates had severely criticized another New Deal measure, the national labor relations act.

Changes in Act Urged.

Recommended changes in the act are: define and forbid as unfair and illegal specific practices by labor organizations and groups of workers, including both practices directed against employers and against free choice by individual workers; forbid minority strikes and picketing after a majority bargaining agency has been certified, outlaw sitdown and stay-in strikes; give employers the right to petition for an employés' election to choise their bargaining agency where no so-called company union is involved.

Active committees of the bar in every state and in all the larger cities as a "safeguard for the maintenance of basic American liberties in these troubled times" were urged by a committee on civil liberties. The new committee on civil rights of the Chicago Bar association was approved by the national board of managers.

Vote on Reports Today.

Creation of a new federal department to remove court attachés from politics will be sought by a bill to be introduced in congress soon. The bill was approved by the house of delegates. All clerks, deputy clerks, stenographers, and other employés in the courts would be placed in an administrative office whose director would be appointed by the chief justice of the United States.

Today the delegates will conclude their meeting by taking action on a score of reports and resolutions.

INSISTS ON GUILT, THOUGH HOLDUP VICTIM DOUBTS IT

When Thomas Murray robbed a cab driver of $2 on Oct. 3, 1936, he was captured and sentenced to six months in the Bridewell.

The police didn't know it, but on the same day Murray had taken $44 from William King, clerk in a cigar store at 1600 Madison street. This offense, for which he had gone unpunished, disturbed Murray. A few days ago he walked into the Joliet police station and surrendered. In Felony court yesterday King failed to identify Murray as the robber.

"But I'm the man," Murray told Judge Matthew D. Hartigan.

On recommendation of Assistant State's Attorney Joseph O'Connor, Murray was let off with a sentence of twenty days in the Bridewell.

ANOTHER BLOW DEALT PATMAN'S ANTI-CHAIN BILL

Only 39 Congressmen on List of Supporters.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—The Patman bill to tax chain stores out of existence received a blow today when Representative John D. Dingell [D., Mich.] announced that he had withdrawn his support from the measure.

John D. Dingell.

Dingell was one of the seventy-three co-sponsors of the bill at the last session. He said today that he had told Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.], sponsor of the legislation, several weeks ago not to place his name on the measure when it was re-introduced at this session.

Dingell said he took this action after reading reports of Patman's speech-making for the measure under the sponsorship of McKesson & Robbins, drug firm which went into receivership because of the defalcations of its president, F. Donald Coster. Coster committed suicide when exposed.

Ignorant of Bill's Intent.

Dingell added that he had been unaware of the true nature of the bill when he permitted his name to be used. He did not know of the punitive taxes in the bill, he said, assuming it was merely a bill to curb chain stores.

Dingell's withdrawal was particularly significant because he is a member of the house ways and means committee before which the bill would come, because of its tax features. He said he did not believe it ethical to be a co-sponsor of legislation upon the merits of which he would be called upon to judge as a member of the committee. He emphasized that his action did not change his attitude in favor of independent stores as against the chain stores.

The only other member of the ways and means committee who had endorsed the bill was Representative Morgan L. Sanders [D., Tex.], who was defeated in the primaries.

Only 39 Still Pledged.

Thirty-one other members of congress, who had been co-sponsors of the bill at the last session, also were defeated for reëlection to the 76th congress. By virtue of these defeats and withdrawals there remain only thirty-nine present congressmen who are committed to the bill.

Dingell said he doubted that the ways and means committee would consider the Patman bill at this session.

Since it first was introduced the bill has been opposed by the American Federation of Labor, which denounced it as discriminatory and punitive, with its object the destruction of a chain store system employing 300,000 workers. The defeat of a large number of its co-sponsors in the elections is said to have convinced a majority in congress that the legislation is not favored by the public.

CHARGES CANADIAN PREMIER ACTS AS U. S. AGENT ON WATERWAY

An inquest into the death of Lieut. Col. Leon M. Logan, assistant superintendent for the 6th corps area of the inspector general's office of the army, was continued yesterday until Feb. 3, at the request of police, who asked further time for investigation. He was found dead Sunday in his room in the Lake Shore Athletic club. Death had occurred about twenty hours earlier, apparently from heart disease.

BLONDE DICE GIRL ENTERS WEYMER DIVORCE TANGLE

Wife Says Mate's Diary Doesn't Tell All.

A blonde dice girl from a near north side night spot was mentioned yesterday for the first time as the sifting of the Earl Weymers' marital troubles proceeded in Judge Philip Finnegan's court.

Weymer, head of an ornamental iron construction company, kept a diary in which he recorded what he contends were the indiscretions of his wife, Ann. But this diary, Mrs. Weymer avers, told only half the story. It didn't mention the dice girl.

Leaves Yacht to Be a Model.

Mrs. Weymer charges nonsupport and cruelty in her suit for separate maintenance. Weymer's cross complaint for divorce charges his young wife with adultery and cruelty. Her attorney, Norman H. Becker, questioned him yesterday on the rift in their married life which occurred last May 15. She left their yacht, the Cora J., at Utica, N. Y., to take a job as a model, Weymer said.

Weymer admitted he had received a telegram from the Chicago blonde while the yacht was at Buffalo.

Over the protesis of his attorney, Aaron Cohn, the court advised Weymer to give her name. He said he knew her only as Miss Carey.

Denies Tearing Wife's Dress.

She was a dice girl at the Yacht club on East Oak street, he said, and he hadn't seen her since Jan. 15. He later recalled that he had run into her on the street in July. But he never took her to dinner, he testified, and never entertained her in his apartment.

"Isn't it true," Becker asked, "that when your wife objected to the telegram [received on the yacht], you tore the dress from her back?"

"It is not," said Weymer.

"What did you do, physically?"

"Not a thing."

N. U., ILLINOIS BEATEN; CHICAGO WINS, 28 TO 18

MICHIGAN DEALS NORTHWESTERN 37-28 DEFEAT

Indiana Rallies to Whip Illini, 29-28.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Michigan's basketball team, depending principally on the one handed shots of Jim Rae, center, dealt Northwestern its second defeat of the Big Ten season last night in Patten gymnasium, 37 to 28. The victory was the first for the Wolverines, who lost their opening game Saturday evening to Illinois.

The game was slow and because of Michigan's superior shooting lacked thrills usually present in Big Ten competition. Four thousand saw the contest.

Michigan Takes Lead.

Michigan opened the scoring when Tom Harmon, sophomore guard, dropped in a long shot and the Wolverines never lost this initial advantage. After Al Butherus of Northwestern scored on a penalty shot Michigan ran up a lead of 10 to 1 in ten minutes. This was the Wolverines' working margin throughout.

Michigan led 13 to 3 and 15 to 5 in this period and finally moved into an 18 to 5 advantage before the Wildcats staged a brief rally. Northwestern did not score from the court until Les Harman was substituted at forward, and it was a combination of Bob Voigts, Bob Shepard ,and Bob Koble who brought the Wildcats within 6 points of the Wolverines just before the end of the half.

N. U. Shooting Off.

Michigan pulled ahead 24 to 12 before Shepard scored again and, while Northwestern rallied briefly on two occasions, the flurries were not sustained. Indifferent shooting was directly responsible for the Wildcats' defeat for in floor play, and on defense there was no visible difference between the teams.

Rae's one handed shots—he scored three times in each half—and his height were important factors for Michigan. In the last four minutes the Wolverines played deliberately and stalled to protect their lead. Koble's three field goals led the Northwestern attack. Lineups:

INDIANA, 29; ILLINOIS, 28

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Indiana broke Illinois' string of basketball victories, 29 to 28, tonight. The Hoosiers won in a seesaw battle which saw the Illini threaten in the final minutes of the game.

The Hoosiers, returning to the floor in the second half trailing 13 to 9, started a rally which sent them out in front, 15 to 14, on two baskets by Huffman and one by Andres, while the Illini scored only one point.

Johnson's two baskets put the Hoosiers out in front by five points and the Illini began an uphill battle. They came within a point at 22 to 21 with baskets by Dehner and Hapac. Andres and Dehner matched baskets and Huffman scored for the Hoosiers.

Illini Keeps Fighting.

Free throws by Dehner and Drish brought the Illini within one point, but Menke's basket made it 28 to 25 for the Hoosiers. Hapac and Andres then scored free throws on a double foul.

Shapiro, who came into the game for Drish, made a long shot with forty seconds left to play. The Hoosiers controled the ball in the last few seconds to insure victory.

The Hoosiers put up a rough battle, having sixteen personals called against them. Only eight were charged to the Illini.

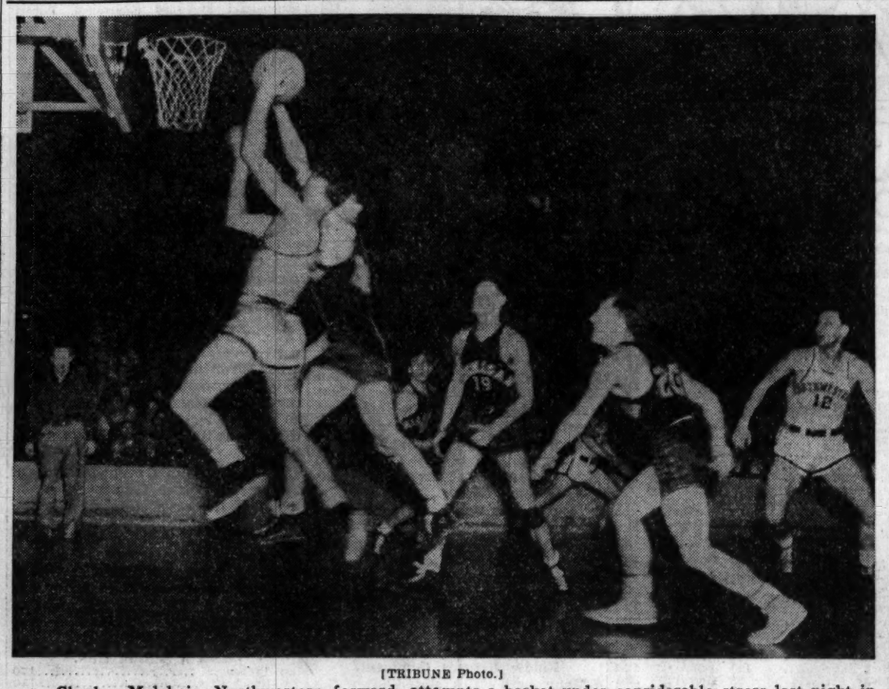
Taking the Air for Points as Wildcats Lose



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Demaret Wins Los Angeles Open with 274

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Conquering wind, par, and pressure, 28 year old Jimmy Demaret of Houston, Tex., won the 14th annual $5,000 Los Angeles open today with a last round sub par 69 and a 72 hole score of 274.

Jimmy found the stiff wind to his liking and became an easy winner by seven strokes, but failed by one stroke to tie the tournament 72 hole record set a year ago by Jimmy Thomson.

Demaret, who led the field from the opening round with scores of 66, 68, 71, and 69, came to the 18th green needing a par 4 to tie Thomson's record.

Harold McSpaden, shooting just ahead of Demaret, called his approach shot and gave the gallery of 5,000 a thrill by holing out from a distance of about 180 yards.

Loses Bid to Tie Record.

Demaret's approach swept over the green and landed in the fringe of the crowd. Nettled, his chip to the cup was short and he needed two more to get down. His victory was worth $1,650.

McSpaden's spectacular shot gave him 71, even par for the Wilson course, and $990 second prize money for his total score of 281.

Thomson, dropping back with a 74, Sam Snead with a 71, Mark Fry with 73, E. J. Harrison of Chicago with 74, and other pre-tournament topnotchers failed to overhaul Demaret. It was the challengers who contracted last round jitters, not the young Texan.

Harrison Scores 284.

Thomson wound up with 283, Harrison a stroke back and Snead and Fry, the latter from Oakland, Cal., were tied at 285. The 286 bracket comprised Cooper, Byron Nelson, Ben Hogan, and Willie Goggin, while Horton Smith and two newcomers, Ralph Hutchinson of Bethlehem, Pa., and John Malutic of Girard, O., finished together with 288.

Demaret started off well with a birdie on the first hole, and rammed down a 21 foot putt on the eighth for an eagle. He went one over on the ninth to make the turn two under. He had even pars until he birdied the fifteenth, but lost a stroke on the eighteenth to finish the round two better than par.

Demaret's card:

The tournament committee announced that the $5,000 purse, underwritten by the Los Angeles Times, had been raised after a check on the gate receipts, and the winner would receive $1,650 and McSpaden $990, instead of the original $1,500 and $900 for first and second places.

Here is the official money distribution:

Sanford Race Stable Burns; 25 Horses Die

Amsterdam, N. Y., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Twenty-five thoroughbred horses owned by John Sanford, millionaire sportsman, were destroyed tonight in a fire that razed the main racing stable of the Hurricana breeding farm with a total loss estimated at $200,000.

Among the horses which were trapped in the flaming barn and burned to death were Supply House, one of the best steeplechase horses in the country; Parsalia and Sun Port, which was purchased last year at a reported sum of $15,000.

Defective Wiring Blamed.

Hollie Hughes, trainer of the Sanford stable, who estimated the loss, said the fire apparently started in the upper section of the main racing stable and believed the cause was defective wiring.

Sun Port, 6 year old son of Sun Briar, was purchased from Willis Sharpe Kilmer of Binghamton, N. Y., last fall. He won four of five stakes in the fall meeting at Narragansett Park.

Both Pharsalia and Supply House raced at Saratoga Springs, Narragansett, and other eastern tracks.

Trainer Hughes said Golden Meadow, a consistent steeplechaser, was housed in another barn and escaped death. He said he would be unable to determine the names of the other horses destroyed until tomorrow morning.

It's an Old Stable.

John Sanford was reported to be in Florida. His stable, which races in the name of the Sanford Stud farm, was founded in the 1880s by his father, the late John Sanford, carpet manufacturer of Amsterdam, who was first to prove that good thoroughbred race horses could be bred in New York state's climate.

Stoddard, Amateur Jocky, to Ride in Grand National

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Louis E. Stoddard Jr., well known amateur rider, will sail Jan. 21 for England, where he expects to ride one of his horses in the Grand National at Aintree on March 24. Stoddard has two horses in England, Strawboss, a 4 year old, and Malino, a 7 year old. The latter is an eligible for the Grand National and is the one he plans to ride.

HAWKS DISPLAY NEW MANAGER IN BOSTON TONIGHT

They'll Exhibit Their New Pep, Too.

Games Tonight

Chicago at Boston.
Montreal at Detroit.
New York Americans vs. New York Rangers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks might even beat the Boston Bruins in Boston tonight. They haven't whipped the Bostonese so far this season, but they did score their first goal in a game here last Thursday, though they lost, 2 to 1 in the last two minutes of the contest.

We are basing optimism over tonight's possibilities mostly on the way the Hawks played Sunday night in beating the Maple Leafs, 1 to 0, in a 17 penalty game. Saturday night the Leafs had shut out the Bruins, 2 to 0. The Leafs came to town confident of a victory over the Hawks but glided right into a hornets' nest.

There's Always a Question.

Of course there is some question as to whether the Hawks can get as wrought up against the Bruins as they were against the Leafs. Was a time several years ago when the Bruins were the Hawks' No. 1 hates, but the Leafs have usurped that rôle especially since the start of the Stanley cup finals last spring.

The Hawks have no especial dislike for the Bruin players and they heartily dislike many of the Leafs. Then there is the matter of managers. Art Ross, who will direct his Bruins against the Hawks tonight, is looked upon as a good guy, whereas Sport Smythe of the Leafs repeatedly has shown himself to be strictly a percentage worker in his views on sportsmanship. He clinched his reputation as a bum sport, in the eyes of Chicagoans at least, in his sly maneuvering over a substitute for Mike Karakas, who was injured in the Stanley cup series.

They Are Confident.

Despite this difference in off-the-rink feelings, Manager Paul Thompson led his awakened team east yesterday, confident that every member of the squad is in the mood to sustain the speed and determination so apparent in Sunday night's game.

The Hawks, who have started the second half of their home season, will conclude the first half of their season abroad in tonight's game. Their competition with the Bruins is somewhat behind their competition with other teams in the matter of the number of games. They have played only three games, losing 5 to 0, 2 to 0 and 2 to 1.

Wiebe Stays Home.

Manager Thompson will have more work than the Bruins give him before he returns to home ice next Saturday night. The Hawks will face the Rangers in New York Thursday night, the Leafs in Toronto Saturday night before returning to entertain the Rangers in the Stadium Sunday night.

AUSTRALIA WILL CHALLENGE FOR DAVIS CUP AGAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 9.—Australia's best tennis players will challenge for the Davis Cup in the American zone again, the Australian Lawn Tennis association announced today.

The Anzacs, defeated in the challenge round by the United States in Germantown, Pa., are confident that they will bring the cup back down under, now that Don Budge of the American team has turned professional.

Minnesota Defeats Iowa, 36 to 29.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Chicago climbed into the victory column in the Western conference basketball race by defeating Wisconsin, 28 to 18, before 7,200 in the fieldhouse tonight.

Using a zone defense, Chicago held the Badgers to four field goals, two in each period. Dick Lounsbury found the hoop four times in the second half, after his first field goal had given Chicago an 11 to 10 lead at the intermission. He led both teams in scoring with ten points.

Maroons Click in Second Half.

Chicago held the lead throughout the second half, gradually pulling away to a margin of twelve points and from there on the Maroons coasted to victory.

The Badgers likewise covered closely during the first half in the back court, yet they went nearly seventeen minutes before committing their first foul and only two were marked against them in the first half. With the score 8 to 7 in favor of Chicago, Forward Dave Dupee was charged with holding Joe Stampf and the latter sank the free throw. Weigandt made a long shot to tie the score for the third time and Gene Englund put the Badgers back in the lead with a free throw. Lounsbury then broke through for a short basket to give the Maroons their 11 to 10 first half advantage.

Cash Only 4 of 73 Shots.

GOPHERS WIN, 36-29

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Minnesota marked up its eighteenth straight victory and its ninth of the season tonight, a 36 to 29 decision over Iowa before 7,200.

Ben Stephens, Iowa captain who placed fifth among the scorers in the Big Ten last year, scored twenty of his team's points on eight baskets and four free throws.

The Gophers, after leading, 11 to 3, became careless and the lead dwindled to 15 to 12 at the half. Stephens scored nine of Iowa's 12 points, Plett, substitute center, getting a basket and Anapol a free throw.

Early in the second half the Iowans took an 18 to 17 lead through Stephens' individual efforts. Minnesota then turned loose a barrage that ran the count to 36 to 22 before it went into another tailspin.

BOXER SUFFERS CONCUSSION IN MARIGOLD BOUT

Verne Patterson, 1937 Chicago Golden Gloves' welterweight champion, was taken to Columbus Memorial hospital with a brain concussion last night after suffering a six round technical knockout at the hands of Indian Billy Lee of Milwaukee, in Marigold Gardens.

Patterson was floored by a right to the jaw early in the sixth round. He arose at the count of eight and staggered to the ropes. Lee chased him and pounded his head and body. Patterson was on his feet when Referee Frank McAdams stopped the fight. Just before Seconds Sonny Wallace and Ted Tanner reached him Patterson collapsed.

Dr. Frank A. Lagorio, chief medical examiner for the Illinois boxing commission, examined the stricken fighter in the ring. When he was unable to revive Patterson he ordered him carried to the dressing room.

The injury, in the opinion of Referee Frank McAdams, resulted from the blows which landed after Patterson had regained his feet. It was recalled that he had complained after a fight a few weeks ago of a buzzing in his head. At that time the commission threatened to bar him from further competition.

NEW TROTTING BODY READY TO ADMIT A RIVAL

Prepares to Take Over All Harness Racing.

Columbus, O., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Frank L. Wiswall of Albany, N. Y., executive vice president and secretary of the new United States Trotting association, served notice today that his organization plans to supervise harness racing in every state in the Union and that it is ready for peace or war with the American Trotting association.

The American, with headquarters in Chicago, was the only major body to shun the merger in which the United Trotting association and the American Trotting Register association combined Saturday to form the United States group.

American Ignores Bid.

Wiswall took time out from a committee meeting, at which the rules and regulations for the new association were being formulated, to outline his stand on a possible war with the American.

"A few weeks ago at Indianapolis," he said, "about 100 of the leading horsemen in the country demanded that the parent bodies unite in a single unit to do away with multiple registrations and other evils which were apparent under the setup at that time.

"The American's secretary was the first to sign the proposed merger plan. Then, when we met here a couple of weeks ago to consider the new association, the American failed to participate. The officers of that group even failed to acknowledge telegrams asking them to send representatives.

Gate Still Open.

"The gate is still open for the American to come in to the merger, but if they slam the door in our face we won't take it sitting down. The chances are the American will have little territory in which to operate this year, since we have been assured that Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, and Kansas will swing over to us, leaving only Iowa and a few scattered points for the American. We're ready for peace or war."

Three branch offices were established for the United States association today, with secretaries of the old groups in charge. Mrs. Don A. Detrick of Bellefontaine, O., will head the midwest office, while Will Gahagan, secretary of the Trotting Register, will head the office at Goshen, N. Y., and Roger Duncan, secretary of the National, will be in charge at Hartford, Conn.

Wiswall, an Albany attorney and race driver, said he expected his position as executive secretary would be a "full-time job, 24 hours a day, for the next six months, to perfect the organization."

Officers are expected to remain in session for several more days.

CARLSON WILL BOWL FOR PABSTS IN C. Y. O. MATCH

Ad Carlson will be in the lineup of the Pabst Blue Ribbons bowling team which is to meet the Sports Stars in the Congress Recreation Center, 31 East Congress street, Saturday night.

Carlson, star of the Pabst squad, recently scored a victory in a special $1,000 match game over Andy Varipapa. They met in a forty game match, Carlson totaling 8,525 pins, averaging 213.5 and winning by a margin of 207 pins.

Competing in the Classic league, one of the fastest circuits in the world, Ad has won the individual championship five times. In seven years of rolling in the Classic league he has averaged 211; rolled two 300 games and his high three game series is 814.

The sports stars team will be composed of athletes of various sports. Proceeds of this special match will go to the Catholic Youth organization blind children's fund. The funds will be used to secure Master's Eye dogs for several poor blind children.

KNOX QUINTET, MONMOUTH PLAY; IT COUNTS TWICE

Monmouth, Ill., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Monmouth and Knox will meet here tomorrow night in a basketball game that counts in both the Midwest and the Illinois conferences. Knox and Monmouth each defeated Cornell last week-end by three points. Before the Christmas holidays each defeated Iowa Wesleyan by almost the same margin. Last year the teams met twice and Monmouth won both games by two point margins. Monmouth was last year's champion in the Midwest conference.

American College and J.P.I. Volley Ball Teams Meet

The American College of Physical Education, No. 1, team, undefeated in eight league games, will meet the Jewish Peoples Institute girls as the Skyline-Madison Women's Volley Ball league play is resumed tomorrow night in the Skyline Athletic club. The No. 2 team of the American College will meet the White Caps and the Madison Athletic club is paired with the Skyline club in other second round games scheduled, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

C. Y. O. Enters Team in Silver Skates Derbies

The Catholic Youth organization skating team, coached by Pete Miller, who has been named coach of the United States Olympic team for 1940, was entered in the Silver Skates Derbies last Saturday night a few hours before the deadline for entries in the twenty-second series of races. Coach Miller believes that his team, which is tied with the Northwest Skating club with two victories each, will win permanent possession of the Eckersall trophy in the Derbies in Garfield park Saturday and Sunday.

There is a possibility that the Derbies may be postponed. At least two days of freezing weather can prevent a postponement, but when the races are held the list of skaters now being compiled by the clerks will determine eligibility. The Tribune A. A. holds an option on Jan. 21 and 22 for the races if they cannot be held this week. Announcement will be printed as soon as possible this week so that out of town contestants may make their plans accordingly.

Among the other teams entered is the Aurora, Ill., Skating team, coached by Jack Stowell. Werner Gerhard has entered sixty-one boys from the Bellfuss natatorium. A list of other parks, playgrounds, and clubs which will compete in Silver Skates races this year follows:

Jensen park, Victor Mann, instructor; Howe playground, Herbert F. Rath and Olga M. Polerecky, instructors; Audubon playground, E. Uhlig, instructor; Hawthorne playground, Jack Desmond, instructor; Ravenson playground, Helen O'Malley, instructor; Burley playground, Elsie Leichman and E. C. Schubel, instructors; Goethe playground, Philip Schustrer, instructor; Davis playground, Eileen Archer and John M. Stoffey, instructors; Sherwood playground, Robert Campbell, instructor; Emmet playground, F. Easton, instructor; Augusta and Kilbourn playground, Herman Hofmann instructor.

McCormick playground, John Nemec, instructor; Le Moyne playground, R. Sonnenleiter, instructor; Crane Technical High school, Michael Rabchuk, manager; Fulton playground, Nicholas Oker, instructor; Nash playground, Mildred Stemman and Paul F. Magee, instructors; McCosh playground, Jack Callahan, instructor; Emmet playground, Gustave J. Elste, instructor; Orr playground, Steve Driggett, instructor

WHITE SOX HAVE 12 PITCHERS, BUT CAN THEY PITCH?

Expect to Retain Nine Throughout Season.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

When Prof. James J. Dykes throws open the gates to his 1939 White Sox training college next month at Pasadena he'll have a flock of worries on his mind, but they won't concern pitchers, or at least, not the quantity available. There will be exactly one dozen in the mound batch, and as nine probably will be retained for service during the pennant race, the manager will not have to expend a vast amount of energy on trimming.

If the job of whittling down to nine had to be done immediately, Dykes undoubtedly could compile the list without hesitating. It is a cinch that Clint Brown, Bill Dietrich, Vic Frasier, Jack Knott, Thornton Lee, Ted Lyons, John Rigney, and Johnny Whitehead are in little danger of being sent away. That makes eight, leaving only one space for which Rookies Andy Dobernic, Tom Fleming, George Gick, and Art Herring will have to battle.

The Outlook Is Dismal.

The pitching Dykes was able to toss at the various enemies last season wasn't of much account and without Monty Stratton, who lost his right leg as the result of a hunting accident, the 1939 staf doesn't offer much in the way of encouragement, but there is a chance for improvement.

Herring, being almost 32, is a rookie only because he will be making his maiden bow with the Sox. The Tigers had him as far back as 1929, when he won his first big league start, 2 to 1. Since then he has drifted around, including a stretch with the Brooklyn Dodgers and three seasons with St. Paul, whence the Sox obtained him. He's an expert on control, walking only 48 in 200 innings of pitching last season. He won 16 games and lost 6.

He's Been Away a Long Time.

Frasier's return is almost a record for time elapsed since he made his first appearance. The Sox grabbed him from Dallas in 1928, but Vic was afraid of tall buildings, so skipped back to Texas and finally was voluntarily retired, subsequently making another appearance and giving signs of being the find of a decade. He faded out, was traded to Detroit, and then made the rounds, including a stay with the Boston Bees in '36. Scouts report that he now knows how to pitch as well as his 17 and 7 record at St. Paul last season indicates.

Exclusive of himself [he's still listed as a playing manager], Dykes will have thirty active men in his squad. Six of them will be outfielders, eight will be classed as infielders, and four as catchers.

CAMP MEMORIAL FOOTBALL CUP GIVEN TO O'BRIEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—Little Davey O'Brien, whose passing talents as a member of Texas Christian university's eleven made him the outstanding football player of the 1938 season, tonight received the Walter Camp memorial trophy at a banquet given by the Touchdown club. A number of the east's leading sports figures attended.

Tad Wieman, Princeton coach, was the principal speaker. O'Brien was accompanied here by Amon Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and Dutch Meyer, T. C. U. coach.

In presenting the trophy to O'Brien, Chairman G. K. Brobeck said:

"America has seen few football players who have been so genuinely acclaimed by nearly all of the fans for their outstanding contributions to the game."

STAR BOWLERS SEEK PETERSEN CLASSIC PRIZES

Entries will close on Saturday for the twenty-second annual Petersen Classic, an eight game individual bowling competition which will be held on Jan. 27, 28, and 29 in the Archer-35th Recreation. Most of Chicago's leading teams, including the Joseph L. Gills, who won the Schalk team sweepstakes, have entered their complete lineups.

Fourteen entries have been received from Milwaukee, seven from Cleveland, seven from St. Louis, and five from Detroit. More than one hundred have filed nominations, among them Knute Anderson of Moline, 1938 A. B. C. singles champion, and Tony Brinovic of Peoria, 1938 winner of the Petersen Classic. A goal of 256 entries has been set by officials.

MICHIGAN BOARD ASSAILS COLLEGE FOOTBALL PROS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—"A separation of educational institutions looking upon intercollegiate athletics as mere adjuncts of educational programs" and those "whose teams are made up of hired performers" was recommended today by the University of Michigan in the annual report of its board of control of physical education, submitted by its chairman, Prof. Ralph W. Aigler.

"Let the professional and semi-professional teams play among themselves," the report said, "and when mythical championships are being awarded and ratings made, those college teams made of 'scholarship' holders and the like should be grouped with the Giants, Redskins, Lions, Bears, etc., instead of being listed with those teams made up of bona fide college students to whom athletic participation must be secondary."

Machinery necessary to draw the line can be set up, the report said, recommending an existing body such as the National Collegiate Athletic association as capable of establishing "adherence to certain specific standards as requisite to membership therein."

Would Bar Athletic Scholarships.

That body might provide, it was said, "that no institution permitting representation by men holding athletic scholarships and similar forms of subsidies, whether provided by the institution itself or by general funds furnished by alumni, shall be eligible for membership."

The financial report of the board stated that Michigan in the fall of 1938 had derived an income from football of approximately $90,000 more than the previous year. Football receipts for 1937 were listed as $192,618.10 and receipts for all sports $205,607.62, exclusive of student athletic coupon books, which were responsible for an additional income of $59,261.25.

An operating profit of $57,540.27 was shown for the year ending June, 1938. The report also stated that an indebtedness in excess of $1,000,000, represented by the so called "stadium bonds" remained.

Estimated attendance figures for 1938 showed an attendance at eight games of 392,583, an increase of almost 90,000 over the official 1937 attendance of 283,767.

Business Is Very Good.

The attendance of 242,748 at five home games in 1938 was the greatest home attendance since 1929 and fourth highest in history. Total receipts from 1938 home games were $297,265.03, greatest since 1931 and sixth highest total since erection of the stadium in 1927.

WESLEYAN FIVE TRIUMPHS, 33-22, AT LAKE FOREST

The Illinois Wesleyan quintet defeated Lake Forest college, 33 to 22, last night on the Lake Forest court. Free throws accounted for 14 of Lake Forest's points. Anderson and Monahan scored all except three of Wesleyan's 13 field goals. In a preliminary game Lake Forest frosh defeated the Young Men's club of Lake Forest, 30 to 23. Varsity lineups:

Efrati Winds Up Drills for Lello Battle

After the drill Efrati said he was ready for his tenth American appearance.

Lello Is Pretty Good.

Efrati has lost only one of his previous engagements in this country—to Leo Rodak in the Coliseum Dec. 29. Leone expects to return to his winning ways tomorrow, but he'll find Lello a strong opponent.

If Efrati realized what Pete intends to do to him the foreigner, no doubt, would worry. But Leone will not learn of Lello's plan for the reason that he doesn't read or speak English.

He's Only One Pound Over.

Efrati weighed 131 pounds after yesterday's workout, one more than the agreed poundage. After going three rounds with Frankie [Kid] Covelli, Lello weighed 132½ pounds.

Lello expects to win by getting inside of Leone's swings with straight punches. Supporting matches include:

Ray Harris vs. Johnny Mochal [4], 130.
Billy Seward vs. Gene Ward [4], 132.
King Levinsky vs. Pat Murphy [wrestling].

Twelve additional entries were received yesterday by Johnny Behr, Illinois Athletic club sports director, for the seventh amateur boxing tournament in the I. A. C. gym Jan. 17, 18, and 25. The entry list now numbers fifty-nine. The new candidates include Joe Du Pont, Pat Long, and Jesse Garcia, all of the Catholic Youth organization, and William Montonga, unattached, featherweights; John Hoff, Rand Boys' club, lightweight; Darwin Johnston, Randall's gymnasium, Mount Vernon, Ill., middleweight; Oshibe Smallwood, Randall's gym, light heavyweight, and Chris Schuessler, C. Y. O., and Lee Christian, Lincoln-Turners, heavyweights.

O'Connell is the 1936 C. Y. O. featherweight champion, Garcia the 1937 novice C. Y. O. bantamweight title holder, Smallwood the 1937 I. A. C. light heavyweight ruler.

The number of contestants probably will exceed eighty. Many of these are competing unattached. However, eleven clubs have entered strong teams for the trophy awarded annually to the squad scoring the greatest number of points.

Entrants, who must be 16 or over, must register with the Central A. A. U., under whose sanction the bouts are conducted. There is no entrance fee.

Each winner will receive a gold medal and headgear. There are thirty-two other prizes.

MUNGO REFUSES $5,000, CALLS IT ROOKIE'S SALARY

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Van Lingle Mungo, talking today from his home in Pageland, S. C., declared his disagreement with a plan of the Brooklyn Dodgers to shave $10,000 off his 1938 $15,000 salary.

Larry MacPhail, Brooklyn executive vice president and business manager, countered with the statement that Mungo had been placed on a pay-as-you-go basis.

MacPhail fulfilled a promise made last season by sending a contract to Mungo providing for a $5,000 salary. The big pitcher tossed this right back into mails. Indirectly, however, Mungo sent word to MacPhail that he regarded the sum as a rookie's stipend, adding that under no circumstances would he even consider signing at this figure.

Adrian Just Ain't Clickin' Yet; Hope Beats 'Em, 91-20

Holland, Mich., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Adrian college played a prominent part again tonight in the establishment of a new Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic association basketball scoring record, losing to Hope, 91 to 20. Three weeks ago Adrian lost to Albion, 76 to 4.

Whizzer White Is Just Another Visitor in London

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Whizzer White arrived today in England where they don't like the word Whizzer and they don't like American football. For the first time since he became a football hero nobody recognized nor paid any attention to Whizzer.

"What's your name, sir," asked a polite customs officer.

"White," answered Whizzer, and then he had to spell it.

They made him open every bag he had. They asked him where he was from and where Colorado was. They made him declare his last carton of American cigarets and in general they treated him like a freshman reporting for his first practice.

White said he would decide about his athletics at Oxford after he talked to officials there.

"I don't know whether they'll let me play anything," he said. "I'll just have to let them decide."

White said anyway he came over to study, not to play for Oxford. He drove straight from Southampton to Oxford and didn't even stop in London.

He obviously was eager to start school, though he didn't know when classes began and was a little vague about what he was going to study. "I guess I'm going to study law," he said. "But I'm a funny guy and I'm gonna wait until I get up there before deciding."

Outside of losing his trunk and not being able to get his bags closed after he opened them in customs, Whizzer seemed to enjoy his first rainy night in England.

"I think I'll like it over here," he said, "because I'm just a country boy and I'm not very used to modern conveniences anyway."

RENAISSANCE PLAY HERE.

Loyola Routs Villanova; De Paul Wins

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Loyola and De Paul collaborated last night in giving two Pennsylvania quintets a pair of lessons in how middle western basketball is played, but chose different methods for the double-header instruction before a crowd of 5,000 in the Madison Street armory.

After De Paul's Blue Demons had worked every minute of the forty they played against Duquesne of Pittsburgh for a 46 to 40 victory, Loyola romped up and down the floor for a 51 to 32 rout of Philadelphia's Villanova five.

Ten in Row for Loyola.

The defeat by De Paul was Duquesne's first in six starts this season. Loyola's victory was its tenth straight of this campaign.

Loyola led, 26 to 10, at the half, and used a couple of substitutes in the second half, but Mike Novak, 6 foot 9 inch Rambler center, was almost in until the finish. Michael, in addition to batting away dozens of potential Villanova baskets, connected on eleven free throw tries, seven of them in succession, and two baskets to share high point honors with Wlbs Kautz, who compiled 15 points on five field goals and five free throws.

De Paul was held scoreless for eight minutes in the first half against Duquesne, which ran up seven points before Sachs connected for the Demons. The lead seesawed through the rest of the period until Milkovich scored to give the Dukes a 20 to 18 margin at the half.

Battle for Points.

Gainer tied it up for De Paul early in the second half, but Duquesne pulled away to a 26 to 22 lead. Neu finally tied the score at 27 to 27. He and Gainer then scored to give the Demons a 34 to 30 edge. Debnar delivered from the field and the foul line for a 38 to 36 Duquesne lead, but Janus' field goal and Neu's free throw sent De Paul ahead, and Sachs made it 40 to 38 with another free throw.

Milkovich's short shot tied it again, but Mundt made good on two free throws, and Neu added two baskets and Sachs a free throw to give De Paul victory. Lineups:

Budge Defeats Vines; Last Set Goes 22 Games

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP)—Don Budge tonight took a 3 to 2 lead over Ellsworth Vines in their series of coast to coast tennis matches by defeating the professional champion, 8-6, 3-6, 12-10. Budge's stamina proved too much for Vines, who faded in the third set.

The third set of twenty-two games was the longest staged since the barnstorming tour began. Budge had the first serve and the edge in the deciding set. They divided the first four games with both shooting services past the rival so that all were love games. On and on the two fought, with variations in the monotony coming in the seventh, fourteenth, and eighteenth games. Vines faltered and slipped behind disastrously to 15-40 in the twenty-second game after scoring the first point. He rallied and battled his way to deuce only to have Budge sweep the next two points with Vines driving the ball into the net for the final one.

Promoters said 5,000 attended the match.

HALL CONQUERS LAYTON IN CUE MATCH, 629-556

Although Allen Hall of Chicago lost the two final blocks of his special prechampionship three cushion billiard series to Johnny Layton last night, he won the match, 629 to 556, in Bensinger's Wabash avenue rooms.

Layton won the afternoon block, 60 to 54, in 45 innings, and the evening block, 60 to 53, in 39 innings. Layton also had the high run yesterday when he chalked up seven billiards.

DUCK HUNTERS HAD BETTER GET BUSY—OR ELSE

Fowl Will Last Only 20 Years, Says Main.

BY BOB BECKER.

Unless American hunters undertake effective remedial measures immediately to restore vast marshes in Canada for duck breeding grounds, there will be no duck hunting twenty years hence. This is the startling message T. C. Main, manager of the Duck Limited in Canada, brought to Chicago sportsmen yesterday while conferring with local officers of the organization.

Main, who has been supervising the restoration of duck breeding areas in Canadian marshes and has inspected thousands of square miles of the northland during the last six months, said devastating fires in the far north, lack of precipitation, and the killing of the beaver population which maintained dams and kept small pools of water available for ducks, has brought about a serious situation.

There's Trouble Ahead.

While thousands of American shooters believe all threats to the America's duck population have passed and that flocks now have untold miles of excellent breeding areas, actually, according to Main, waterfowl is going to have a hard time unless much work is done at once.

Main produced a large map showing where the ducks have lost hundreds of thousands of square miles of breeding grounds in the north.

"The real problem in this 'No Man's Land' is the loss of surface water, due largly to the failure of millions of small beaver dams, and to the serious forest fires that have burned timber, muskegs, and meadows," Main said. "This devastation is almost unbelievable. If this northern progressive disaster is not checked immediately your duck hunting friends in the United States are going to be out of luck entirely. In fact, if effective remedial measures are not taken during the next five years, there will be no duck hunting at all twenty years from now."

Returns on Jan. 31.

Main will be in St. Louis and other cities in the southwest this week confering with sportsmen on the Ducks Unlimited program, a program financed by American hunters. He will be in Chicago again on Jan. 31, according to L. H. Barkhausen, chairman of the Illinois division of the organization, to address an open meeting of northern Illinois water fowl hunters.

Bonura Signs with Giants for Reported $15,000 Year

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The signed contract of Zeke Bonura, first baseman recently purchased from Washington, was received today by the New York Giants, along with that of Coach Frank Snyder. Bonura's contract calls for $15,000 a year.

Maybe I am as Stubborn as a Mule
—like some folks say but I won't use new-fangled ways in brewing
by RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster
We could save time and money by adding SUGARS or SYRUPS
but we'll never do it
Bottled with Natural Draft Beer Carbonation Created in the Beer Itself
EVER so often a smart young salesman tries to convert me to new-fangled methods of brewing. I just smile and say, "Son, I was in short pants when I learned how to make Meister Bräu—from our first brewmaster who began making it in 1891. We make it now the same as then."
I'll admit our methods are slow. We had Meister Bräu in cans for eight months before releasing it to the public. We took all that time to satisfy ourselves we could satisfy you.
Then we're just as slow in our method of brewing. We could save time and trouble by using sugars or syrups. And make a beer some people may like. But we prefer to rely on our skill in brewing our beer directly from old-time ingredients.
We pay a premium for the finest Malt and Hops.
We have the very finest and latest bottling equipment. But when it comes to anything that affects the character of the beer we still stick to the old method. We bottle with Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the beer itself. This keeps the life in the beer—keeps its natural foam and sparkle. Like in draft beer.
I'm sure you'll agree that our methods make a real difference in the beer. Order Meister Bräu today in bottles or cans. You'll be glad you found a beer made with old-time care.

INSURANCE FIRMS MAY POUR FUNDS IN BUILDING FIELD

Consider Aiding Housing, Mercantile Projects.

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Executives of a number of leading life insurance companies were reported today to have discussed tentatively a widespread investment of institutional funds in housing and mercantile building construction.

The impulse for the conferences was the need of finding satisfactory investment for constantly increasing funds now being utilized chiefly in the purchase of low yield government obligations.

Some contended that a definite opening had been created by the dwindling and gradual vanishing of guaranteed mortgage investment bodies. They termed "overoptimistic" a figure of 2½ billion dollars which had been mentioned in some financial quarters as the sum available. They said the plans, if carried through, would not entail a tenth of that figure. They admitted, however, that several times the larger figure might eventually be available if conditions waranted.

New York Law Amended.

Last year the New York state law was amended to permit direct investment of life insurance funds in low rental housing. To date the Metropolitan Life Insurance company [New York] is the only one to take advantage of the change in the law to any great extent.

Companies now tentatively considering activity in this field were reported to include the following: Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States [New York]; New York Life Insurance company [New York]; Prudential Insurance Company of America [Newark]; Aetna Life Insurance company [Hartford]; Travelers Insurance company [Hartford], and Union Central Life Insurance company [Cincinnati].

Under consideration was a plan whereby those companies could participate in owning or underwriting bonds of construction and operating holding companies in the large scale housing field.

Rent Limit Set at $15 a Room.

In New York state the intent of the law amendment to foster low rental housing has been interpreted by State Insurance Superintendent Louis H. Pink to mean those which would rent at not more than $15 a room. This would put the developments, if not strictly in the tenement clearance group, at least within reach of many in the "white collar" group.

A second phase of investment said to be under consideration is that relating to chain store property. Many large chain store organizations were said to have indicated a desire to "get out of the real estate business" and turn over present holdings to institutions, if possible, continuing thereafter as tenants.

France Reports Large Import Surplus for 1938

PARIS, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—France today reported an import surplus for 1938. Imports amounted to 45,981,100,000 francs [$1,215,221,000], and exports aggregated only 30,585,730,000 francs [$807,011,300].

Borden Surplus.

Investors' Guide: A friend told me the other day that the surplus of the Borden company runs into many millions of dollars. Is that right? If so, what is their surplus?—L. O.

Answer: Yes. Surplus of the Borden company and subsidiaries at the close of 1937 was $20,424,375.

Prudential Insurance.

Investors' Guide: I know that the Prudential Insurance Company of America is one of the largest companies in the business, but I wonder in which states it operates. Is it licensed to do business in Illinois?—D. A.

Answer: Prudential Insurance Company of America is licensed in all states, including Illinois, in Hawaii, and in Canada.

Stock Ledgers Open.

Investors' Guide: I am a stock holder in a corporation chartered under the laws of Maryland. I want to find out how many shares of stock a certain holder owns in his own name. He is a director of the corporation and has control of the handling of finances to the extent of his position as a director. I am advised by the secretary that he cannot give out this information without written consent of the stockholder concerned.

Please advise me. Would I as a stockholder have a legal right to examine the records without getting the consent of other stockholders or a court order authorizing this information?—R. B.

Answer: According to the Maryland tax commission, the law provides that stock ledgers, containing the names and addresses of all stockholders of every corporation having capital stock, shall be open for inspection during business hours by any person or persons holding an aggregate of 5 per cent of the outstanding stock or any class of stock.

U. S. Steel Preferred.

Investors' Guide: United States Steel preferred is selling at 115. This worries me. I don't want to take a loss on this stock. Might it be called at 105, as so many stocks have been? —A. W. W.

Answer: No. United States Steel preferred stock is not subject to call.

United Aircraft.

Investors' Guide: Where is the main office of the United Aircraft corporation? I want to obtain a duplicate copy of their latest financial statement.—E. O. H.

Answer: The main office of the United Aircraft corporation is at East Hartford, Conn.

TERM FCC RADIO QUIZ DELEGATED POWER RUN WILD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—An example of delegated authority running wild was seen today in the inquisition of the federal communications commission into alleged monopoly practices in the radio broadcasting field.

The FCC has just sent out its fourth exhaustive questionnaire in an effort to connect even the remotest stockholders in broadcasting enterprises with its suspicions of restraint on competition.

In the first place, the commission is regarded as having stretched a broad phrase concerning its powers in the communications act of 1934.

Typical of the wholesale powers that congress in those days delivered to New Deal bureaus, section 303 of the act says: "The commission from time to time, as public convenience, interest or necessity requires, shall have authority to make special regulations applicable to radio stations engaged in chain broadcasting."

Quiz Initiated in March.

Saying that it was acting on this power, the FCC last March ordered itself to make an investigation to see if any orders on alleged monopolistic practices were required.

The commission's investigation order of March 18, 1938, admitted that:

"The commission has not at this time sufficient information in fact upon which to base regulations regarding contractual relationships between chain companies and net work stations, multiple ownership of radio broadcast stations of various classes, competitive practices of all classes of stations, networks and chain companies, and other methods by which competition may be restrained or by which restricted use of facilities may result."

Orders Self Into Action.

The commission then resolved to order itself to "undertake an immediate investigation to determine what special regulations applicable to radio stations engaged in chain or other broadcasting are required in the public interest, convenience or necessity."

In line with this self-appointed investigation the commission requested the broadcasting companies to present evidence at public hearings before the full commission in Washington.

These hearings began last fall and are still in progress. National Broadcasting company officials have completed their testimony. The hearings will continue tomorrow, after a holiday recess, with hearings on the affairs of the Columbia Broadcasting system. The Mutual Broadcasting system will be heard next.

Hearing to Last for Months.

A spokesman for the FCC estimated today that the hearings will last another two or three months. He said "there is a definite effort on the part of the commission to keep the hearing from being a 'sounding board' for the broadcasting interests."

Critics of the investigation now assert that the FCC is stretching its legal rights too far in demanding the exhaustive information required by its searching questionnaires.

These questionnaires were sent to 2,000 broadcasting licensees, companies, stockholders and officers of companies with an investment in broadcasting. They are to be used in connection with the hearings, as the basis of questioning witnesses.

The questionnaires call for answers under oath to numerous questions bearing upon relations between direct and indirect owners of any two or more broadcasting stations, and the relations of all stations and their officers to other interests such as communications companies, newspapers, and amusement enterprises.

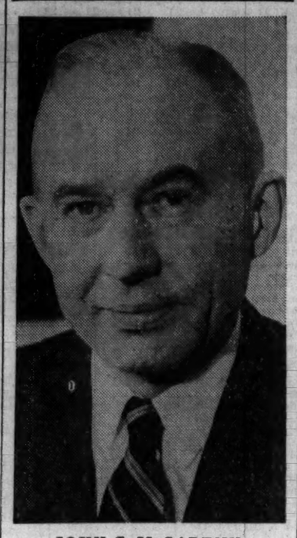
Sends Out Ten Page Query.

The commission first sent a 10 page questionnaire to each of more than 400 corporations which hold stock in the licensed stations. Not satisfied with this, it next sent a similar 10 page questionnaire to 169 corporations appearing to have stockholdings in the first group of corporations. Getting even more remote from the object of its immediate investigation, it next sent 1,000 "quiz sheets" to stockholders, officers, and proxy holders of the second-tier corporations.

The fourth questionnaire got back to the 700 licensed radio stations. This wanted the information already asked in the other three "general alarms." The questions in the fourth call totaled about 1,500 words.

Officials of the FCC now believe they have sent enough questionnaires and are analyzing the returns. These will be used in the presentation of evidence.

New Grain Trade Chief



JOHN G. McCARTHY.

J. G. McCarthy Wins Board of Trade Contest

John G. McCarthy, a member of the firm of McCarthy & Scoville, yesterday was elected president of the Chicago Board of Trade. He defeated Barnett Faroll by a vote of 457 to 301 in the annual election. The contest was one of the liveliest in years.

Orrin S. Dowse, vice president of the Stratton Grain ocmpany, and Kenneth S. Templeton, retiring president of the exchange, had no opposition for the offices of first and second vice presidents, respectively.

Edward A. Green won the largest number of votes in the balloting for a three year term on the board of directors. Other winning candidates were Richard I. Mansfield, Adam J. Ricel, Charles V. Essroger, and Winthrop H. Smith. William H. Hommerding was elected to fill a vacancy on the board.

Charles M. Walker, Alex Moore, Lester G. Wood, George B. O'Connell, and Charles D. Olsen were elected to two year terms on the committee of appeals. Successful candidates for the committee of arbitration were Earle M. Combs Jr., Philip A. Coperhaver, Raymond A. Gerstenberg, Frank Haines, and James S. Schonberg.

McCarthy, the newly elected president, has been a director of the exchange for the last seven years. He is 50 years old and has been a member since 1910.

U.S. Appeals Court to Hear Oil Case Argument Today

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today will hear oral argument on the government's motion to expunge from the record an order by a federal judge freeing eleven defendants in the oil conspiracy case. Federal attorneys allege that Judge Patrick T. Stone of Madison, Wis., erred in dismissing the defendants, who were convicted by a jury, after the court had overruled a motion for a new trial.

NAZIS WIN TRADE BY TRICKS, BUT FACE REACTION

Latin America Finds There's a Catch.

[This is the second of a series of three articles on German foreign trade practices. The third will appear in an early issue.]

Germany's scheme of swapping surplus machines and obsolete guns which the Nazis don't want for foods and metals that they do need urgently has rapidly stepped up the flow of goods between Germany and South American ports.

In South America, as in the Balkan countries, the Nazis, unable to buy on credit, have developed a unique system of making tempting offers to buy beef, wheat, cotton, and copper at high prices. Trading interests in Brazil, Argentina, and Chile have snapped up the offers.

Pay in Unwanted Goods.

But the Nazis, lacking gold, have an equally unique system of settling accounts. First they delay payment, so that Germany, although theoretically without credit, is constantly in debt to South American nations. Second, when the Nazis pay, they remit in goods they are able to spare, which are not always the goods that Brazilians and their neighbors want.

To date Nazi devices have brought results—but with what effects? Many exporters in the United States and even more in Great Britain assert that the Nazis have shot holes in their South American business and that Nazi methods are completely unfair to business men in democratic nations.

In five years the Germans have increased their sales to South Americans more than two and one-half times, while their combined sales to all countries have remained practically unchanged. Shipments going in the other direction—from South America to Germany—more than doubled in the same period, while total shipments into Germany from all foreign nations were rising only about 17 per cent.

Swap Goods for Goods.

Why has Germany been able to trade more and more with South America, but less and less with the United States, which also has the raw materials the Nazis want? How has Dr. Walther Funk, Germany's economics minister, led German exporters in an invasion of South American markets at the expense of American and British goods which formerly had been firmly intrenched there?

The Nazis have resorted to using "aski marks" in South America. These are merely a method of swapping goods for goods. But the use of aski marks has encouraged trade because these marks are a means of offering high prices to South Americans—in the form of relatively large quantities of German machines in exchange for food and metals shipped

Finds 'Perfect Customers' in M'Kesson Quiz

New York, Jan. 9.—[Special.]—The fictitious drug accounts which ex-Convict F. Donald Coster put on the books of McKesson & Robbins, Inc., without detection in the ten years before his suicide, were reviewed publicly today. They were placed before the Securities and Exchange commission here by the accountant who passed them in the last independent audit by Price, Waterhouse & Co., a year ago. Coster was president of McKesson, 105 year old drug company. He killed himself after the recent exposure of his financial juggling.

Unusual, Accountant Admits.

George F. Wyman, the accountant, admitted on the stand today that it does seem a "little unusual" now that 100 accounts were found on the books of the Canadian branch of McKesson, totaling $1,579,143, none of which was shown to have failed to pay in the past or to be overdue.

When Wyman was pressed by Irving Galpeer, examining counsel for the SEC, to admit it was even "more than a little unusual—even somewhat suspicious," Wyman replied: "I think I have agreed the condition of the accounts was unusual—unusually good—that's all."

Found Nothing Out of Order.

If anything appeared "out of order," Wyman said, it would have been taken up with the president of McKesson [Coster, later identified as Philip Musica.]

Galpeer refused to be satisfied with the explanation of confidence. He pointed out that not only were the imaginary customers perfect payers of their bills, but they never made a claim for freight and never disputed weights of a shipment.

They never reported damage or bad spots in such commodities as crude drugs, shipped throughout the world, Galpeer said. Wyman replied that the foreign customers were not circularized to verify their debts to McKesson's because Coster said it was not necessary.

Repeatedly Wyman fell back on the explanation that he accepted modifications of auditing procedure because they had been done in McKesson audits in the years preceding him.

DEMAND GOVERNMENT BOOST FARM BENEFIT OUTLAY TO 1½ BILLION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—A powerful farm group, the cotton growers, today asked congress to increase farm benefit payments to $1,500,000,000.

Grower representatives have been holding conferences with Agricultural Adjustment administration officials. The AAA was told a billion dollars would be needed—in addition to the $500,000,000 already earmarked for benefit payments—to guarantee farmers a "parity income" from their crops.

The growers' demands were contained in resolutions made public after the farmer representatives conferred with congressional leaders. The resolutions urged that part of the 11,600,000 bales put up as collateral for government loans of about $400,000,000 be handed back to growers who agreed to cut their production under the limits now prescribed.

DECEMBER SALES OF GEN. MOTORS FALL TO 187,909

December sales of the General Motors corporation totaled 187,909 units, according to the company's monthly report released yesterday. This was a decline from 200,256 units in the preceding month, but was a substantial gain over sales of 160,444 units in December, 1937.

During the month dealers in the United States took 150,005 units, against 159,573 units in November and 108,232 units in December, 1937, the report showed. Sales to United States consumers in December totaled 118,888 units, compared with 131,387 units in the preceding month and 89,682 units in the corresponding period of 1937.

General Motors sales in the full year 1938 to dealers in the United States and Canada, plus overseas shipments, amounted to 1,307,749 units, against 2,116,897 units in 1937. Sales to United States dealers only were 935,163 units, against 1,680,024 units in the preceding year. Consumers sales in the United States were 1,001,770 units in 1938, against 1,594,215 units in 1937.

Business Failures Higher in First Week of Year

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—Business failures in the United States in the week ended Jan. 5 increased to 254 from 236 in the preceding week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

Douglas Asks Paid Directors for Companies

Fort Worth, Tex., Jan. 9.—[Special.]—Creation of a new American profession—paid directors for corporations—was urged here today by William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission. He said the present system, under which one man may serve on as many as fifty boards, is ineffectual.

W. O. Douglas.

Douglas likened the selection of some directors for their names and positions to the appointment of honorary colonels—ornamental in a parade, but useless in battle.

Douglas said he was making his recommendations in an unofficial capacity—he had no legislation in mind to bring about the change.

Regards Change Inevitable.

"I consider it inevitable that we will have a change in our directorate system," he asserted. "It will be very difficult in the future to find men of responsibility, who, without adequate compensation will assume the real duties and the real responsibilities which should go with the directorships of today."

Douglas said that when directors are paid as little as they are now, it is no wonder that sometimes they are tempted to collect "invisible rewards, to make use of their inside information, their market tips, their banking connections and otherwise to serve themselves instead of their stockholders."

Wants Public Represented.

Douglas suggested that paid directors not only should represent the stockholders but the public as well.

"The paid director," he continued, "would revive and strengthen the tradition of trusteeship. His job would not be to represent the management or to represent himself. It would be primarily to represent the stockholder. It would be to return the protection which today's stockholder too frequently has lost."

Montgomery Ward Sales Set Peak for December

December sales of Montgomery Ward & Co., national mail order house, were the best for that month in the company's records, it was reported yesterday. The total retail turnover last month was $57,084,529, an increase of 11.15 per cent over that of the same month in 1937.

STOCKS SLIDE; TRADERS WORRY OVER CONGRESS

Flurry of Offerings Unsettles Market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 9.—The stock market declined today for the fourth successive session. Quiet but persistent selling forced prices down fractions to around 3 points.

The largest decline occurred durnoon and the market remained unsettled until the close. Most of the losses were reduced, however.

Transactions were 1,150,000 shares. Of 790 issues traded, 516 declined, 128 advanced, and 146 closed unchanged from Saturday finals.

Await Defense Message.

Favorable reports from business got a lukewarm reception. The financial district appeared to be growing apprehensive about the impending fight in congress over President Roosevelt's spending program. Traders also were holding back until the President's defense message is delivered later this week.

The aviation group was the target for the first selling, which afterward spread throughout the list. North American Aviation, off a fraction, and United Aircraft, off 1¾ points, were among the most actively supplied of the day. Other vulnerable aircraft issues were Douglas, off 2⅜; Sperry, off 1 point, and Boeing, Bendix, Consolidated Aircraft, and Glenn Martin, each off fractionally.

Key Industrials Weak.

Key industrial stocks, including United States Steel, Republic Steel, United States Rubber, Chrysler, Bethlehem, Yellow Truck, and General Motors, moved in constant supply at losses ranging to nearly 2 points.

Liquidation of copper shares which began Saturday persisted today. Ken-

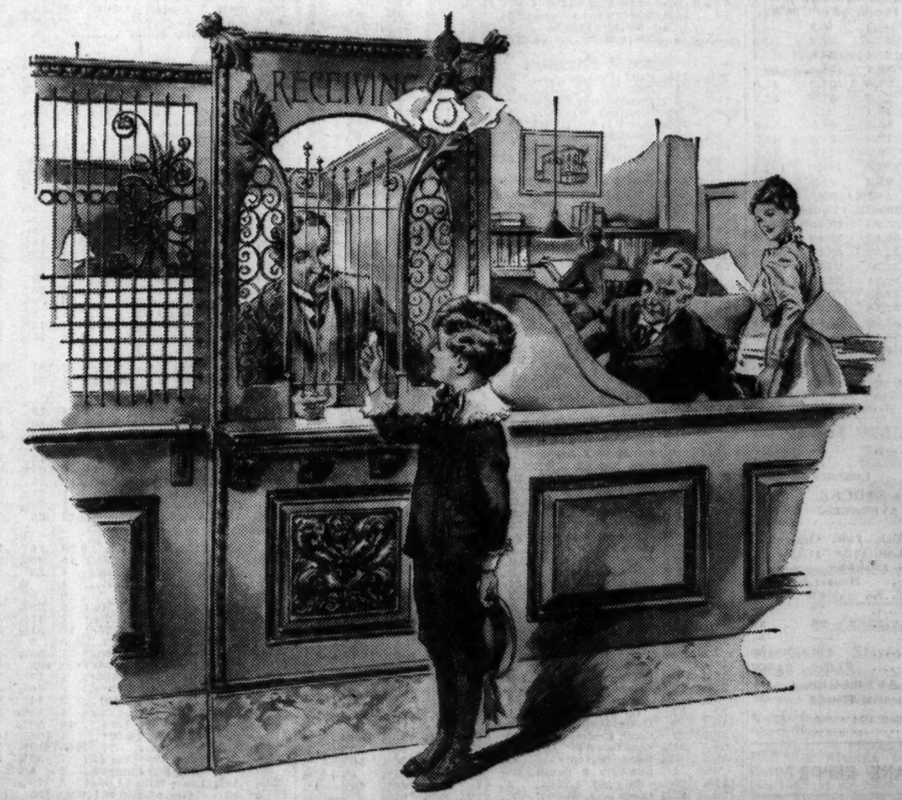
HIS FIRST ALLOWANCE



HE MIGHT HAVE spent that silver dollar for one of the myriad things that excited the fancy of nine-year-old lads in 1893. But no. He preferred to own an account in the newly opened Savings Department of the fledgling Northern Trust Company.

As the years have gone by, thrift has helped that youthful savings depositor win his way to a prominent position in our community. And at The Northern Trust Company savings have progressively played a more important part. Today, for example, savings deposits at this institution have reached a figure five times the substantial total of eight years ago. In every other financial and fiduciary field also this institution has steadily grown into the life of Chicago. And now, as in the nineties, the sound principles established by the founders still serve to endow customer relationships at The Northern Trust Company with a warm feeling of mutual confidence.

The complete, modern facilities of The Northern Trust Company include the Savings Department, the Banking Department for commercial and personal checking accounts, the Trust Department, and the Bond Department. Also available is the protection offered by The Northern Trust Safe Deposit Company.

Stocks, Bonds

Loft's again led in volume for the day. It rose ½ point to 10¼.

Rail stocks resisted the selling for a time, but later followed the rest of the list. Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Atlantic Coast Line, and Chesapeake and Ohio were in supply in this group. New York Central was an exception, edging ⅛ point higher on substantial support.

Power and light shares moved fractionally lower, with interest at a minimum. In the chemicals, Allied and du Pont were hard hit, slumping 3½ and 2 points, respectively.

Oils declined fractionally. Heavy machinery issues showed losses running to 1½ points in Westinghouse.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 9.—(AP)—The bond market today backed down a little more from the high marks of the late December rally. Some corporate loans resisted the trend and closed higher, but the major drift was down from the start. Many trading favorites closed 1 to around 2 points lower.

Loss of ground was due to a contraction in buying interest rather than pressure of selling, indicating this was the drop in volume to $6,402,900, the smallest since Dec. 5, from $7,699,300 Friday.

Most of the United States government issues edged up to the 1939 highs, with gains of 1/32 to 3/32s. Dealings were small.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks dipped yesterday in htin trading. Only 37,000 shares were sold. The Tribune average of 20 stocks finished at 11.43, off 0.15 from the preceding close.

Volume leaders were mostly lower. Middle West closed at 7⅛, off ⅛. Commonwealth Edison dipped ¼ at 27½. Chicago corporation preferred slipped ¼ to 35½. Armour & Co. was down ⅛ at 5¼.

Bank Stocks.

Slight changes were recorded yestexday in Chicago bank stocks, dealers reported. Shares of the Chicago Title and Trust company and the Harris Trust company declined $1. An advance of $1 was made by stocks of the City National Bank and Trust company and the Northern Trust company. Others were unchanged.

TITLE & TRUST ELECTS THREE NEW DIRECTORS

Other Banks Also Hold Annual Meetings.

Three new members were elected to the board of directors of Chicago Title and Trust company at a stockholders' meeting yesterday. The board was increased from fifteen to seventeen members. Stockholders of the Personal Loan and Savings bank, the I-C National bank of Chicago, and the Orland State bank, Orland, also elected one or more new directors.

James H. Douglas, one of new directors. [Moffett Photo.]

The new Chicago Title and Trust directors are James H. Douglas, Chester R. Davis, and Kenneth E. Rice. Douglas fills the vacancy created by the death of Nobel Brandon Judah. Davis and Rice are the additions to the board. Douglas, former assistant secretary of the United States treasury, is a member of the law firm of Gardner, Carton & Douglas. He held the treasury post in 1932 and 1933.

Five Directors Reëlected.

Davis, vice president and trust officer of the company, has been with the organization since 1922. Rice, vice president and manager of the title division, joined the company in 1909. Both Davis and Rice are members of the Chicago, Illinois state, and American Bar associations. Five directors whose terms expired and who were reëlected to succeed themselves were Amos C. Miller, Hugo Sonnenschein, Judson F. Stone, Donald Riley, and William Scott Bond.

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Personal Loan and Savings bank, Adlai E. Stevenson and Graham K. McCorkle were elected to the board of directors. They succeed Henry M. Dawes and George E. Scott. Stevenson is with the law firm of Cutting, Moore & Sidley. McCorkle is vice president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company. All the other directors were reëlected.

Daniel On Orland Bank Board.

Elmer Daniel was elected a member of the board of directors of the Orland State bank at Orland. His father, the late Louis P. Daniel, for many years was a vice president and director of the bank. All officers of the bank were reëlected at a meeting of the directors.

Northern Trust company stockholders reëlected all directors. Officers will be elected at a directors' meeting today.

Percy E. Crouch, cashier of the I-C National Bank of Chicago, was elected to the bank's board of directors. All officers were reëlected.

Business Bits

W. J. Jenkins, president of the Consolidated Coal company of St. Louis, has been selected national chairman of the program committee for the coal convention and exposition of the American Mining congress. The meeting will be held in Cincinnati, O. April 24-28. Jenkins is former president of the Illinois Coal Operators association and the Illinois Mining institute.

George S. Hirschland and Dominic W. Rich have been named directors of the New York Hanseatic corporation [investment firm]. Rich also was elected executive vice president and Walter Oppenheim, former vice president, was named treasurer.

The Zimmerman agency of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company has announced the appointment of Edwin S. Hewitt and William H. Siegmund as agency managers.

GOV. HEIL URGES END TO MEDDLING WITH BUSINESS

Government meddling in business must stop if more jobs are to be created, Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin said last night at a meeting in the Merchants and Manufacturers' club at the Merchandise Mart. He addressed members of the club and furniture men attending the two-week home furnishings exhibit in the Mart.

"All government hindrances and political cussedness that today rest upon industry must be brought to an end," the governor said. "Industry must be free to expand and enlarge. Regulation can ruin more easily than it can regulate. Industry and business in America are being hurt through meddling."

Mayor Kelly was present to welcome Gov. Heil, a Milwaukee manufacturer who in his first venture into politics was elected to succeed Philip F. La Follette. Heil, a Republican, took the oath of office Jan. 2.

WHEAT RECEDES AS RAINS BREAK DROUTH IN WEST

Drouth conditions which menaced the winter wheat crop in the west and southwest were largely relieved by heavy rains over the week-end. Reports from parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas indicated sufficient moisture in some sections to prevent further deterioration.

Fairly general selling of wheat futures developed yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices declined about ¾ cent before the break was checked. Offerings of May wheat were absorbed at 68⅝ cents a bushel on resting orders. Half of the early decline was recovered late in the session on buying of local operators. The close was ⅝ cent lower.

STEEL OUTPUT UP TO 51.7 PCT. FOR THIS WEEK

Steel mill production of ingots this week will rise 1 point to 51.7 per cent of theoretical capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday.

The gain was the second consecutive weekly rise from a low of 38.8 per cent touched during the week beginning Dec. 27, the New Year's holiday week.

NAZIS WIN TRADE BY TRICKS, BUT FACE REACTION

from South America. Also, the use of aski marks has given the Germans a convenient means of delaying payment.

Aski marks are not a very complicated device. The Brazilian cotton exporter, for example, will be paid in aski marks. He sells to a Nazi buyer, because the German pays him a higher price than other buyers. Where the equivalent of three ordinary or "official" marks might be paid [the official mark is worth 40 American cents], the Nazis will pay 4 aski marks—or 33 per cent more. Sometimes they will pay even more.

The peculiar feature of aski marks, however, is that the Brazilian cannot turn them into his own currency at the official rate for the mark. The aski marks can be used only to buy German goods. So the Brazilian exporter sells his aski marks to some one who wants to buy German goods or to the Brazalian central bank.

Sells Them to Bank.

In practice, he will usually sell them to the bank, which keeps a clearing account for the aski marks. The bank buys them from exporters and sells them to Brazilian importers who use the aski marks to buy German goods.

Because of their limited use, however, aski marks sell at a discount. And because Germans have bought more goods from Latin Americans than the Latin Americans have bought from the Germans the central banks are overloaded with aski marks. Brazilians and others who were at first glad to sell for aski marks found that the Nazis often were conveniently unable to deliver the products that the Latins wanted to buy with the marks.

Brazil's central bank became so stuffed with aski marks last June that it refused to buy them except in limited amounts from Brazilian exporters until some of the aski marks could be liquidated by sale to Brazilian importers needing them for purchases. The restrictions, however, were removed by the bank in November.

Banks Are Strained.

South American central banks have thus been strained by having to buy aski marks, which proceeded to become frozen in their hands. South American exports furthermore, have found their sales to Germany not all to the good. Germans have bought grain, meat, and coffee in such large quantities that they have had some left over. These goods the Nazis have sold in other markets for good money which they can convert into American dollars or British pounds. This practice has crowded South Americans out of what were once their own markets for the raw materials.

How long Germany can keep on with these trick devices is questionable. Even at the present time, however, the gains in South America have not given Germany a source which can supply a major part of her needs. After her intensive trade drive, which left many debts in the form of frozen aski marks, Germany in 1937 was selling only 9 per cent of Nazi exports in South America and bought only 13 per cent of her imported goods from that continent.

Nazis Face Problem.

The Nazis, moreover, face the continuing threat that the Latin-American states may turn thumbs down on her aski marks, delayed payments, and refusals to sell the goods needed by South Americans.

The United States outlawed the aski mark plan in this country in 1936, because its use constituted "dumping" of German goods at low prices in competition with American products. Since then Germans have had to pay for purchases either in foreign exchange or American dollars or use a direct private barter basis.

An example of such a transaction was a recent deal whereby a big corporation in this country used cotton to buy a large order of German chicken wire netting. The corporation here found a cotton exporter to ship the cotton to a German cotton importer. The Nazi importer bought the chicken wire from a German manufacturer and used it to pay for the cotton. When the deal was completed the American wire buyer had obtained wire from the Nazis at a net cost of some 20 per cent less than the domestic price in the United States.

TREASURY AGAIN MAKES PROFIT ON SHORT FINANCING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—(AP)—For the third successive week the treasury has borrowed short term money at a profit.

It announced tonight it had accepted $101,341,000 of bids to buy 91-day treasury bills at par or above par. This means that purchasers of the bills will lend the treasury money for three months either without compensation, or will pay slight amounts for the privilege of lending the money.
